On my return to the Embassy I received your telephonic communication relating to the German ultimatum addressed to Belgium. I immediately communicated it to Sir Edward Grey.

No. 144.

M. Paul Cambon, French Ambassador at London, to M. René Viviani, President of the Council, Minister for Foreign Affairs.

London, August 3, 1914.

JUST as Sir Edward Grey was starting this morning for the meeting of the Cabinet. my German colleague, who had already seen him yesterday, came to press him to say that the neutrality of England did not depend upon respecting Belgian neutrality. Sir Edward Grey refused all conversation on this matter.

The German Ambassador has sent to the press a communique saying that if England remained neutral Germany would give up all naval operations and would not make use of the Belgian coast as a point d appui. My answer is that respecting the coast is not respecting the neutrality of the territory, and that the German ultimatum is already a violation of this neutrality.

M. Paul Cambon, French Ambassador at London, to M. René Viviani, President of the Council, Minister for Foreign Affairs.

London, August 3, 1914.

SIR EDWARD GREY has made the statement regarding the intervention of the English fleet. He has explained, in considering the situation, what he proposed to do with regard to Belgian neutrality; and the reading of a letter from King Albert asking for the support of England has deeply stirred the House.

The House will this evening vote the credit which is asked for; from this moment its support is secured to the policy of the Government, and it follows public opinion which is declaring itself more and more in our favour.

Paris, August 3, 1914.

I AM told that the German Ambassador is said to have stated to the Foreign Office that yesterday morning eighty French officers in Prussian uniform had attempted to cross the German frontier in twelve motor cars at Walbeck, to the west of Geldern and that this formed a very serious violation of neutrality on the part of France.

Be good enough urgently to contradict this news which is pure invention, and to draw the attention of the Foreign Office to the German campaign of false news which is beginning.

No. 147.

Letter handed by the German Ambassador to M. René Viviani, President of the Council, Minister for Foreign Affairs, during his farewell audience. August 3, 1914, at 6-45 P. M.

M. le Président,

THE German administrative and military authorities have established a certain number of flagrantly hostile acts committed on German territory by French military aviators. Several of these have openly violated the neutrality of Belgium by flying over the territory of that country; one has attempted to destroy buildings near Wesel; others have been seen in the district of the Eifel, one has thrown bombs on the railway near Carlsruhe and Nuremberg.

I am instructed, and I have the honour to inform your Excellency, that in the presence of these acts of aggression the German Empire considers itself in a state of war with France in consequence of the acts of this latter Power.

At the same time I have the honour to bring to the knowledge of your Excellency that the German authorities will detain French mercantile vessels in German ports, but they will release them if, within forty-eight hours, they are assured of complete reciprocity.

My diplomatic mission having thus come to an end it only remains for me to request your Excellency to be good enough to furnish me with my passports, and to take the steps you consider suitable to assure my return to Germany, with the staff of the Embassy, as well as with the staff of the Bavarian Legation and of the German Consulate-General in Paris.

Be good enough, M. le Président, to receive the assurances of my deepest respect.

(Signed) SCHOEN.

M. René Viviani, President of the Council, Minister for Foreign Affairs, to the French Representative abroad.

Paris, August 3, 1914.

THE German Ambassador has asked for his passports and is leaving this evening with the staffs of the Embassy, the German Consulate-General and the Bavarian Legation. Baron von Schoen has given as his reason the establishment by the German administrative and military authorities of acts of hostility which are said to have been committed by French military aviators accused of having flown over territory of the Empire and thrown bombs. The Ambassador adds that the aviators are said to have also violated the neutrality of Belgium by flying over Belgian territory. "In the presence of these acts of aggression," says the letter of Baron von Schoen, "the German Empire considers itself in a state of war with France in consequence of the acts of this latter Power."

I formally challenged the inaccurate allegations of the Ambassador, and for my part I reminded him that I had yesterday addressed to him a note protesting against the flagrant violations of the France Frontier Committee two days ago by detachments of German troops.

I REQUEST you to ask for your passports and to leave Berlin at once with the staff of the Embassy leaving the charge of French interests and the care of the archives to the Spanish Ambassador. I request you at the same time to protest in writing against the violation of the neutrality of Luxemburg by German troops, of which notice has been given by the Prime Minister of Luxemburg; against the ultimatum addressed to the Belgian Government by the German Minister at Brussels to force upon them the violation of Belgian neutrality and to require of that country that she should facilitate military operations against France on Belgian territory; finally against the false allegation of an alleged projected invasion of these two countries by French armies by which he has attemped to justify the state of war which he declares henceforth exists between Germany and France.

THE Chief of the Cabinet of the Ministry of Foreign Affairs sends me a letter by which "the Government of the King declare that they are firmly decided to resist the aggression of Germany by all means in their power." Belgium appeals to England, France and Russia to co-operate as guarantors in the defence of her territory.

"There would be a concerted and common action having as its object the resistance of forcible measures employed by Germany against Belgium, and at the same time to guarantee the maintenance of the independence and integrity of Belgium in the future."

"Belgium is glad to be able to declare that she will ensure the defence of her fortified places."

No. 155.

M. Bapst, French Minister at Copenhagen, to M. Doumergue, Minister for Foreign Affairs.

Copenhagen, August 6, 1914.

THE French Ambassador at Berlin asks me to communicate to your Excellency the following telegram :—

"I have been sent to Denmark by the German Government. I have just arrived at Copenhagen. I am accompanied by all the staff of the Embassy and the Russian Chargé d' Affaires at Darmstadt with his family." The treatment which we have received is of such a nature that I have thought it desirable to make a complete report on it to your Excellency by telegram.

On the morning of Monday, the 3rd August, after I had, in accordance with your instructions, addressed to Herr von Jagow a protest against the acts of aggression committed on French territory by German troops, the Secretary of State came to see me. Herr von Jagow came to complain of acts of aggression which he alleged had been committed in Germany, especially at Nuremberg and Coblenz by French aviators who, according to his statement, "had come from Belgium." I answered that I had not the slightest information as to the facts to which he attached so much importance and the improbability of which seemed to me obvious; on my part I asked him if he had read the note which I had addressed to him with regard to the invasion of our territory by detachments of the German army. As the Secretary of State said that he had not yet read this note, I explained its contents to him. I called his attention to the act committed by the officer commanding one of the detachments, who had advanced to the French village of Joncherey, ten kilometres within our frontier, and had blown out the brains of a French soldier whom he had met there. After having given my opinion of this act, I added, "You will admit that under no circumstances could there be any comparison between this and the flight of an aeroplane over foreign territory carried out by private persons animated by that spirit of individual courage by which aviators are distinguished.

"An act of aggression committed on the territory of a neighbour by detachments of regular troops commanded by officers assumes an importance of quite a different nature."

Herr von Jagow explained to me that he had no knowledge of the facts of which I was speaking to him, and he added that it was difficult for events of this kind not to take place when two armies filled with the feelings which animated our troops found themselves face to face on either side of the frontier.

At this moment the crowds which thronged the Pariser Platz in front of the Embassy and whom we could see through the window of my study, which was half-open, uttered shouts against France. I asked the Secretary of State when all this would come to an end.

"The Government has not yet come to a decision," Herr von Jagow answered. "It is probable to Herr von Schoen will receive orders to-day to ask for his passports and then you will receive yours." The Secretary of State assured me that I need not have any anxiety with regard to my departure, and that all the proprieties would be observed with regard to me as well as my staff. We were not to see one another any more, and we took leave of one another after an interview which had been courteous and could not make me anticipate what was in store for me.

Before leaving Herr von Jagow I expressed to him my wish to make a personal call on the Chancellor, as that would be the last opportunity that I should have of seeing him.

Herr von Jagow answered that he did not advise me to carry out this intention as this interview would serve no purpose and could not fail to be painful.

At 6 o'clock in the evening Herr von Langwerth brought me my passports. In the name of his Government he refused to agree to the wish which I expressed to him that I should be permitted to travel by Holland or Belgium. He suggested to me that I should go either by way of Copenhagen, although he could not assure me a free passage by sea, or through Switzerland vid Constance.

I accepted this last route; Herr von Langwerth having asked me to leave as soon as I possibly could it was agreed, in consideration of the necessity I was under of making arrangements with the Spanish Ambassador, who was undertaking the charge of our interests, that I should leave on the next day, the 4th August, at 10 o'clock at night.

At 7 o'clock, an hour after Herr von Langwerth had left, Herr von Lancken, formerly Councillor of the Embassy at Paris, came from the Minister for Foreign Affairs to tell me to request the staff of my Embassy to cease taking meals in the restaurants. This order was so strict that on the next day, Tuesday, I had to have recourse to the authority of the Wilhelmstrasse to get the Hotel Bristol to send our meals to the Embassy.

At 11 o'clock on the same evening, Monday, Herr von Langwerth came back to tell me that his Government would not allow our return by way of Switzerland under the pretext that it would take three days and three nights to take me to Constance. He announced that I should be sent by way of Vienna. I only agreed to this alteration under reserve, and during the night I wrote the following letter to Herr von Langwerth :—

Berlin, August 3, 1914.

" M. LE BARON—

I HAVE been thinking over the route for my return to my country about which you came to speak to me this evening. You propose that I shall travel by Vienna. I run the risk of finding myself detained in that town, if not by the action of the Austrian Government, at least owing to the mobilisation which creates great difficulties similar to those existing in Germany as to the movements of trains.

Under these circumstances, I must ask the German Government for a promise made on their honour that the Austrian Government will send me to Switzerland and that the Swiss Government will not close its frontier either to me or to the persons by whom I am accompanied, as I am told that that frontier has been firmly closed to foreigners.

I cannot then accept the proposal that you have made to me unless I have the security which I ask for, and unless I am assured that I shall not be detained for some months outside my country.

JULES CAMBON."

IN answer to this letter on the next morning, Tuesday, the 4th August. Herr von Langwerth gave me in writing an assurance that the Austrian and Swiss authorities had received communications to this effect.

At the same time M. Miladowski, attached to the Consulate at Berlin, as well as other Frenchmen, was arrested in his own house while in bed. M. Miladowski, for whom a diplomatic passport had been requested, was released after four hours.

I was preparing to leave for Vienna when at a quarter to five, Herr von Langwerth came back to inform me that I would have to leave with the persons accompanying me at 10 o'clock in the evening, but that I should be taken to Denmark. On this new requirement I asked if I should be confined in a fortress supposing I did not comply. Herr von Langwerth simply answered that he would return to receive my answer in half an hour. I did not wish to give the German Government the pretext for saying that I had refused to depart from Germany. I therefore told Herr von Langwerth when he came back that I would submit to the order which had been given to me, but " that I protested."

I at once wrote to Herr von Jagow a letter, of which the following is a copy :—

Berlin, August 4, 1914.

" SIR,

MORE than once your Excellency has said to me that the Imperial Government, in accordance with the usages of international courtesy, would facilitate my return to my own country and would give me every means of getting back to it quickly.

" Yesterday, however, Baron von Langwerth, after refusing me access to Belgium and Holland, informed me that I should travel to Switzerland vid Constance. During the night I was informed that I should be sent to Austria, a country which is taken part in the present war on the side of Germany. As I had no knowledge of the intentions of Austria towards me, since on Austrian soil I am nothing but an ordinary private individual, I wrote to Baron von Langwerth that I requested the Imperial Government to give me a promise that the Imperial and Royal Austrian authorities would give me all possible facilities for continuing my journey and that Switzerland would not be closed to me. Herr von Langwerth has been good enough to answer me in writing that I could be assured of an easy journey and that the Austrian authorities would do all that was necessary.

"It is nearly five o'clock, and Baron von Langwerth has just announced to me that I shall be sent to Denmark. In view of the present situation there is no security that I shall find a ship to take me to England, and it is this consideration which made me reject this proposal, with the approval of Her von Langwerth.

"In truth no liberty is left me, and I am treated almost as a prisoner. I am obliged to submit, having no means of obtaining that the rules of international courtesy should be observed towards me, but I hasten to protest to your Excellency against the manner in which I am being treated.

JULES CAMBON."

Whilst my letter was being delivered I was told that the journey would not be made direct, but by way of Schleswig. At 10 o'clock in the evening I left the Embasy with my staff in the middle of a great assembly of foot and mounted police.

At the station the Ministry for Foreign Affairs was only represented by an officer of inferior rank.

The journey took place with extreme slowness. We took more than twenty-four hours to reach the frontier. It seemed that at every station they had to wait for orders to proceed. I was accompanied by Major von Rheinbaben of the Alexandra Regiment of the Guard and by a police officer. In the neighbourhood of the Kiel Canal the soldiers entered our carriages. The windows were shut and the curtains of the carriages drawn down; each of us had to remain insolated in his compartment and was forbidden to get up or to touch his luggage. A soldier stood in the corridor of the carriage before the door of each of our compartments which were kept open, revolver in hand and finger on the trigger, The Russian Chargé d'Affaires, the women and children and everyone were subjected to the same treatment.

At the last German station, about 11 o'clock at night, Major von Rheinbaben came to take leave of me. I handed to him the following letter to Herr von Jagow.

Wednesday Evening, August 5, 1914.

"SIR,

YESTERDAY, before leaving Berlin, I protested in writing to your Excellency against the repeated change of route which was imposed upon me by the Imperial Government on my journey from Germany.

"To-day, as the train in which I was passed over the Kiel Canal an attempt was made to search all our luggage as if we might have hidden some instrument of destruction. Thanks to the interference of Major von Rheinbaben, we were spared this insult. But they went further.

"They obliged us to remain each in his own compartment, the windows and blinds have been closed. During this time, in the corridors of the carriages at the door of each compartment and facing each one of us stood a soldier, revolver in hand, finger on the trigger, for nearly half an hour.

"I consider it my duty to protest against this threat of violence to the Ambassador of the Republic and the staff of his Embassy, violence which nothing could even have made me anticipate. Yesterday I had the honour of writing to your Excellency that I was being treated almost as a prisoner. To-day I am being treated as a dangerous prisoner. Also I must record that during our journey which from Rerlin to Denmark has taken twenty-four hours, no food has been prepered nor provided for me nor for the persons who were travelling with me to the frontier.

JULES CAMBON."

I thought that our troubles had finished, when shortly afterwards Major von Rheinbaben came, rather embarrassed, to inform me that the train would not proceed to the Danish frontier if I did not pay the cost of this train. I expressed my astonishment that I had not been made to pay at Berlin and that at any rate I had not been forewarned of this. I offered to pay by a cheque on one of the largest Berlin banks. This facility was refused me. With the help of my companions I was able to collect, in gold, the sum which was required from me at once, and which amounted to 3,611 marks 75 pfennig. This is about 5,000 francs in accordance with the present rate of exchange.*

* Subsequently the sum thus required from M. Jules Cambon was given to the Spanish Ambassador to be repaid to the French Ambassador.

After this last incident, I thought it necessary to ask Major von Rheinbaben for his word of honour as an officer and a gentleman that we should be taken to the Danish frontier. He gave it to me, and I required that the policeman who was with us should accompany us.

In this way we arrived at the first Danish station, where the Danish Government had had a train made ready to take us to Copenhagen.

I am assured that my English colleague and the Belgian Minister, although they left Berlin after I did, travelled by the direct route to Holland. I am struck by this difference of treatment, and as Denmark and Norway are, at this moment, infested with spies, if I succeed in embarking in Norway, there is a danger that I may be arrested at sea with the officials who accompany me.

I do not wish to conclude this despatch without notifying your Excellency of the energy and devotion of which the whole staff of the Embassy has given unceasing proof during the course of this crisis. I shall be glad that account should be taken of the services which on this occasion have been rendered to the Government of the Republic, in particular by the Secretaries of the Embassy and by the Military and Naval Attachés.

M. Mollard, French Minister at Luxemburg, to M. Doumergue, Minister for Foreign Affairs.

Paris, August 5, 1914.

THE Minister of State came to see me at the Legation this morning, Tuesday, 4th August, 1914, at about half-past eight o'clock, in order to notify me that the German military authorities required my departure. On my answering that I would only give way to force M. Eyschen said that he understood my feelings in this matter, and it was just for that reason that he had himself come to make this communication which cost him so much, for it was just because force was used that he asked me to leave. He added that he was going to bring me written proof of this.

I did not conceal from M. Eyschen the grief and anxiety which I had in leaving my fellow-countrymen without defence, and asked him to be good enough to undertake their protection; this he promised to do.

Just as he was leaving he handed me the enclosed letter (Enclosure I) which is the answer of the Luxemburg Government to the declaration which I had made the evening before, according to telegraphic instructions of M. Viviani.

About 10 o'clock, the Minister of State came again to the Legation and left me with a short note from himself, a certified copy of the letter which the German Minister had addressed to him on the subject of my departure from Luxemburg. (Enclosures II and III.)

At the same time he told me that he had informed Herr von Buch that the Luxemburg Government would be entrusted with the protection of the French and would have charge of the Legation and the Chancery. This news did not seem to be agreeable to my German colleague, who advised M. Eyschen to move me to entrust this responsibility to the Belgian Minister. I explained to the Minister of State that the situation was peculiar. As I was accredited to Her Royal Highness the Grand Duches, and as my country was not in a state of war with Luxemburg, it was in these circumstances clearly indicated that it should be the Luxemberg Government which should look after the safety of my fellow-countrymen. M. Eyschen did not insist, and again accepted the service which I entrusted to him.

The Minister of State then asked me to be good enough to leave quietly in order to avoid any demonstration, which, as he said, would not fail to bring about reprisals on the part of the German military authorities against the French. I answered that I attached too much value to the safety of my countrymen to compromise it and that he had nothing to fear.

My departure, which was required to take place as soon as possible, was fixed for two o'clock; it was at the same time understood that I should leave in my motor car. As to a safe conduct, M. Eyschen told me that the German Minister was at that very moment at the German headquarters to ask for it, and that he would take care that I received it in good time.

At a quarter past two the Minister of State accompanied by M. Henrion, Councillor of the Government, came to take leave of me and to receive the keys of the Legation and those of the Chancery.

He told me that orders had been given for my free passage, and that I must make for Arlon by way of the Merle, Mamers and Arlon roads. He added that a German officer would wait for me at the Merle road in order to go in front of my motor car.

I then left the Legation and made my way to Arlon by the road which had been determined on, but I did not meet anyone.

Your Excellency will have the goodness to find the enclosed text of the letter which I sent to the Minister of State before leaving my post. (Enclosure IV.)

MOLLARD.

ENCLOSURE I.

M. Eyschen, Minister of State, President of the Government to M. Mollard French Envoy Extraordinary and Minister Plenipotentiary at Luxemburg.

Luxemburg, August 4, 1914.

SIR,

IN an oral communication made yesterday evening, your Excellency has had the goodness to bring to my knowledge that in accordance with the Treaty of London of 1867, the Government of the Republic intended to respect the neutrality of the Grand Duchy of Luxemburg as they had shown by their attitude, but that the violation of this neutrality by Germany was nevertheless of such a kind as to compel France henceforth to be influenced in this matter by the care for her defence and her interests.

You will allow me to point out clearly that the decision of the Government of the Republic is based solely on the act of a third Power for which in truth the Grand Duchy is not responsible.

The rights of Luxemburg must then remain intact.

The German Empire has formally declared that only a temporary occupation of Luxemburg entered into their intentions.

I am glad to believe that the Government of the Republic will have no difficulty in establishing with me the fact that at all times and in all circumstances the Grand Duchy has fully and loyally fulfilled all the obligations of every kind which rested on it in virtue of the Treaty of 1867.

I remain, etc.,

EYSCHEN,

Minister of State, President of the Government.

ENCLOSURE II.

Private letter from M. Eyschen, Minister of State, President of the Government, to M. Mollard, French Minister at Luxemburg.

SIR,

A SHORT time ago I had, with very great regret, to inform you of the intentions of General von Fuchs with regard to your sojourn in Luxemburg.

As I had the honour to tell you, I asked for confirmation in writing of the decision taken by the military authorities in this matter.

Enclosed is a letter which I have at this moment received from the German Minister.

He has assured me that in carrying out this step that there will be no want of the respect due to your position and person.

Be good enough to receive the renewed expressions of my regret and my deep regard.

EYSCHEN.

ENCLOSURE III.

To His Excellency the Minister of State, Dr. Eyschen

YOUR EXCELLENCY,

IN accordance with the instructions of His Excellency General Fuchs, I have the honour to ask you to be good enough to request the French Minister, M. Mollard, to leave Luxemburg as soon as possible and to return to France; otherwise the German military authorities would find themselves under the painful necessity of placing M. Mollard under the charge of a military escort and in the last extremity of proceeding to his arrest.

I beg your Excellency to have the goodness on this occasion to receive the assurance of my deepest regard.

VON BUCH.

ENCLOSURE IV.

M. Mollard, French Minister at Luxemburg, to His Excellency M. Eyschen, Minister of State, President of the Government of Luxemburg.

Luxemburg, August 4, 1914

SIR,

I HAVE just received your communication and I submit to force.

Before leaving Luxemburg it is my duty to provide for the fortunes and safety of my fellow-countrymen. Knowing the spirit of justice and equity of the Luxemburg Government, I have the honour to ask your Excellency to take them under your protection, and to watch over the safety of their lives and goods.

At the same time I will ask your Excellency to take charge of the Legation and the offices of the Chancery.

I should be much obliged to your Excellency if you would be good enough to lay before Her Royal Highness the Grand Duchess the expression of my deepest respect, and my excuses for not having been able myself to express them to her.

In thanking you for all the marks of sympathy which you have given me I beg you to receive renewed assurances of my deep regard.

Notification by the French Government to the Representatives of the Powers at Paris.

THE German Imperial Government, after having allowed its armed forces to cross the frontier, and to permit various acts of murder and pillage on French territory; after having violated the neutrality of the Grand Duchy of Luxemburg in defiance of the stipulations of the Convention of London, 11th May 1867, and of Convention V. of the Hague, 18th October 1907, on the rights and duties of Powers and persons in case of war on land (Articles 1 and 2), Conventions which have been signed by the German Government; after having addressed an ultimatum to the Royal Government of Belgium with the object of requiring passage for German troops through Belgian territory in violation of the Treaties of the 19th April 1839, which had been signed by them, and in violation of the above Convention of the Hague.

Message from M. Poincaré, President of the Republic, read at the Extraordinary Session of Parliament, August 4, 1914.

(Journal Officiel of the 5th August 1914.)

(The Chamber rises and remains standing during the reading of the message.)

"GENTLEMEN,

"FRANCE has just been the object of a violent and premeditated attack, which is an insolent defiance of the law of nations. Before any declaration of war had been sent to us, even before the German Ambassador had asked for his passports, our territory has been violated. The Germrn Empire has waited till yesterday evening to give at this late stage the true name to a state of things which it had already created.

"For more than forty years the French, in sincere love of peace, have buried at the bottom of their heart the desire for legitimate reparation.

"They have given to the world the example of a great nation which, definitely raised from defeat by the exercise of will, patience and labour, has only used its renewed and rejuvenated strength in the interest of progress and for the good of humanity.

"Since the ultimatum of Austria opened a crisis which threatened the whole of Europe, France has persisted in following and in recommending on all sides the policy of prudence, wisdom and moderation.

"To her there can be imputed no act, no movement, no word, which has not been peaceful and conciliatory.

"At the hour when the struggle is beginning, she has the right, in justice to herself, of solemnly declaring that she has made, up to the last moment, supreme efforts to avert the war now about to break out, the crushing responsibility for which the German Empire will have to bear before history. (Unanimous and repeated applause.)

"On the very morrow of the day when we and our allies were publicly expressing our hope of seeing negotiations which had been begun under the auspices of the London Cabinet carried to a peaceful conclusion, Germany suddenly declared war upon Russia, she has invaded the territory of Luxemburg, she has outrageously insulted the noble Belgian nation (loud and unanimous applause), our neighbour and our friend, and attempted treacherously to fall upon us while we were in the midst of diplomatic conversation. (Fresh and repeated unanimous applause.)

"But France was watching. As alert as she was peaceful, she was prepared, and our enemies will meet on their path our valiant covering troops, who are at their post and will provide the screen behind which the mobilisation of our national forces will be methodically completed.

"Our fine and courageous army which France to-day accompanies with her maternal thought (loud applause) has risen eager to defend the honour of the flag and the soil of the country. (Unanimous and repeated applause.)

"The President of the Republic interpreting the unanimous feeling of the country, expresses to our troops by land and sea the admiration and confidence of every Frenchman. (Loud and prolonged applause.)

"Closely united in a common feeling, the nation will persevere with the cool self-restraint of which, since the beginning of the crisis, she has given daily proof Now, as always, she will know how to narmonise the most noble daring and most ardent enthusiasm with that self-control which is the sign of enduring energy and is the best guarantee of victory. (Applause.)

"In the war which is beginning France will have right on her side, the eternal power of which cannot with impunity be disregarded by nations any more than by individuals. (Loud and unanimous applause.)

"She will be heroically defended by all her sons; nothing will break their sacred union before the enemy; to-day they are joined together as brothers in a common indignation against the aggressor; and in a common patriotric faith. (Loud and prolonged applause and cries of 'Vive la France'.)

"She is faithfully helped by Russia, her ally (loud and unanimous applause); she is supported by the loyal friendship of England (loud and unanimous applause).

"And already from every part of the civilised world sympathy and good wishes are coming to her. For to-day once again she stands before the universe for liberty, justice and reason (loud and repeated applause) 'Haut les cœurs et vive la France' (unanimous and prolonged applause).

Speech delivered by M. René Viviani, President of the Council, in the Chamber of Deputies, August 4, 1914.

(Journal Officiel, August 5, 1914.)

M. René Viviani, President of the Council.

GENTLEMEN,

The German Ambassador yesterday left Paris after notifying us of the existence of a state of war.

The Government owe to Parliament a true account of the events which in less than ten days have unloosed a European war and compelled France, peaceful and valiant, to defend her frontier against an attack, the hateful injustice of which is emphasised by its calculated unexpectedness.

This attack, which has no excuse, and which began before we were notified of any declaration of war, is the last act of a plan, whose origin and object I propose to declare before our own democracy and before the opinion of the civilised world.

As a consequence of the abominable crime which cost the Austro-Hungarian Heir-Apparent and the Duchess of Hohenburg their lives, difficulties arose between the Cabinets of Vienna and Belgrade.

The majority of the Powers were only semi-officially informed of these difficulties up till Friday, July 24th, the date on which the Austro-Hungarian Ambassadors communicated to them a circular which the press has published.

The object of this circular was to explain and justify an ultimatum delivered the evening before to Servia by the Austro-Hungarian Minister at Belgrade.

This ultimatum in alleging the complicity of numerous Servian subjects and associations in the Serajevo crime, hinted that the official Servian authorities themselves were no strangers to it. It demanded a reply from Servia by 6 o'clock on the evening of Saturday, July 25th.

The Austrian demands, or at any rate many of them, without doubt struck a blow at the rights of a sovereign State. Notwithstanding their excessive character, Servia, on July 25th, declared that she submitted to them almost without reserve.

This submission, which constituted a success for Austria-Hungary, a guarantee for the peace of Europe, was not unconnected with the advice tendered to Belgrade from the first moment by France, Russia and Great Britain.

The value of this advice was all the greater since the Austro-Hungarian demands had been concealed from the Chanceries of the Triple Entente, to whom in the three preceding weeks the Austro-Hungarian Government had on several occasions given an assurance that their claims would be extremely moderate.

It was, therefore, with natural astonishment that the Cabinets of Paris, St. Petersburg and London learned on 26th July that the Austrian Minister at Belgrade, after a few minutes' examination, declared that the Servian reply was inacceptable, and broke off diplomatic relations.

This astonishment was increased by the fact that on Friday, the 24th, the German Ambassador came and read to the French Minister for Foreign Affairs a note verbale asserting that the Austro-Servian dispute must remain localised, without intervention by the great Powers, or otherwise "incalculable consequences" were to be feared. A similar démarche was made on Saturday, the 25th, at London and at St. Petersburg.

Need I Gentlemen, point out to you the contrast between the threatening expressions used by the German Ambassador at Paris and the conciliatory sentiments which the Powers of the Triple Entente had just manifested by the advice which they give at Servia to submit?

Nevertheless, in spite of the extraordinary character of the German démarche, we immediately, in agreement with our Allies and our friends, took a conciliatory course and invited Germany to join in it.

We have had from the first moment regretfully to recognise that our intentions and our efforts met with no response at Berlin.

Not only did Germany appear wholly unwilling to give to Austria-Hungary the friendly advice which her position gave her the right to offer, but from this moment and still more in the following days, she seemed to intervene between the Cabinet at Vienna and the compromises suggested by the other Powers.

On Tuesday, 28th July, Austria-Hungary declared war on Servia. This declaration of war, with its aggravation of the state of affairs brought about by the rupture of diplomatic relations three days before, gave ground for believing that there was a deliberate desire for war, and a systematic programme for the enslavement of Servia.

Thus there was now involved in the dispute not only the independence of a brave people, but the balance of power in the Balkans, embodied in the Treaty of Bukarest of 1913, and consecrated by the moral support of all the great Powers.

However, at the suggestion of the British Government with its constant and firm attachment to the maintenance of the peace of Europe, the negotiations were continued, or to speak more accurately, the Powers of the Tr ple Entente tried to continue them.

From this common desire sprang the proposal for action by the four Powers, England, France, Germany and Italy, which was intended, by assuring to Austria all legitimate satisfaction, to bring about an equitable adjustment of the dispute.

On Wednesday, the 29th, the Russian Government, noting the persistent failure of these efforts, and faced by the Austrian mobilisation and declaration of war, fearing the military destruction of Servia, decided as a precautionary measure to mobilise the troops of four military districts, that is to say, the formations echeloned along the Austro-Hungarian frontier exclusively.

In taking this step, the Russian Government were careful to inform the German Government that their measures, restricted as they were and without any offensive character towards Austria, were not in any degree directed against Germany.

In a conversation with the Russian Ambassador at Berlin, the German Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs acknowledged this without demur.

On the other hand, all the efforts made by Great Britain, with the adherence of Russia and the support of France, to bring Austria and Servia into touch under the moral patronage of Europe were encountered at Berlin with a predetermined negative of which the diplomatic despatches afford the clearest proof.

This was a disquieting situation which made it probable that there existed at Berlin intentions which had not been disclosed. Some hours afterwards this alarming suspicion was destined to become a certainty.

In fact, Germany's negative attitude gave place thirty-six hours later to positive steps which were truly alarming. On the 31st July Germany, by proclaiming "a state of danger of war," cut the communications between herself and the rest of Europe, and obtained for herself complete freedom to pursue against France in absolute secrecy military preparations which, as you have seen, nothing could justify.

Already for some days, and in circumstances difficult to explain, Germany had prepared for the transition of her army from a peace footing to a war footing.

From the morning of the 25th July, that is to say even before the expiration of the time limit given to Servia by Austria, she had confined to barracks the garrisons of Alsace-Lorraine. The same day she had placed the frontier-works in a complete state of defence. On the 26th, she had indicated to the railways the measures preparatory for concentration. On the 27th, she had completed requisitions and placed her covering troops in position. On the 28th, the summons of individual reservists had begun and units which were distant from the frontier had been brought up to it.

Could all these measures, pursued with implacable method, leave us in doubt of Germany's intentions?

Such was the situation when, on the evening of the 31st July, the German Government, which, since the 24th, had not participated by any active step in the conciliatory efforts of the Triple Entente, addressed an ultimatum to the Russian Government under the pretext that Russia had ordered a general mobilisation of her armies, and demanded that this mobilisation should be stopped within twelve hours.

This demand which was all the more insulting in form because a few hours earlier the Emperor Nicholas II, with a movement at once confiding and spontaneous had asked the German Emperor for his mediation, was put forward at a moment when, on the request of England and with the knowledge of Germany, the Russian Government was accepting a formula of such a nature as to lay the foundation for a friendly settlement of the Austro-Servian dispute and of the Austro-Russian difficulties by the simultaneous arrest of military operations and of military preparations.

The same day this unfriendly démarche towards Russia was supplemented by acts which were frankly hostile towards France; the rupture of communications by road, railway, telegraph and telephone, the seizure of French locomotives on their arrival at the frontier, the placing of machine guns in the middle of the permanent way which had been cut, and the concentration of troops on this frontier.

From this moment we were no longer justified in believing in the sincerity of the pacific declaration which the German representative continued to shower upon us (hear, hear).

We knew that Germany was mobilising under the shelter of the "state of danger of war."

We learnt that six classes of reservists had been called up, and that transport was being collected even for those army corps which were stationed a considerable distance from the frontier.

As these events unfolded themselves, the Government, watchful and vigilant, took from day to day, and even from hour to hour, the measures of precaution which the situation required; the general mobilisation of our forces on land and sea was ordered.

The same evening, at 7-30, Germany, without waiting for the acceptance by the Cabinet of St. Petersburg of the English proposal, which I have already mentioned, declared war on Russia.

The next day, Sunday, the 2nd August, without regard for the extreme moderation of France, in contradiction to the peaceful declarations of the German Ambassador at Paris, and in defiance of the rules of international law, German troops crossed our frontier at three different points.

At the same time, in violation of the Treaty of 1867, which guaranteed with the signature of Prussia the neutrality of Luxemburg, they invaded the territory of the Grand Duchy and so gave cause for a protest by the Luxemburg Government.

Finally, the neutrality of Belgium also was threatened. The German Minister, on the evening of the 2nd August, presented to the Belgian Government an ultimatum requesting facilities in Belgium for military operations against France, under the lying pretext that Belgian neutrality was threatened by us; the Belgian Government refused, and declared that they were resolved to defend with vigour their neutrality, which was respected by France and guaranteed by treaties, and in particular by the King of Prussia. (Unanimous and prolonged applause.)

Since then, Gentlemen, the German attacks have been renewed, multiplied, and accentuated. At more than fifteen points our frontier has been violated. Shots have been fired at our soldiers and Customs officers. Men have been killed and wounded. Yesterday a German military aviator dropped three bombs on Lunéville.

The German Ambassador, to whom as well as to all the great Powers, we communicated these facts, did not deny them or express his regrets for them. On the contrary, he came yesterday evening to ask me for his passports, and to notify us of the existence of a state of war, giving as his reason, in the teeth of all the facts, hostile acts committed by French aviators in German territory in the Eifel district, and even on the railway near Carlsruhe and near Nuremberg. This is the letter which he handed to me on the subject:—

"M. Le Président,

"THE German administrative and military authorities have established a certain number of flagrantly hostile acts committed on German territory by French military aviators. Several of these have openly violated the neutrality of Belgium by flying over the territory of that country; one has attempted to destroy buildings near Wesel; others have been seen in the district of the Eifel, one has thrown bombs on the railway near Carlsruhe and Nuremburg.

"I am instructed, and I have the honour to inform your Excellency, that in the presence of these acts of aggression the German Empire considers itself in a state of war with France in consequence of the acts of this latter Power.

"At the same time, I have the honour to bring to the knowledge of your Excellency that the German authorities will retain French mercantile vessels in German ports, but they will release them if, within forty-eight hours, they are assured of complete reciprocity.

"My diplomatic mission having thus come to an end it only remains for me to request your Excellency to be good enough to furnish me with my passports, and to take the steps you consider suitable to assure my return to Germany, with the staff of the Embassy, as well as with the staff of the Bavarian Legation and of the German Consulate-General in Paris.

"Be good enough, M. le Président, to receive the assurances of my deepest respect.

(Signed) SCHOEN."

Need I, Gentlemen, lay stress on the absurdities of these pretexts which they would put forward as grievances? At no time has any French aviator penetrated into Belgium, nor has any French aviator committed either in Bavaria or any other part of Germany any hostile act. The opinion of Europe has already done justice to these wretched inventions. (Loud and unanimous applause).

Against these attacks, which violate all the laws of justice and all the principles of public law, we have now taken all the necessary steps; they are being carried out strictly, regularly and with calmness.

The mobilisation of the Russian army also continues with remarkable vigour and unrestrained enthusiasm. (Unanimous and prolonged applause, all the deputies rising from their seats.) The Belgian army, mobilised with 250,000 men, prepares with a splendid passion and magnificent ardour to defend the neutrality and independence of their country. (Renewed loud and unanimous applause).

The entire English fleet is mobilised and orders have been given to mobilise the land forces. (Loud cheers, all the deputies rising to their feet).

Since 1912 pourparlers had taken place between English and French General Staffs and were concluded by an exchange of letters between Sir Edward Grey and M. Paul Cambon The Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs yesterday evening communicated these letters to the House of Commons, and I have the honour, with the consent of the British Government, to acquaint you with the contents of these two documents,

FOREIGN OFFICE,

November 22, 1912.

MY DEAR AMBASSADOR,

FROM time to time in recent years the French and British naval and military experts have consulted together. It has always been understood that such consultation does not restrict the freedom of either Government to decide at any future time whether or not to assist the other by armed force. We have agreed that consultation between experts is not, and ought not to be regarded as, an engagement that commits either Government to action in a contingency that has not arisen and may never arise. The disposition, for instance, of the French and British fleets respectively at the present moment is not based upon an engagement to co-operate in war.

You have, however, pointed out that, if either Government had grave reason to expect an unprovoked attack by a third Power it might become essential to know whether it could in that event depend upon the armed assistance of the other.

I agree that, if either Government have reason to expect an unprovoked attack by a third Power, or something that threatened the general peace, it should immediately discuss with the other whether both Governments should act together to prevent aggression and to preserve peace, and, if so, what measures they would be prepared to take in common. If these measures involved action, the plans of the General Staffs would at once be taken into consideration, and the Governments would then decide what effect should be given to them.

Yours, &c.,

E. GREY.

To this letter our Ambassadar, M. Paul Cambon, replied on the 23rd November 1912 :—

London, November 23, 1912.

DEAR SIR EDWARD,

You reminded me in your letter of yesterday, 22nd November, that during the last few years the military and naval authorities of France and Great Britain had consulted with each other from time to time; that it had always been understood that these consultations should not restrict the liberty of either Government to decide in the future whether they should lend each other the support of their armed forces; that, on either side, these consultations between experts were not and should not be considered, as engagements binding our Governments to take action in certain eventualities; that, however, I had remarked to you that; if one or other of the two Governments had grave reasons to fear an unprovoked attack on the part of a third Power, it would become essential to know whether it could count on the armed support of the other.

Your letter answers that point, and I am authorised to state that, in the event of one of our two Governments having grave reason to fear either an act of aggression from a third Power, or some event threatening the general peace, that Government would immediately examine with the other the question whether both Governments should act together in order to prevent the act of aggression or preserve peace. If so, the two Governments would deliberate as to the measures which they would be prepared to take in common; if those measures involved action, the two Governments would take into immediate consideration the plans of their general staffs and would then decide as to the effect to be given to those plans.

Yours, &c.,

PAUL CAMBON.

In the House of Commons the Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs spoke of France amidst the applause of the members in a noble and warm-hearted manner, and his language has already found an echo deep in the hearts of all Frenchmen (loud and unanimous applause). I wish in the name of the Government of the Republic, to thank the English Government from this tribune for their cordial words, and the Parliament of France will associate itself in this sentiment (renewed, prolonged and unanimous applause).

The Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs made in particular the following declaration :—

> "In case the German fleet came into the Channel or entered the North Sea in order to go round the British Isles with the object of attacking the French coasts or the French navy and of harassing French merchant shipping, the English fleet would intervene in order to give to French shipping its complete protection in such a way that from that moment England and Germany would be in a state of war."

From now onwards, the English fleet protects our northern and western coasts against a German attack. Gentlemen, these are the facts. I believe that the simple recital of them is sufficient to justify the acts of the Government of the Republic. I wish, however, to make clear the conclusion to be drawn from my story and to give its true meaning to the unheard-of attack of which France is the victim.

The victors of 1870 have, at different times, as you know, desired to repeat the blows which they dealt us then. In 1875, the war which was intended to complete the destruction of conquered France was only prevented by the intervention of the two powers to whom we were to become united at a later date by ties of alliance and of friendship (unanimous applause), by the intervention of Russia and of Great Britain (prolonged applause, all the deputies rising to their feet).

Since then the French Republic, by the restoration of her national forces and the conclusion of diplomatic agreements unswervingly adhered to, has succeeded in liberating herself from the yoke which, even in a period of profound peace, Bismarck was able to impose upon Europe.

She has re-established the balance of power in Europe, a guarantee of the liberty and dignity of all.

Gentlemen, I do not know if I am mistaken, but it seems to me that this work of peaceful reparation, of liberation and honour finally ratified in 1904 and 1907, with the genial co-operation of King Edward VII of England and the Government of the Crown (applause), this is what the German Empire wishes to destroy to-day by one daring stroke.

Germany can reproach us with nothing.

Bearing in silence in our bosom for half a century the wound which Germany dealt us, we have offered to peace an unprecedented sacrifice (loud and unanimous applause).

We have offered other sacrifices in all the discussions which since 1904 German diplomacy has systematically provoked, whether in Morocco or elsewhere in 1905, in 1906, in 1908, in 1911.

Russia also has given proof of great moderation at the time of the events of 1908, as she has done in the present crisis.

She observed the same moderation and the Triple Entente with her, when in the Eastern crisis of 1912 Austria and Germany formulated demands, whether against Servia or against Greece, which still were, as the events proved, capable of settlement by discussion.

Useless sacrifices, barren negotiations, empty efforts, since to-day in the very act of conciliation we, our allies and ourselves, are attacked by surprise (prolonged applause).

No one can honestly believe that we are the aggressors. Vain is the desire to overthrow the sacred principles of right and of liberty to which nations, as well as individuals, are subject; Italy with that clarity of insight possessed by the Latin intellect, has notified us that she proposes to preserve neutrality (prolonged applause, all the deputies rising to their feet).

This decision has found in all France an echo of sincerest joy. I made myself the interpreter of this feeling to the Italian Chargé d' Affaires when I told him how much I congratulated myself that the two Latin sisters, who have the same origin and the same ideal, a common and glorious past, are not now opposed to one another (renewed applause).

Gentlemen, we proclaim loudly the object of their attack—it is the independence, the honour, the safety, which the Triple Entente has regained in the balance of power for the service of peace. The object of attack is the liberties of Europe, which France, her allies and her friends, are proud to defend (loud applause).

We are going to defend these liberties, for it is they that are in dispute, and all the rest is but a pretext.

France, unjustly provoked, did not desire war; she has done everything to avert it. Since it is forced upon her, she will defend herself against Germany and against every Power which has not yet declared its intentions, but joins with the latter in the conflict between the two countries. (Applause, all the deputies rising to their feet.)

A free and valiant people that sustains an eternal ideal, and is wholly united to defend its existence: a democracy which knows how to discipline its military strength, and was not afraid a year ago to increase its burden as an answer to the armaments of its neighbour; a nation armed, struggling for its own life and for the independence of Europe—here is a sight which we are proud to offer to the onlookers in this desperate struggle, that has for some days been preparing with the greatest calmness and method. We are without reproach. We shall be without fear. (Loud applause, all the deputies rising to their feet.) France has often proved in less favourable circumstances that she is a most formidable adversary when she fights, as she does to-day, for liberty and for right (applause).

In submitting our actions to you, gentlemen, who are our judges, we have to help us in bearing the burden of our heavy responsibility, the comfort of a clear conscience and the conviction that we have done our duty (prolonged applause, all the deputies rising to their feet).

GOVERNMENT OF INDIA.

HOME DEPARTMENT.

POLITICAL.

Delhi, the 13th January 1915.

RESOLUTION.

READ—

The report of the Committee appointed to enquire into the circumstances attending the arrival in India of certain passengers by the steamship Komagata Maru.

On the 29th September 1914, 321 passengers, the great majority of whom were Sikhs, landed at Budge Budge near Calcutta on return from an abortive attempt to enter Canada viâ Vancouver. In consequence of information in the possession of Government, they were met on arrival by representatives of the Bengal and Punjab Governments, who attempted to persuade them to proceed by special train to the Punjab in accordance with orders issued under the Ingress into India Ordinance, 1914. In the case of 62 persons these efforts were successful, but the remaining passengers refused to comply with the orders, and in defiance of the authorities present proceeded to march by road in the direction of Calcutta. They were met en route by a force of police, and subsequently by military accompanied by Sir William Duke, then Member of the Provincial Executive Council. At his instance they returned to Budge Budge. While assembled near the railway station there, pending arrangements for their entrainment, a serious attack was made on the police in which firearms were used by the Sikhs. The police defended themselves using such revolvers as they had, but were overpowered. The assistance of the troops was invoked to quell the riot which ensued, and they opened fire on the rioters who dispersed. In the result 2 Europeans (1 police officer and 1 railway official), 2 Punjab police officers, 2 Indian residents of Budge Budge and 20 Sikhs were killed, and 6 Europeans and 5 Punjab police officers, 1 villager, together with 22 Sikhs and 1 Muhammadan from among the ship's passengers were injured. In connection with this occurrence 211 persons were arrested, while 28* (including the leader, Gurdit Singh) escaped.

* Of these two have been arrested in the Punjab subsequent to the Committee's report.

2. Upon receipt of news of this unfortunate occurrence the Governor-General in Council considered that the circumstances demanded a formal enquiry. He accordingly appointed a Committee of officials and non-officials drawn from Bengal and the Punjab, as the two provinces most closely concerned, composed of the gentlemen named in the margin. The report of that body has now been received, and is herewith published for general information.

Hon'ble Sir W. Vincent, Kt., I.C.S., President.
Hon'ble Maharajadhiraja Sir Bijoy Chand Mahtab, K.C.S.I., K.C.I.E., I.O.M., of Burdwan.
Hon'ble Mr. Fagan, I.C.S. (Punjab).
Hon'ble Sardar Daljit Singh, C.S.I.
H. Walmsley, Esq., I.C.S (Bengal).

3. The Government of India do not propose to attempt a summary or review of the conclusions arrived at. The whole report merits perusal, and the Governor-General in Council regards it as an eminently fair and judicial pronouncement, the findings in which he accepts as just and reasonable. He wishes to convey an expression of his warm appreciation and cordial thanks to all the members of the Committee for the ability and industry which they have brought to bear on their task, and to the two non-official members, in particular, for the time they have bestowed on this public duty.

4. It is not expedient in this connection to enter into a discussion of the merits of the ill-starred voyage to Canada of the Komagata Maru. The main facts are already known to the public, and the examination of the larger issues involved is a separate matter. It will suffice to say that in dealing with these men on their return to India Government desired to treat them with sympathy and consideration, as many of them had been misled and deluded by their leaders, and had suffered various hardships in the course of their protracted voyage. Their violent attitude at Vancouver was condoned; the liberality of the Canadian Government supplied them freely with provisions for their return journey, while the Government of India assisted them generously from Kobe onwards. Undoubtedly there existed a minority imbued with revolutionary ideas and feelings of active hostility to the British Government, but the majority, though in a dangerous state of mind, were probably not actuated by similar motives. In the face of considerable provocation the officers deputed to meet the passengers exhausted the resources of persuasion in attempting to secure compliance with the orders of Government without resorting to force, but it is clear from the report that this attitude was misinterpreted. The report, indeed, discloses that the generosity and clemency of Government towards these emigrants were deliberately misrepresented by the ringleaders, whose ascendancy over their followers was greater than had been supposed. Consequently the well-meant efforts of the officials were of no avail. The passengers met conciliation by violence, necessitating forcible measures for its suppression, with the resulting loss of life which the Governor-General in Council greatly deplores. It is regrettable that the evil influence of a few led to the death of so many of their foolish and ignorant fellow passengers; it is still more regrettable that innocent passers-by and officers in the discharge of their duties should have been killed and injured.

5. It is not the intention of Government to institute prosecutions in respect of this occurrence. The men arrested have necessarily been detained pending enquiry, but 90 have already been permitted to return to their villages and 87 others will now be similarly treated. The individual cases of the rest demand further consideration (the classification attempted in paragraph 47 of the Committee's report is admittedly incomplete), and they will be dealt with as circumstances may require.

6. The report makes mention of certain incidents connected with the riot at Budge Budge which appear to demand further enquiry, and this will be made, but the Government of India are anxious that the findings of the Committee should be made known as soon as possible, and the publication of their report is not, therefore, further delayed on this account.

ORDERED that a copy of the report and of the above resolution be published in the Gazette of India and communicated to the local Governments of Bengal and the Punjab with the request that they will reproduce the papers in the local Gazettes.

THE HON'BLE MR. H. WHEELER, C.S.I., C.I.E., SECRETARY TO THE GOVERNMENT OF INDIA,

TO

THE CHIEF SECRETARY TO THE GOVERNMENT OF BENGAL.

Simla, the 15th October 1914.

SIR,

WITH reference to the correspondence ending with your telegram of the 11th instant on the subject of the recent Budge Budge riot, I am directed to inform you that in view of the fact that considerations are involved concerning two local Governments, while an importance attaches to the incident which has more than provincial significance, the Government of India, with the concurrence of the Governor in Council, Bengal, and the Lieutenant-Governor of the Punjab, have decided to appoint a Committee of Enquiry to be composed as follows :—

The Hon'ble Sir William Vincent, Kt., I.C.S. ...	Chairman.
Mr. H. Walmsley, I.C.S.	Members.
The Hon'ble Sir Bijay Chand Mahtab, K.C.S.I., K.C.I.E., I.O.M., Maharajadhiraja of Burdwan.	Members.
The Hon'ble Mr. P. J. Fagan, I.C.S.	Members.
The Hon'ble Sardar Daljit Singh, C.S.I.	Members.

2. The terms of reference to the Committee are as follows :—

" To enquire into the circumstances connected with the voyage of the Komagáta Maru to British Columbia, its return to British India, the riot at Budge Budge on the 29th September 1914, and the subsequent arrest of those concerned.

And to report to the Government of India thereon."

3. The Committee has been requested to assemble in Calcutta at once, where the address of the Chairman (Sir W. Vincent) will be the Bengal Club, and with the permission of the Governor in Council, I am to ask that arrangements may be made to bring before them such witnesses as in the opinion of the local Government it is desirable that they should examine, or as they may wish to cite. Also such documentary evidence as may be requisite for the purpose of the investigation. It is hoped that the enquiry will be completed as expeditiously as possible. The details can be best settled in personal consultation with Sir W. Vincent.

4. The Committee will probably require help in the matter of a room for meeting, stationery, and establishment, and the Government of India have no doubt that the Governor in Council will accord all the assistance necessary.

I have the honour to be,

SIR,

Your most obedient servant,

CHAIRMAN, AND THE MEMBERS OF THE "KOMAGATA MARU" COMMITTEE OF ENQUIRY,

To

THE SECRETARY TO THE GOVERNMENT OF INDIA,
HOME DEPARTMENT.

Dated the 3rd December 1914.

SIR,

IN compliance with the instructions contained in your letter No. 1893, dated the 15th October 1914, we have the honour to submit the following report on the circumstances connected with the voyage of the steamship Komagata Maru to British Columbia, its return to British India, the riot at Budge Budge on the 29th September 1914 and the subsequent arrest of those concerned.

2. In order to obtain the evidence on which this report is based we have held meetings at Calcutta and Budge Budge and also at Jullunder in the Punjab, in which province a number of the witnesses examined reside. We have held 27 sittings and examined 201 witnesses. Many of these witnesses had been examined by responsible authorities prior to our investigation, and where this was the case we have admitted the statements so made in evidence before us, but before doing so, we have in each case, where such a course was possible, caused the statement previously made to be read over to the witness and given him an opportunity of correcting it or adding to it. We have also visited the steamship Komagata Maru and the scene of the actual occurrence near Budge Budge station and have scrutinized a number of documents which throw much light on the questions under examination.

3. In order to trace the history of the events which culminated in this riot it is desirable in the first place to ascertain the reasons which led to this unfortunate attempt on the part of the passengers of this steamship to evade the immigration law of Canada. This law so far as we have been able to ascertain it, is contained in the Canadian Immigration Act, 1910, as amended in 1911 and in certain Orders in Council issued under the provisions of that Act. Under sections 37 and 38 of the Act the Governor-General in Council of Canada is authorised to impose certain restrictions on immigration into Canada. In accordance with these provisions of the law the Orders in Council contained in Appendix I of this report were issued on the 9th May 1910. These orders were subsequently superseded by the later orders contained in Appendix II, which were issued on the 7th of January 1914. An examination of the law and of these later orders makes it clear that, in addition to the general restrictions imposed upon all immigrants into the Dominion, every Asiatic immigrant before he is allowed to enter Canada has to satisfy the authorities, save in particular cases, that he is in possession of 200 Canadian dollars and has travelled by continuous journey from his native country to Canada on a through ticket.

4. We are informed that there are at present in Canada about three or four thousand Indians, chiefly inhabitants of the Punjab, and it is a matter of common knowledge that, tempted by prospects of high wages, a large number of Indians both in British India and in China and Japan have for some years been very anxious to secure admission to that country. These efforts have, to a great extent, been unsuccessful recently owing to the provisions of the law to which reference has already been made. Towards the end of the year 1913, however, a rumour was started and became very prevalent in Hong Kong, Shanghai, Singapore, Japan, Manila, and possibly to some extent also in India that the restrictions on immigration into Canada had been removed or rendered of no effcet; and efforts were in consequence renewed by many Indians resident in the Far East to obtain passages to the Dominion, and numbers of Indians collected at various ports with a view to proceed there. From the evidence on record it is also clear that for some reason which is not very apparent these emigrants were particularly anxious to reach Vancouver before the 25th of March. It is probable that they believed that on that date the law on the subject of immigration was likely to be made more stringent.

5. On the 5th of January 1914, Gurdit Singh, the leader of the Komagata Maru expedition, came to Hong Kong. The only information we have regarding his previous career is that he was a native of the Amritsar district and a man of no great social status there, though he owned a few acres of land. He emigrated from India some 25 or 30 years ago, and for some years carried on business as a contractor in Singapore and the Malay States. We are informed that in 1909 he returned to British India and was in 1912 before the Criminal Courts when he was bound down to keep the peace, but we have not been able to verify this statement. In 1913 he returned to Singapore. No satisfactory evidence has been produced before us as to his pecuniary position, but it does not appear that when he went to Hong Kong in January 1914, he was possessed of any considerable wealth. He was, however, a person of strong character and succeeded in a short time in acquiring great influence over his fellow countrymen in Hong Kong. Shortly after his arrival at that port he began to take a keen interest in this emigration movement, and it is in evidence that he discussed the matter of chartering a vessel to convey a number of Indians to Canada with intending emigrants at Hong Kong on various occasions. It may be observed that by this time about 150 Sikhs had collected at the Gurdwara or Sikh Temple at that place with the intention of emigrating to Vancouver. Towards the end of January, Gurdit Singh left Hong Kong for Singapore promising to make every effort to procure a vessel to convey these emigrants to the desired destination. It is not clear whether it was then intended to charter a vessel from Hong Kong or to take passengers in the first instance from Calcutta; but on the departure of Gurdit Singh from the former place, a difference of opinion arose among the intending emigrants as to the best method of obtaining the object in view. Gurdit Singh himself proposed, as far as can be seen, to charter a vessel in Calcutta for the voyage to Vancouver, and to arrange that this vessel should touch at Penang, Singapore, Hong Kong, Shanghai and Japan en route, and this proposal was accepted by some of the intending passengers at Hong Kong. Others were apparently of a different opinion, for on the 29th January a wire was sent from the Committee of the Gurdwara at Hong Kong to Gurdit Singh urging him not to go to Calcutta at all, but to charter a vessel to proceed to Vancouver direct. On receipt of this telegram Gurdit Singh addressed his fellow countrymen at Hong Kong pointing out the difficulties which faced them in respect of this proposal and the advantages of starting the voyage from Calcutta. In the letter he asked the Committee to deposit £10,000 in cash to meet the expenses of chartering a vessel and referred definitely to the legal obstacles which would probably be encountered by them in Vancouver. In consequence of these difficulties it appears that Gurdit Singh continued his attempts to charter a vessel to proceed from Calcutta, and with this object in view, he published on the 13th of February an advertisement for intending emigrants explaining in some detail what his proposals were. From the statements in this advertisement it is clear that he was well aware of the restrictions imposed by the Canadian law on the immigration of Asiatics into that country. But he added that this law had been declared to be invalid by a decision of Chief Justice Hunter's dated the 24th November 1913. Nevertheless he proposed to avoid the effect of these restrictions by chartering a Chinese steamer to proceed from Calcutta to Vancouver and by raising subscriptions to provide indigent emigrants with the 200 dollars which the law required every immigrant to have in his possession on landing.

6. We have not been able to obtain an authenticated copy of the decision referred to above, but we gather from the information before us regarding it that the effect of the judgment was to decide that the notifications of the 9th May 1910 referred to in paragraph 3 of this report were for certain legal reasons invalid and ultra vires. We doubt, however, if Gurdit Singh can have believed that the judgment had the effect alleged by him or that he was unaware of the actual state of the law, for in another advertisement issued by him on the 21st of February he again referred to the existing restrictions and the manner in which he proposed to meet the legal difficulties, and stated specifically that he had just received a wire from Ottawa saying that intending immigrants must travel direct from India and produce 200 dollars on landing. His efforts to secure a vessel at Calcutta and to obtain subscriptions of £10,000 were unsuccessful; and Gurdit Singh, who had apparently already entered into negotiations to obtain a charter of the steamship Komagata Maru, continued his efforts in this direction. Indeed, before the issue of the advertisement of the 21st of February, in which he refers to an arrangement with a Chinese Company to charter a vessel to sail from Calcutta, he had in a previous advertisement of the 13th of February made an incorrect allegation to the effect that he had already chartered the Komagata Maru, and on the strength of this allegation he actually in the latter part of March issued a number of tickets to passengers who were desirous of proceeding to Vancouver and received payment for the same. Finally on the 24th of March he succeeded in obtaining the charter of the S S. Komagata Maru from Mr. Bune, a German shipping agent at Hong Kong. This vessel is owned by a small Japanese Company, the Shinei Kishen Go Shi Kaisha, which consists, as far as the evidence shows, of 4 or 5 persons of Japanese nationality and owns only one ship, the vessel in question. Mr. Bune acted as agent for the Company under telegraphic authority and nothing is known of his antecedents, except that he is a German. From the information before us it appears that the owners of the ship were ignorant of the purpose for which she was chartered. The vessel was chartered for six months from the 27th of March 1914 for 11,000 Hong Kong dollars per month, the charterer contracting to pay in addition all charges for coal, water, pilotage and port charges. 11,000 dollars due for the first month's hire were payable when the charter was signed and 11,000 dollars within a week of the date of the commencement of the charter, viz., the 27th March; of the balance, two months' hire was to be paid within 14 days of the date of the commencement of the charter and before the ship left Japan for Canada, the remainder being payable at Hong Kong within two months. Having chartered this vessel, Gurdit Singh issued tickets to a large number of intending emigrants; and finally the vessel started with 165 passengers, all Indian emigrants who had come originally from the Punjab, for Shanghai en route for Vancouver. The departure of the ship was delayed until the 4th of April by the Hong Kong Government, and it was only after threatening that Government with a suit for damages and after personal interviews with the local authorities that Gurdit Singh finally obtained permission to leave Hong Kong. The reason for this action on the part of the Hong Kong Government was that they desired to prevent the vessel from starting as the authorities were aware that the passengers would not be admitted into Canada. Indeed, if such a course had been possible under the law, the Colonial Government would have absolutely prohibited the vessel from leaving Hong Kong. The Komagata Maru arrived at Shanghai on the 8th of April and left that port with 111 new passengers for Moji on the 14th of the same month. It should here be noted that before the ship started from Hong Kong there had been some discussion as to whether she should call at Manila or not, and advance agents had been sent to Shanghai, Manila and other places to secure passengers from ports to be touched en route for Vancouver. Before the commencement of the voyage, however, it was decided to call only at Shanghai, Moji and Yokohama. From Shanghai the ship proceeded to Moji, where 86 new passengers were taken on board, and thence to Yokohama, where 14 passengers embarked. From there the vessel departed for Vancouver with 376 passengers on board, all being Panjabis and, excepting 25 Muhammadans, Sikhs.

7. It will be convenient here to stop to examine various questions which arise for consideration in regard to this part of the journey. In the first place, it is important to ascertain the motives which led these emigrants to attempt to secure admission into Canada in apparent defiance of the law. On an examination of all the circumstances and the evidence which has been placed before us we think that the great majority of these emigrants, probably, acted bonâ fide in this matter when they left Hong Kong, and that they were at that time under the belief that there was no legal objection to their immigration into the Dominion. They were anxious to get to Canada as they had been led to believe that very high wages were paid to labourers there. Indians already resident in Vancouver had written frequent letters to them advising them to emigrate and pointing out the pecuniary advantages which they could secure in Canada, and it is in evidence that some of them were informed by Gurdit Singh that they could earn as much as Rs. 10, i.e., 13*s.* 4*d.* a day there. At this time there was a very general belief that owing to this decision of Chief Justice Hunter to which reference has been made the restrictions on Asiatic immigration into Canada had been removed, and it is stated by many of these men that they were also informed by Gurdit Singh that he had obtained authority from the Government of Hong Kong to take passengers by the Komagata Maru into Canada, and that there would be no difficulty in securing admission there. In fact, this argument was used to demonstrate the advantage of taking a passage by this particular ship. It may seem impossible to conceive that any intelligent man would accept this last story, but it is well known that the average Indian makes no distinction between the Government of the United Kingdom, that of Canada, that of British India or that of any colony. To him these authorities are all one and the same. So much so is this the case that many of these unfortunate people are at the present moment under the impression that the Government of India is responsible for the misfortunes which they have suffered. More than one of the prisoners stated that the Sarkar (the Government) allowed the vessel to depart, promised them that they should be allowed to land in Canada, then refused to allow them to enter that country and sent them back to British India and caused them to be arrested there. It is possible, also, that the action of the Hong Kong authorities in first refusing to allow the Komagata Maru to proceed on her voyage and subsequently granting permission to the Captain to depart had something to do with this impression, as the fact that permission was at first withheld and subsequently granted was taken as evidence of the allegations made by Gurdit Singh that the Government of Hong Kong had at last given the passengers permission to enter Canada. It is true that Gurdit Singh was informed by the Hong Kong authorities that the passengers would not be allowd to enter Canada, but we are not satisfied that this information was communicated to all the passengers, and even if it was communicated it was apparently not accepted by them as correct, in view of the allegations of Gurdit Singh. It further appears from the statements of some witnesses that the friendly manner in which (as alleged) the authorities in Hong Kong treated Gurdit Singh gave colour to his allegation that he had used his influence with them to procure the necessary permission to enter Canada. It is also proved that each passenger, in addition to a blue passenger ticket, received from Gurdit Singh a white ticket signed by one G. Grimble, a passage broker of Hong Kong. This white ticket was, according to the evidence before us, represented by Gurdit Singh to be a ticket issued by Government, authorising the recipient to enter Canada. These tickets, which are really contract passage tickets intended for the use of indentured Chinese emigrants to Vancouver, were signed in blank by Mr. Grimble, and contain a clause to be signed by an emigration officer certifying to the fact that the contract has been explained (presumably to the emigrant) and registered. This certificate clause is not signed by any Government officer in any of the tickets we have seen, but we are inclined to believe that many of the passengers were deceived by Gurdit Singh into the belief that the tickets referred to contained a permit from the Government of Hong Kong authorising them to land at Vancouver. We think, however, that it is only fair to Gurdit Singh to observe that this and the other opinions expressed here and elsewhere on this point are based on ex parte evidence, and that we have not had the opportunity of hearing his version of the facts.

8. It must also be remembered that according to the evidence a number of Indian emigrants had been allowed to enter Canada about this time, and that information had reached Hong Kong, Shanghai and Japan of the judgment of Chief Justice Hunter. In these circumstances it is not surprising that the intending immigrants were easily misled into the belief that their immigration into Canada would not be objected to; indeed we are of opinion that if they had been aware of the actual facts, many of the passengers would never have started on this journey; for the majority of them were poor men who had saved but little, and many had sacrificed all they had in the way of savings to pay the expenditure incurred by this voyage. There is also evidence to prove that many gave up regular service and appointments in which they were receiving good pay in Hong Kong, Shanghai and elsewhere to embark on this disastrous voyage.

9. The conduct of Gurdit Singh and his immediate following stands, however, on a different footing. It has been freely suggested in the course of the enquiry that they were well aware that the emigrants would not be allowed to enter Vancouver and that Gurdit Singh took money from the passengers with the deliberate intention of defrauding them, that he dishonestly misappropriated the money paid for fares and in this way made a large profit out of the present venture. For the first of these suggestions there is much support in the fact that Gurdit Singh did, as we believe, make a number of false allegations as to his having procured authority for their admission into Canada. It is clear from the statements of a large number of the passengers (many of whom are even now not in any way hostile to Gurdit Singh) that he stated to them that he had secured permission from the Government of Hong Kong for the unrestricted entry of the passengers by the Komagata Maru into Canada, and that he deceived many of them into believing that the white tickets already referred to were permits from the Colonial Government issued for this purpose. There is documentary evidence also to prove that before the ship left Hong Kong, Gurdit Singh cabled to Manila stating that he had obtained permission for the passengers to land at Vancouver; and to this extent he certainly did, in our opinion, deceive the passengers. It is also very difficult having regard to the internal evidence on record to believe that he, or the more intelligent of his immediate following who were men of some education and could read and write English, were ignorant of the real state of the law. In a letter addressed from Hong Kong on the 5th of February to Thaman Singh, the leader of the Committee at the Gurdwara there, Gurdit Singh wrote as follows :—

" Hence it is necessary to get answers to the following questions :—

(2) Whether we can land there (at Vancouver) ? If we are not allowed to land whether we can fight out a case or not ?

(3) Is it a fact that no Hindustani can go to Vancouver, as mentioned in the " Khalsa Sewak " till a new law is passed ? If this is a fact, what should we do now ?"

Again in a notice purporting to be issued by Gurdit Singh and dated Calcutta, the 21st February 1914, there is the following sentence :—

" We have just received a telegram from Ottawa saying that intending immigrants should book directly from India and show $200 on landing; so we have arranged for both of these things."

Finally in a notice which is undated, but which from the contents was probably written between the end of March and the 4th April, and which purported to be issued by Gurdit Singh, the following statement occurs :—

" What led me to do this work is that when I came to Hong Kong in January 1914 I could not bear the trouble of those who were in the Gurdwara waiting to go to Vancouver. They were waiting there for years and living at their own expense; how tyrannical and harr was this on our brothers!

" This affected my mind with the result that I resolved to take them to Vancouver under any circumstances. I promised the passengers that if no company will issue tickets to them and they wrote to me, I would do the needful and fight out the case in the Supreme Courts of Vancouver to get the matter settled for ever. If the Canadian Government will prevent us from landing I will ask many questions from our Government and will not return until the matter is finally settled and will notify the full details of these proceedings to the people of India."

These extracts indicate that Gurdit Singh was aware of the state of the law and that many of his promises made to the passengers were entirely untrue. In fact the last extract shows that he intended to force a way into Canada for these immigrants by an appeal to the Courts. At the same time we think that it is quite possible and even probable that he was under the impression that there was some defect in the law which he would be able to overcome by such an appeal or that he would be able to bring such political pressure to bear on the Canadian Government that they would be unable to keep the intending immigrants out of the country. We doubt if he would have had the courage to deceive all these passengers and induce them to embark upon this desperate venture unless he had some genuine hope that he would be able to secure their admission into Canada. We also think that in embarking on the voyage Gurdit Singh was much influenced by the advice and encouragement which he received from Indians resident in Vancouver.

10. The second suggestion is that Gurdit Singh conceived the whole of this scheme purely for his own pecuniary benefit and that he started proceedings by systematically misappropriating the money paid by the passengers, but we find no sufficient evidence to support this allegation. There is no doubt that Gurdit Singh hoped to obtain considerable pecuniary advantage out of the venture, and if he had succeeded in effecting the entry of these immigrants into Canada within reasonable time, he would probably have made a very large profit. The ordinary fare from Hong Kong to Vancouver is, as we are informed, £10, and Gurdit Singh charged £20 per passenger. He hoped to book 500 passengers, the full complement of the ship being 533; if this number of tickets had been sold he would have realised 100,000 dollars out of the fares, against which he would have had to pay the cost of chartering the vessel for a couple of months, 22,000 dollars, plus the cost of coal, say 10,000 dollars, and of feeding the emigrants on the outward journey, say 10,000 dollars more.

Moreover (if the venture had succeeded, the number of passengers on subsequent voyages would have largely increased and the profits would have been proportionately greater. It is clear from the evidence that if he had been successful in the first voyage Gurdit Singh intended to return to Calcutta, and if he had done so he would certainly have been able to get a fresh complement of passengers there without difficulty. We are also inclined to the view that Gurdit Singh was largely actuated by the desire to pose as a political hero who had obtained for Indians the free right to enter Canada, which is now denied them, and if he had succeeded in securing the admission of the passengers by the Komagata Maru into Canada it appears that he would have been successful in both of his main objects. In the result, however, his efforts, to carry this difficult commercial enterprise to a successful termination were a complete failure, and we think in the circumstances that this was to be expected. For it appears that Gurdit Singh started on his venture with no capital and no knowledge of business methods or of accounts and book-keeping. Several books of account have been filed before us, and we have had them examined and have caused a complete translation to be made of one which purported to be the daily cash book. It is, however, utterly unintelligible and kept in such a manner that it is impossible to get from it any accurate information as to the financial details of this enterprise. It also appears that the number of passengers was smaller than Gurdit Singh anticipated, and if the promissory notes found on board are accepted as genuine documents they indicate that many of the intending immigrants were not able to pay the full amount of their fares in cash, as we find notes for nearly 24,000 dollars executed by various passengers for their dues on this account. Owing to the fact that Gurdit Singh engaged upon this undertaking without any capital it further appears that from the commencement of the voyage there was a want of requisite funds to pay for the hire of the steamer and other urgent charges. We have already stated that the second month's hire was to be paid within one week of the date of the charter; but this payment, which was really due before the ship left Hong Kong, Gurdit Singh was unable to make in full until he reached Shanghai, whence out of the new fares realised he cabled a remittance to the bank at Hong Kong to meet the demand. Similarly, when the vessel reached Moji, Gurdit Singh's finances were in a very bad state. He had promised a great many of the passengers who came to Moji from Manila that he would make good to them the cost of their journey to Moji, as the ship did not call at Manila. These promises he was unable to fulfil. He had also to find at Moji two months' hire for the vessel, plus the price of the coal for the journey to Vancouver. At Hong Kong he had bought 350 tons of coal only at a price of 3,500 dollars. The average consumption of the Komagata Maru was 26 tons per day. A large additional supply of coal was therefore necessary. Moreover, the vessel was so light in the water that it was advisable to load some cargo to steady her; to effect this it was decided to purchase coal in excess of the quantity needed for the voyage, the intention being to sell the surplus at Vancouver. To meet these demands Gurdit Singh had as he said 17,000 dollars, which was 5,000 short of what was necessary for the hire of the ship alone; and to obtain funds for the rest of the money due from him he had to raise a subscription among the passengers, out of which he paid part of the balance of the two months' hire and part of the price of the coal purchased. The actual amount of coal bought was 2,000 or 2,500 tons according to various witnesses, the price being 15,000 yen, out of which 7,000 yen only, or 7,700 dollars was paid in cash. According to the evidence of the Japanese officers, the agent of the Steamship Company guaranteed that the balance of the price should be paid later, it being arranged that the captain of the Komagata Maru was to hold any balance of the coal on arrival at Vancouver as security for the unpaid purchase money. It is difficult to ascertain the actual amount raised from the passengers at Moji, but we think that it was at least 10,000 dollars, and we are satisfied that in the case of those who were unwilling to subscribe voluntarily considerable pressure was used to induce them to comply with Gurdit Singh's demands. Receipts were, however, generally given, so far as we can ascertain, for the amounts received and there is nothing to indicate that Gurdit Singh did not intend to repay his creditors if, as he hoped, his voyage ended successfully. It has been suggested, as already stated, that the raising of this subscription and the manner in which the accounts were kept, indicate a fraudulent intention on the part of Gurdit Singh and that they are evidence of the fact that he systematically misappropriated the money of the passengers. We think, however, that his conduct is capable of explanation without any suggestion of fraud, if it is once understood that a man of some cunning but little real intelligence and with no experience of shipping business or accounts was attempting to carry out a difficult undertaking without any capital and without any expert assistance. At the same time it cannot be denied that Gurdit Singh's conduct was characterized by a reckless disregard both of his promises to the passengers and of his obligations to the owners, while it should be borne in mind that the so-called Sri Guru Nanak Steamship Company, which he freely advrtised, styling himself manager or director, was a bogus concern, in which the solitary shareholder was Gurdit Singh himself, and which possessed only one vessel, the Komagata Maru, and that a hired one. In connection with this point it may be desirable to refer to the opinions expressed in Canada that the voyage of the Komagata Maru was deliberately promoted and financed by political agitators in Vancouver in order that they might have an opportunity of rousing public feeling in India against the Government, when the immigrants were refused admission. There is reason to believe that the Vancouver Indians encouraged the passengers to embark on this enterprise and they must have been well aware of what the final result must be, and it is difficult to see what object they could have had in view except to excite political feeling. As to financial assistance it is proved that at Vancouver the Indian residents did assist the passengers, but there is no evidence of any pecuniary aid before the arrival of the ship at that port except that Gurdit Singh promised those persons who advanced money to pay the expenses of the voyage that the Khalsa Dewan at Vancouver would make good the amounts and the passengers engaged per contra that Gurdit Singh was only to be called on to do so in the event of the Khalsa Dewan failing to meet this obligation. This undertaking on the part of Gurdit Singh lends some support to the view that before the Komagata Maru started on her voyage the Vancouver Indians in addition to encouraging the emigrants to proceed had made some promises of financial assistance. Nevertheless we retain the view that Gurdit Singh when he started on this enterprise hoped that he would be able to obtain admission for himself and his fellow passengers into Canada, though very possibly those who were encouraging him to undertake the voyage were well aware that the enterprise would not be successful.

11. In connection with this journey from Hong Kong, we have also had to consider how far the undertaking might have been engineered at the instigation of Germany. We are aware of the fact that it is generally believed that German influence has for some time been at work in various parts of the British Empire to create disaffection to Government, but beyond the fact that this ship was chartered from a German agent at Hong Kong we have not been able to secure any evidence of German influence in respect of this voyage. There are, however, suspicious circumstances in connection with the undertaking, and it is quite possible that even if German influence had been at work we should be unable to secure direct evidence of it. Thus it is worthy of note that until Gurdit Singh met Mr. Bune he was entirely unable to hire any vessel to convey these emigrants to Canada; and this is not surprising in view of the provisions of the Canadian law regarding the duty of companies to reconvey rejected immigrants to the country of their birth and the penalties to which such companies are subject if these provisions of the law are not complied with. It is also possible that Bune in aiding Gurdit Singh to secure the charter of the Komagata Maru acted with the intention of causing embarrassment to the Canadian authorities and indirectly to the British Government, as he was aware that the passengers would not be allowed to land at Vancouver, but of this there is no direct evidence. It is also noteworthy that the Komagata Maru was owned by a German Company before she became the property of Shinei Kishen Go Shi Kaisha, and that the first intimation as to her departure from Hong Kong reached London through Germany, the news being published in the Berlin papers eleven days after the vessel left that port. That the Indians resident in Vancouver were intimately connected with the venture of the Komagata Maru is clear, and it is also believed that the Indian Revolutionary Societies in America are in close connection with certain societies in Germany. It is only fair, on the other hand, to state that some of the passengers allege that Bune attempted to dissuade Gurdit Singh from starting on this venture and there is no trace in the accounts of Gurdit Singh's having received any pecuniary assistance from Germany or from Bune. Indeed, the accounts filed show on the other hand that Bune received a sum of $2,500 as commission for his services in connection with the charter of this vessel. We observe that it has been stated in the Press that the Canadian Government has direct proof to show that the Komagata Maru enterprise was engineered by Germany, but no evidence to this effect has been placed before us.

12. The only other matter in which attention need be invited at this stage of the voyage of the Komagata Maru is in respect of the attempts made to promote sedition and disloyalty to the British Government at various ports at which the ship touched. There is some evidence that on the outward voyage Gurdit Singh delivered lectures in which disloyal and seditious language was used, and according to other witnesses Gurdit Singh met with considerable sympathy in Japan for the cause which he advocated. We are not, however, prepared to accept these statements as entirely trustworthy. We have more credible testimony that consignments of the Ghadr newspaper were received on board at Shanghai, Moji and Yokohama. This paper, specimen copies of which we have seen and had translated, is published by a revolutionary organization in America and openly advocates mutiny against the British Government in India; it appears that it circulates freely in the Far East and in America, and we think that it was introduced into the Komagata Maru through the agency of these revolutionary societies in order to promote disloyalty and disaffection among those on board. It is also in evidence that at Yokohama two reputed revolutionaries, Bhagwan Singh and Barkatulla, visited the ship, and that Bhagwan Singh, the deported priest of the Sikh Temple at Vancouver, delivered a spirited lecture to the passengers in which he instigated them to rise against the British Government in India. It is difficult to believe that Gurdit Singh would have allowed newspapers like the Ghadr to be introduced on board and lectures of this kind to be delivered if he had not even at that time had considerable sympathy with the American revolutionary movement.

13. From Yokohama to Vancouver no incident of any great importance occurred on the vessel, except that there were some quarrels at to the quality of the food provided by Gurdit Singh for the use of the passengers. Some attempt has been made to magnify the importance of these differences, but on the whole, having regard to the subsequent facts and conduct of the passengers and the evidence before us, we are not inclined to accept the view that these differences were more than disputes of a temporary and trifling character. It appears, however, that during this part of the voyage, the passengers divided into two factions or parties, one of them headed by Gurdit Singh and his following, and the other by the medical officer of the ship, Dr. Raghunath Singh, and that feeling between the two factions was at times very bitter.

14 On the 21st May the Komagata Maru arrived at Victoria Quarantine Station and from thence she proceeded to Vancouver on the 23rd May. The authorities at that port refused to allow the immigrants, with certain exceptions, to land as they had failed to comply with the requirements of the Canadian law. Permission to disembark was, however, granted to some of the passengers, including Dr. Raghunath Singh, and as alleged Bhan Singh who represented himself to be a student. Of these two, Dr. Raghunath Singh was able to land, but Bhan Singh was prevented by his fellow passengers from taking advantage of the permission granted to him by the Canadian Government.

15. The action of the Canadian Government in refusing to admit the immigrants was keenly resented both by the passengers and by their fellow countrymen on shore, and it is in evidence that meetings were held both on the ship and in Vancouver to protest against the action of the Canadian authorities, and that very voilent language against the British and Canadian Governments was indulged in at these meetings. The immigration officers, however, remained firm and refused to allow the passengers to land in spite of these protests and of repeated communications from Gurdit Singh and his Secretary Daljit Singh. On the other hand, the passengers refused to depart and adopted various devices in order to get permission to land. Failing to secure their object by any of these means Gurdit Singh and his associates decided to bring a test case in the courts in the name of one of the passengers named Mansa Singh in the hope of obtaining an order of the court which would override the decision of the executive authorities; the application of this immigrant to be allowed to land was, however, rejected by the courts. It is interesting to note that, in instructing his lawyer at Vancouver and in addressing the local officers of the Canadian Government, Gurdit Singh attempted to make out that by their conduct the Canadian Government had led him to believe the passengers would be allowed to enter Canada, and also produce a written opinion of a Hong Kong lawyer which he alleged supported his contention that they were entitled to land. On examination, this letter, which has been filed before us, proved to be nothing more than an expression of opinion that the Hong Kong Government had no right to prevent the Komagata Maru from sailing from Hong Kong. There is little doubt, however, that this letter, though it was useless for the purpose of influencing the Canadian authorities, was used by Gurdit Singh more successfully in deluding the unfortunate passengers.

16. In the meantime, while negotiations were pending between the Canadian Immigration Office and the passengers, the Agent of the owners of the Komagata Maru made a demand for 22,000 dollars still due for the hire of the ship, and at the same time called upon Gurdit Singh to pay the balance of the price of coal bought at Moji. These demands Gurdit Singh resisted on the ground that he was unable to pay, as he was not allowed to land, a plea which was utterly irrelevant as the owners were in no way concerned with the question whether the immigrants were permitted to enter Canada or not. It appears, however, that the Indian residents in Vancouver came to the assistance of Gurdit Singh in this matter and that they raised the amount of 22,000 dollars for the payment of the charter money, and on payment of this amount the charter was, with the consent of Gurdit Singh and of the Agents of the owners at Vancouver transferred the two leading Indian residents in Vancouver, Bhag Sing and Rahim. The former of these men is the priest of the Sikh Temple at Vancouver, is believed to be a leader of the disaffected Indian party in Vancouver, and has, as we are informed, recently been murdered by some of his fellow countrymen there. Rahim is stated to be the editor of the Hindustani, a proscribed paper.

17. After the decision of the courts in the case of Mansa Singh, matters reached a deadlock. The authorities refused to allow the Indians to land and directed the Captain to remove the vessel from the port, and the passengers refused to allow the Captain and crew to weigh anchor or get up steam. A body of police was sent to enforce the orders of Government, but they were resisted by the passengers and a serious affray ensued, in which 22 police officers were injured and the captain of the police launch had two ribs broken. It may here be noticed that in a description of this incident in a history of the voyage, compiled on board the Komagata Maru and found amongst the papers of Gurdit Singh, this affray is referred to as a defeat inflicted on a man-of-war and army by unarmed Indians who only used coal to repel their assailants. On the other hand, it is proved by the Japanese officers and by documentary evidence that the passengers used firearms in resisting the police. After the failure on the part of the police to enforce the orders to depart, a Government vessel, The Rainbow, was requisitioned with an armed force to compel compliance with these orders; the passengers saw that it was impossible for them to resist this force, and came to terms, and finally on the 23rd of July the Komagata Maru departed from Vancouver, but not until Gurdit Singh had obtained from the Canadian Government a very ample supply of provisions for the return journey. There can be no doubt that these supplies were granted out of charity and as the result of repeated allegations made by Gurdit Singh and his adherents that the passengers were starving. Indeed, from the evidence before us, there is little doubt that there was a great want of provisions on board at this time and the vessel could not have sailed without some supplies. It is, however, difficult to believe that the articles demanded and supplied were not in some cases in excess of what was necessary, as it is in evidence that a large quantity of these stores were left on board the ship unconsumed when the vessel arrived at Calcutta. The actual articles supplied were :—

600 pounds of curry powder.
5,400 pounds of pulse.
6,000 pounds of sugar.
5,000 pounds of potatoes.
20 sacks of onions.
10 sacks of carrots.
360 pounds of Cayenne pepper.
6,000 pounds of butter.
2,000 pounds of rice.
500 pounds of salt.
7,000 pounds of Ceylon tea.
10 boxes of Sunlight soap.
240 cases of canned milk.
600 pounds of ginger.
500 pounds of pickles.
1,000 bottles of hair oil.
200 bottles of vinegar.
20 tons of wood for fuel.
1 box (case?) of matches.
200 pounds of tobacco.
200 quarts of molasses.
Toilet paper.
Kerosene oil.
Toilet soap.

The supply of 200 pounds of tobacco in view of the fact that all the passengers except 25 Muhammadans were Sikhs, seems somewhat generous, and to those who are familiar with conditions of life in India, some of the other articles supplied may appear to be unnecessary. It has already been stated that these supplies were given from charitable motives by the Canadian Government, but that this was not the view of the passengers, or at any rate of their leaders, is evidenced by the following extract taken from the history of the voyage found among Gurdit Singh's papers on board the vessel :—

" 24,000 dollars worth of provisions were supplied to us. To copy the example of the avaricious and deceitful faringhees, we said we would not sail until a hundred goats, fowls and eggs had been supplied. We began to have faith in our own strength. We got 24,000 dollars worth of provisions by shoe-beating a few. More threatenings would surely produce goats, eggs and fowls."

18. At this point it is convenient to pause to consider in greater detail the part played by the revolutionary party in Canada in respect of these passengers at Vancouver. There is reason to believe that there are both in America and Canada, certain associations of a revolutionary character composed mainly of Indian residents. The avowed object of many of these associations is to secure the overthrow of British rule in India, and, with this aim, persistent efforts are made to seduce Indians, both in and out of British India, from their loyalty to the Crown, and to induce them to join in a movement for an armed rising against the Government. China and Japan afford an excellent field for the operations of these accosiations, as large numbers of Indians reside there, and persistent efforts are, therefore, made to promote disloyalty and disaffection amongst them by the means of seditious literature and in other ways. One of the most important publications of this party is the Ghadr newspaper, to which reference has already been made. Attempts had been made by emissaries of this party, as already described, to create disaffection towards Government among the passengers, both at Moji, Yokohama, and elsewhere, and these efforts were renewed, and apparently with more success at Vancouver. By this time the passengers were in a desperate condition and many were ready to listen to incitements to disaffection. The large majority were poor men who had staked all their possessions on this enterprise, and, on an average, they had probably spent 400 or 500 rupees each on the voyage. They had started in the belief that their admission to Canada was assured and guaranteed by the Government, and now, after suffering the hardships of nearly four months' detention in very insanitary surroundings on the Komagata Maru, they were ordered to return to the ports from which they had started. It is not unreasonable to suppose that in these circumstances they entertained the most violent feelings of irritation against the Canadian Government, and that they were in such a state of discontent as to be peculiarly open to evil influences. It is not surprising, therefore, that incitement to sedition was readily listened to by many and that efforts to render the passengers actively disaffected to the Government were more or less successful. At this period of the voyage, moreover, we think that Gurdit Singh, whatever his previous sentiments had been, found it necessary to join wholeheartedly in the attempts to promote disaffection in order to divert attention from his own misdeeds and to cast the odium for the failure of the venture upon the Government. Revolutionary literature of a violent character was introduced and circulated on board, and during the stay of the vessel at Vancouver and on the return voyage systematic efforts were made to excite the passengers against the authorities and to promote a rising against Government. There is also evidence to prove that attempts were made at Vancouver by members of the revolutionary party on shore to smuggle arms on board, and one man was convicted for the unlawful possession of arms which were procured for the use of these passengers. It has already been stated that the passengers had successfully resisted the police at Vancouver; they had succeeded in intimidating the Master and crew of the ship and had also, as they believed, forced the Government of Canada to provide them with a quantity of valuable supplies. They were, therefore, at this time in a very dangerous frame of mind, many of them being obsessed with an exaggerated idea of their own power, full of the disloyal and seditious theories inculcated by revolutionary leaders, intensely irritated at the treatment meted out to them, and ready for any mischief. So dangerous indeed had they become, that the Captain of the ship was advised by the Canadian authorities to purchase firearms to enable the officers and crew to protect themselves against possible attacks from the passengers.

19. In this mood the passengers started on their return journey to Yokohama, which was the first port of call. Here a few persons disembarked. It is not very clear what the final port of destination was intended to be when the Komagata Maru left Vancouver, but apparently, up to the time of her arrival at Yokohama, it was intended that she should, at any rate, touch at Hong Kong, so that passengers who might be desirous of landing there should have an opportunity of doing so. At Yokohama a letter was received by Gurdit Singh from the Colonial Secretary of Hong Kong informing him that the Government of that Dependency considered it undesirable that any of the passengers should land at Hong Kong and threatening to enforce a local Vagrancy Ordinance against any who might attempt to land at that port. Gurdit Singh replied in a letter addressed to the Consul at Yokohama stating that the passengers were perfectly willing to go to any port in India if provisions were supplied. It does not appear that he had any authority for this statement as many of the passengers say that they were in fact anxious to return to China to earn money and repair their shattered fortunes. It is probable that in refusing to allow the passengers to land the Hong Kong Government was influenced by information received of their conduct at Vancouver. What ever the reasons for the orders were, they were the cause of considerable inconvenience and loss to many of the passengers. The views of Gurdit Singh and his immediate following, as contained in the history already referred to, were that the Government at Hong Kong was afraid to allow the passengers to land as they apprehended that they might cause a mutiny among the Sikh regiments stationed at that place; we do not know if there is any foundation for this statement which was, as alleged, based on information received at Kobe; but if it is true, it explains the conduct of the Hong Kong authorities in this matter.

20. Returning from these considerations to the actual history of the voyage, the Consul at Yokohama firmly declined to meet Gurdit Singh's requests for additional supplies, observing at the same time that the demands made seemed most exorbitant. From a letter of Gurdit Singh addressed subsequently to the Consul-General at Kobe we learn that at this period of the voyage the Captain of the Komagata Maru received telegraphic orders from the owners of the ship to proceed to Kobe, and accordingly the vessel left Yokohama for that port on the 18th of August, arriving at Kobe on the 21st. At Kobe about 15 pasengers disembarked. The remainder under the leadership of Gurdit Singh again attempted to secure further supplies from the British Consul-General there. They landed in large bodies of 100 and 150 men, repeatedly besieging the Consulate, and were so importunate in their demands that they appear to have caused very great inconvenience to the Consul-General and almost to have intimidated him. They represented that they were entirely destitute and demanded large sums of money for the purchase of provisions and for payment of the balance of the cost of coal purchased on the outward journey at Moji. On receipt of this deputation the Consul-General wired to His Majesty's Ambassador at Tokio that he could arrange for the passage of the returned emigrants to Hong Kong if 8,000 yen were paid for the price of coal, plus 1,700 yen for provisions. If, however, the passengers were not allowed to land at Hong Kong, he said that they could be sent to Calcutta at a cost 13,000 yen, plus 6,000 yen for the cost of returning the vessel to Hong Kong. He added that it was of the greatest importance that these Indians should be removed as soon as possible and that provisions would in any case have to be supplied shortly to them. As to the amount payable for supplies, we find from a subsequent letter addressed to the Government of India that the Consul-General understood at first that 200 Hong Kong dollars was the estimate of the daily cost of provisioning the ship. At a later interview the passengers alleged that this estimate of expenditure was in gold dollars, thus doubling ths cost. The Consul-General accepted the suggestion that this change in the estimate was due to a mistake on his part, but, having regard to the circumstances, it appears to us that possibly this was not the case. The ordinary currency of Hong Kong is, as we understand, the silver dollar, and the passengers were well aware of this fact; and in the circumstances we suspect that the allegation that gold dollars had originally been demanded was untrue. There were on the ship at this time very considerable stores of provisions, and a very small amount of additional supplies was really necessary, for the purchase of which neither 4,500 gold dollars nor 4,500 silver dollars were necessary. There are also grounds for believing that Gurdit Singh had ample funds in his possession to meet any urgent expenditure. We incline to the view therefore that when the leaders of the passengers found that the Consul was willing to accept their statements as correct, apparently without any detailed enquirv into the facts, they thought that the opportunity was too good to be lost and at once doubled their original demands. It is impossible, however, to be definite on this point as we have not had the advantage of hearing the statement of the Consul-General Whether our opinion on this point is correct or not, it is certain that the allegation of the passengers that they were entirely destitute was untrue.

21. Under instructions from His Majesty's Ambassador at Tokio, the Consul-General at Kobe then entered into negotiations with the Government of India, soliciting sanction to the expenditure of 19,000 yen for the repatriation of 300 destitute Indians on the Komagata Maru, and his request was acceded to. The telegram of the Consul-General runs as follows :—

" Urgent. 350 Indians Komagata alleged to be completely destitute. Only possible solution present, sending to India, requesting you will sanction expenditure not exceed 19,000 yen repatriation."

The reply of the Government of India is reproduced below :—

" Your telegrams of 27th and 30th instant. Komagata Maru Indians. Government of India agree to pay expenses of repatriation up to 19,000 yen and would like to know immediately arrangements proposed. Very desirable they should return in one ship and land Madras; also that immediate intimation be given to allow officers to be sent to meet them in Singapore and travel rest of journey on board. Presumed you contemplate payment of passage and messing fares to those otherwise destitute only. If names of any specially undesirable or any other particulars likely to be of assistance known, would you kindly telegraph ?"

22. On receipt of this telegram the Consul decided, after discussing the question with Gurdit Singh, to send the passengers to Calcutta, and accordingly on the 3rd of September the Komagata Maru left Kobe for Calcutta, 9,000 yen having been paid in cash to Gurdit Singh for the purchase of provisions. Of this amount he expended, as far as the evidence indicates, about 435 yen only in the purchase of food, retaining the balance of approximately £856 and promising to divide it among the passengers on their arrival at Calcutta. The account of the proceedings of the Komagata Maru passengers at Kobe, in the history of the voyage compiled on board, states that the passengers besieged the Consulate, surrounded the Consul and openly accused him of fraud and treachery, and that it was only by a show of force and by threats that they were able to secure compliance with their demands. To the Captain of the Komagata Maru the Consul entrusted a letter addressed to the Government of India, to be delivered after arrival at Calcutta, in which he said that he left the question of diverting the Komagata Maru to Madras for settlement by the Government of India when the vessel arrived at Singapore and added that the Captain of the ship had asked him to telegraph to Calcutta to request that a strong guard should be sent down to him on board the boat bringing the pilot. He at the same time wired to the Government of India stating that the ship had started and that one of the passengers, Jawahir Mul, was a dangerous character. It is to be observed that in the wire no reference was made at any change in the ship's destination being arranged at Singapore, or to the request of the Captain for an armed guard.

23. The practical utility of communicating this suggestion as to diverting the destination of the vessel and the request of the Captain in a letter which could not be delivered until the ship had actually arrived at Calcutta is not very apparent, and it is, in our opinion, a matter for some regret that the Consul did not cable to India more accurate information regarding these passengers and the request of the Captain for armed assistance on arrival. We also are of opinion that, if the real facts had been ascertained, it would not have been necessary to advance this large sum of £900 to Gurdit Singh. The allegation in the cable to the Government of India that the only possible solution of the difficulty was to send the men to India is also open to question. Many of the passengers did in fact not want to return to India at all, and they are at present much aggrieved at having been sent back here. It is not very clear from the information before us why many might not have returned to the places from which they had come, and the net result of the action taken by the Consul-General at Kobe was that the Government of India has been put to a large amount of unnecessary expenditure in repatriating a number of Indians, many of whom did not wish to return to India, and whose return to this country was in no degree necessary or desirable from the point of view of the Government. The passenger Jawahir Mul, to whom reference was made in the telegram to the Government of India, was one of two passengers who joined the Komagata Maru at Kobe; the other new passenger being his brother Narain Das. Various opinions have been expressed as to the character of these two men, and the question is discussed in a later portion of this report.

24. On the 16th September the Komagata Maru arrived at Singapore, and the authorities at that port refused to allow any one to land, as this was not considered desirable owing to the state of war. It is probable that this decision was also in some degree due to the fact that the character and previous conduct of these passengers were known to the local authorities. Gurdit Singh attempted to get special permission to go on shore to purchase stores, but the request was refused. It also appears that at one time preparations were made to resist the Singapore police if they attempted to board the vessel. After a few days, however, all attempts to land were given up and the vessel resumed her voyage to Calcutta. It may here be noted that, according to the Japanese officers, the Singapore police were the only police for whom Gurdit Singh had any respect, and it was possibly for this reason that he desisted so quickly from his attempts to land there.

25. On the 26th of September the Komagata Maru arrived at the mouth of the Hughli. In the meantime information had reached the Government of India as to the probable date of the ship's arrival, and measures were taken in order to assist indigent passengers to their homes in the Punjab and to prevent any undesirable agitation and disturbance in Calcutta upon their arrival. With this object in view the Bengal Government, in consultation with the Government of the Punjab, decided to utilise the provisions of the Ingress into India Ordinance, 1914. This Ordinance, which has been enacted since the commencement of the present war, empowers the Government of India to restrict the liberty of any person entering into India after the 5th September, if such action is necessary in order to protect the State from the prosecution of some purpose prejudicial to its safety, interest or tranquillity. By Notification No. 1374, published in the Gazette of India on the 16th September 1914, the powers conferred by this Ordinance on the Government of India have been delegated to Local Governments. This Ordinance, therefore, with the Notification issued under it, gave the Local Government ample power to restrict the liberty of the passengers by the Komagata Maru, if such a course appeared to be necessary, and, having regard to the information before it, the Local Government of Bengal decided to utilize the provisions of the new law. After some discussion as to the best manner of dealing with the passengers, it was finally decided that they should be landed at Budge Budge, some 14 miles south of Calcutta, and there put into a special train and conveyed to their homes in the Punjab. From the information before Government, however, there was reason to believe that there were among the passengers a certain number of men whom it was unsafe to allow to remain at large in India in the present condition of affairs, and the intention was to detain these men in custody for such period as might be necessary or to take such other measures in respect of them as might be requisite to ensure the public safety and tranquillity.

26. In accordance with these arrangements a number of European and Indian officers, including Mr. Donald, District Magistrate of the 24-Parganas, within which district Kalpi and Budge Budge are situate, Mr. Humphreys, a Deputy Commissioner of the Punjab, Mr. Slocock of the Criminal Intelligence Department, Messrs. Petrie and Anley of the Police Department and Sirdar Sukha Singh, a Deputy Superintendent of the Punjab Police, met the Komagata Maru on the 27th September at Kalpi, some miles down the river Hughli below Calcutta. They interviewed the passengers and explained the intentions of Government. The luggage of the passengers was also examined for arms and seditious literature, and it appears that the persons of some of the returning Indians were also searched. Although, however, the general intentions of Government in respect of these emigrants were explained they were not then told that they were to travel to the Punjab from Budge Budge or that any of them were to be subjected to restraint either in Bengal or on arrival in the Punjab. On the 29th the ship arrived at Budge Budge and was moored to the jetty there about 11 A.M., and the passengers were directed to disembark and to proceed to the special train which was in readiness to convey them to the Punjab. It may here be noted that on arrival at Budge Budge the Komagata Maru was also met by Sir F. Halliday, the Commissioner of Police, Calcutta. At this period serious differences with the passengers began. There were in all 321 passengers on board, the very great majority being Sikhs. Amongst them were, however, 17 Muhammadans from the Shahpur districts in the Punjab. These 17 Muhammadans managed to elude the efforts of their fellow passengers to detain them and entered the special train not only willingly but gladly, as they alleged that they had been subjected to great ill-treatment by Gurdit Singh on the voyage. The remainder of the passengers steadily refused to disembark, in spite of the efforts of the various officers to induce them to do so. Finally, after a considerable delay, they were induced to take their luggage off the vessel, and disembarked. They then proceeded in a procession, headed by the Granth Sahib, the holy scripture of the Sikhs, which was carried by some of the passengers up to a level-crossing close to the railway station. Here they again halted and refused to proceed to the station, alleging that they did not believe that the train provided for them was going to the Punjab, that they were being deceived and would be sent to Assam and that in any case they wished to go first to Howrah to deposit the Granth Sahib in the Gurdwara or Sikh temple there. The officers present, who had been joined on the arrival of the ship at Budge Budge by a force of 27 Punjab police constables, attempted to induce the Sikhs to enter the train, but their efforts were fruitless in respect of the great majority of the passengers. Mr. Donald explained the effect of the Ordinance to them and pointed out that they would have to comply with the orders, but in vain. So serious had the position then become that Mr. Donald telephoned to Calcutta for military assistance; Sir William Duke, the only Member of the Executive Council of Bengal then in Calcutta, however, directed him to make further efforts to induce the men to entrain without the assistance of troops. Finally, at about 3 or 4 o'clock, there was an apparent change in the attitude of the passengers and all the officers present thought that they had at last agreed to go to the station. The Sikhs, who had previously been seated round the Granth Sahib, rose to their feet and prepared apparently to move to the train. It is clear, however, that by this time they had decided to adopt different tactics and intended to force their way to Calcutta; for instead of taking the path which leads to the station, they marched in a body across the line on to the Calcutta road. The officers present attempted to stop them and pointed out the folly of the course they were adopting and succeeded in inducing a few persons to return and enter the special train; but the majority persisted in proceeding on their way, accompanied by a body of Punjab police. This party under command of Deputy Superintendent Sukha Singh was directed to follow the Sikhs quietly but not to attempt to interfere with them. Indeed at this period the police force on the spot was utterly inadequate for any attempt to restrain them by force. Seeing that if the orders of the Government were to be carried out it was necessary to invoke military aid, Mr. Donald again telephoned to Calcutta for troops to be sent out to his assistance, and between 4 and 5 P.M., 150 of the Royal Fusiliers, under command of Captain Moore, and accompanied by the Hon'ble Sir William Duke, and the Hon'ble Mr. Cumming, Chief Secretary to the Bengal Government, proceeded from Fort William in motors to Budge Budge. Sir Frederick Halliday, the Commissioner of Police, Calcutta, also telegraphed to headquarters for a European police force to be sent out without delay, and about 30 European police armed with bamboo sticks started for Budge Budge by motor. The officer in command of this police force was Superintendent Eastwood, and the evidence indicates that he took four revolvers with him. It may also be noted that one other European police sergeant had with him an automatic pistol of his own. In the meantime it was ascertained at Budge Budge that 59 of the passengers of the Komagata Maru were ready to start in the special train and it was decided to despatch them without delay to their destination.

27. The European police met the main body of the Sikhs on their journey to Calcutta some 4 or 5 miles from Budge Budge and were able to arrest their progress for a short time until the troops arrived in spite of one or two endeavours to break through. On the arrival of Sir William Duke with the troops, the passengers were told that they would have to comply with the orders of Government and return to Budge Budge, and under compulsion they did so escorted by the European police and also by the Punjab police who had accompanied them on their way from Budge Budge. The troops followed at some distance behind. The Sikhs appear to have proceeded peaceably to the level-crossing near the station, already referred to, and the only difficulty was that, on the way, various individual members of the crowd with a view to escaping attempted to stray into shops on the roadside and elsewhere, alleging that they wanted to get water; but these attempts at escape were ineffectual and the stragglers were made to return to Budge Budge with the main body of the passengers.

28. On arrival at the level crossing there was a halt and some discussion took place as to the arrangements to be made in respect of the passengers for the night. It was then 6-30 or 7 P.M. and getting dark, though there was a rising moon. There was some uncertainty as to whether a second special train could be provided to convey the passengers to the Punjab immediately or whether it would be necessary to detain them on the ship under guard for the night, and the passengers were not allowed to go to the station until the matter was decided. During this halt a number of the passengers sat down and a cordon of police was formed round them. It was shortly after this that the serious riot occurred in which so many lives were lost.

29. In order to understand the position at this time it is necessary to refer to the plan annexed to this report and marked Appendix III. This plan is a sketch not prepared to scale, but it illustrates the actual position with sufficient accuracy and is readily intelligible. An examination of it shows the position of the passengers and the police when the riot began. The passengers were in a more or less compact body north-west of the level-crossing on a small road or path leading to the station, which is about 40 yards away from the level-crossing. The northern end of this crowd was guarded by the European police, the Punjab police being at the southern end. The European officers in attendance were scattered from the level-crossing to the station, some talking to the passengers and others making arrangements for their conveyance to the Punjab. While Sir William Duke was in the station arranging for the second special train Mr. Donald came up to the crowd and called for Gurdit Singh and asked him to come forward in order that the exact position of affairs might be explained to him. Gurdit Singh refused to come out of the crowd and asked Mr. Donald to address him where he was. A European police sergeant went in among the Sikhs to bring Gurdit Singh out but was ordered to desist from any attempt to do so. At this moment Superintendent Eastwood who was standing among the European police stepped forward into the crowd. His own statement, before he died, was to the effect that he went to get back a stick which one of the Sikhs had snatched away from a police officer, but it seems to us more probable that he really went in order to call out Gurdit Singh; and, whether this was the case or not, we are clearly of opinion that this is what all the Sikhs believed. Directly he went in among the Sikhs they closed round him and assaulted him, and one of them fired a shot which probably was the cause of the injury which resulted in the death of Mr. Eastwood. As soon as this shot was fired there was a general attack on the police and a large number of shots were fired at them by the Sikhs. Those police who had firearms used them against their assailants, and a melée ensued in which the Sikhs used any weapons they had, the police using their sticks to protect themselves and, in the case of the Punjab constables, apparently their swords also. The majority of the troops at this moment were some distance in the rear on the Calcutta road, that is, to the east of the scene of the riot. Two platoons of 40 or 50 men had, however, been brought up to the railway line and took up the position marked "Troops" in the plan, but for a short space of time they were unable to use their rifles as the attacking Sikhs and the police were so mixed up that it would have been dangerous to fire. In a short time the police managed to extricate themselves from the crowd and took refuge, some near the level-crossing and behind the troops, and others in the direction of the station. In the meantime the Sikhs continued firing at them and Captain Moore asked Sir Frederick Halliday, who was standing near the level-crossing, if he was to order his men to fire. Receiving a reply in the affirmative, he at once opened fire and the Sikhs after a short time broke and fled in various directions. A number, however, continued to use their firearms, particularly from the direction of three shops to the west of the level-crossing. The troops returned this fire with considerable effect and also according to the evidence fired at individual Sikhs who were using firearms from other places of shelter. In a few minutes the firing ceased and shortly afterwards the wounded were collected and sent to Calcutta. Superintendent Eastwood, who had been fatally injured in the early part of the riot, was, it should be noted, removed to a place of safety while the firing yet continued. Captain Moore put out a number of pickets round the station and collected all the European women and children living in the vicinity in a house which was guarded by some of the troops. It is alleged that there were some shots fired later on, but save as described in a subsequent paragraph of the report the only satisfactory evidence we have of this is that a picket used its rifles on a Sikh who had opened fire upon it, and that during the night one soldier fired at some unknown person who did not answer when challenged; it is very doubtful whether anyone was injured by this shot, as the private who fired believes that he did not hit the man aimed at. The following morning the dead bodies of those killed in the riot were collected and examined by Colonel Newman, Civil Surgeon of the 24-Pargannas, and arrangements which had been commenced at night for the arrest of fugitive rioters were completed.

30. Our enquiries have shown that, in all, this riot resulted in the loss of 26 lives. These include 20 Sikhs, 2 Europeans, 2 Punjab police officers, and 2 Indian residents of Budge-Budge. The two Europeans killed were Superintendent Eastwood of the Calcutta police and Mr. Lomax, District Loco. Superintendent of the Eastern Bengal State Railway. The former was the first man attacked by the Sikhs and was fatally injured early in the riot. He was removed without delay to a place of safety and then conveyed to the General Hospital, but died a few days later in consequence of the injuries which he had received. Mr. Lomax had gone to Budge Budge, to assist in making the railway arrangements, and whilst standing on the railway line close to the scene of occurrence was wounded by a shot from a ·38 revolver which must have been fired by one of the Sikhs. He was also conveyed without delay to hospital, but died before he arrived there.

The two Indian police officers killed were Mal Singh, Head Constable, Ludhiana Police, and Sawan Singh, a constable of the same force, both of whom had come to Calcutta to assist in the arrangements for conveying the passengers by the Komagata Maru to the Punjab. The manner in which these officers met their death is discussed in a later portion of this report. For the present, it is sufficient to say that Mal Singh died at Budge Budge and Sawan Singh died while he was being conveyed to Calcutta.

The two spectators who were killed were Rukmini Kanta Majumdar, a relative of the compounder of the local hospital, and Dinabandhu Pande, the Uriya servant of a shopkeeper who trades close to the level-crossing. The first of these men was, we believe, killed by the troops, as the bullet wound from which he died is described as having probably been caused by a ·303 rifle. There is no evidence to explain his presence at the scene of this occurrence except that it is said that he was coming up from the river at the time of the riot, and we have no doubt that he must have been accidently shot at that time. In view of the circumstances and of the fact that the riot took place at night, we are satisfied that no blame attaches to the troops for the death of this unfortunate man.

Dinabandhu Pande, or Patak, the remaining outsider killed, was found dead on the morning following the riot in the shop of his master, just west of the level-crossing. Adhar Dwari, in whose service this man was, alleges that the deceased died from the effects of a gunshot wound; but the medical evidence indicates that his death was, in fact, the result of wounds in the abdomen received from some pointed weapon. It appears that the deceased also had a serious injury on his arm caused by some cutting weapon. There is no evidence as to how he came by these wounds, but there is some evidence that the shop and its vicinity were the scene of a melée between the Sikhs on the one hand and the Punjab police officers on the other. Some of the former had knives and axes with them and the latter had swords, some of which were snatched away from them by the Sikhs in the course of the riot. It is probable, therefore, that the deceased was mistaken for an enemy in the dark and killed either by one of the Sikhs or by a constable: but of this there is no definite evidence.

31. Of these twenty Sikhs, eighteen died from the effects of gunshot wounds; one was accidentally drowned apparently in an attempt to escape by swimming across the Hughli, and one who was injured died of cholera while in hospital. Of the Sikhs who died from the effects of gunshot wounds, all but one were killed by bullets from ·303 rifles, service revolvers, or ·32 pistols, according to the medical evidence, but one man, Narain Singh, was killed by a bullet from a ·38 revolver. It is in evidence that the only weapons used by the police and troops were service revolvers of ·450 bore, ·303 rifles and two automatic pistols of ·32 bore. There is ample evidence, on the other hand, to show that many of the Sikhs were armed with American revolvers of ·38 calibre. It is therefore in our opinion clear that this man Narain Singh was killed by one of his own companions, probably by accident.

32. The information before us as to the number of persons injured in the course of the riot is not very definite so far as the passengers by the Komagata Maru are concerned. This appears to be due partly to the frequent recurrence in different reports of unfamiliar names and partly also to the fact that certain of the rioters with marks of wounds on them were not arrested until several days had elapsed after the riot. Collating, as far as possible, the material available, it appears that of the passengers, 23 including one Muhammadan were more or less seriously wounded in the riot. In addition to this, 6 European and 5 Punjab Police officers were injured together with an Indian who was in the vicinity of the riot but did not take any part in it. The total number of persons injured was thus 35. The European officers were Mr. R. Humphreys, I.C.S., of the Punjab Commission, whose forehead was grazed by a bullet and who was also wounded by a blow from a stick; Mr. D. Petrie of the Punjab Police who received bullet wounds in the arm and thigh; Sir Frederick Halliday, Commissioner of Police, Calcutta, who was similarly injured in the left foot; and Sergeants Quinlan, Boyd and Edwards of the Calcutta Police who sustained more or less serious injuries. Of the five Indian Punjab Police officers, Sub-Inspector Nanak Chand had his left arm broken by a blow from a stick, while Constable Hari Singh received five wounds inflicted by a cutting instrument, of which one severed the bone of his left forearm, and another on the head, which is 6 inches long, cut into and exposed the brain. The latter wound was of a most dangerous character, but the patient has made a most unexpected recovery. The evidence proves that all the persons above referred to were wounded by some of the Punjab passengers of the Komagata Maru. Constable Allah Baksh received two bullet wounds from one of which, after the lapse of more than a month, a man-stopping bullet from a revolver of ·455 or possibly ·450 bore was extracted. Ammunition of this kind is not ordinarily issued either to the military or to the police, so that it may be inferred that the revolver with which the wound was inflicted was used by one of the rioters. The bullet extracted from the second wound of Allah Baksh was one from a ·38 revolver and it is obvious that the wound was caused by one of the Sikhs. Of the Komagata Maru passengers, Pir Baksh, a Muhammadan, was shot through the chest. From the size of the bullet extracted from the patient which was one from a ·38 bore revolver it is clear that it must have been fired by one of the rioters and this is in agreement with the evidence of Pir Baksh himself. Mangal Singh, one of the Sikhs, was severely wounded, sustaining an extensive fracture of the head of the left humerus. Another serious case was that Rulla Singh whose lower jaw was completely shot away probably by a ·303 military bullet. Another man Badal Singh received no less than 6 bullet wounds, all apparently caused by a small bore weapon. The spectator, Naba Kumar Hazra, who was injured, received a dangerous wound through the chest from a bullet, fired apparently from a ·38 revolver; the shot which caused this wound must therefore have been fired by one of the Sikhs. According to his own account he was standing some 120 yards from the scene of the riot at a place which was not in the line of fire from the troops.

33. It will be convenient here to deal with the question of the two Punjab Police officers who were killed in the course of this riot, namely, Head Constable Mal Singh, and Constable Sawan Singh. Two of the Indian railway officials at Budge Budge state that these 2 police officers were shot without any justification by a body of Fusiliers on the railway platform close to the booking office. The witnesses state that the 2 deceased were standing in the station guarding 3 Sikhs who had been arrested, when 10 or 15 Fusiliers advanced to the edge of the platform and that 4 or 5 shots were then fired at the constables or at the Sikh prisoners whom they were guarding by some of these Fusiliers with the result that Head Constable Mal Singh was wounded so severely that he died almost immediately and that Sawan Singh received injuries which subsequently proved fatal. On the other hand, the Punjab police constables who were at Budge Budge give an entirely different account of the manner in which these 2 men met their death. In these circumstances we had to make somewhat detailed inquiries into the matter, and as a result of them we are satisfied that the whole of the story as told by these two Indian railway officials is false. In the first place we find that Mal Singh and Sawan Singh were not shot at the same time or place, and that neither of them was shot in the railway station. As to Sawan Singh it appears from the evidence given before us, that he died from the effects of a gunshot wound received on the road on which the Sikhs assembled after their return to Budge Budge somewhere near the level-crossing. He was removed after the riot to the station and was subsequently sent in for treatment in Calcutta. He died before he reached hospital, and his body was examined by the Police Surgeon. It was then ascertained that death was the result of a gunshot wound, but at the time there was no one present to identify the body of this man. This was also the case in respect of two other Sikhs who were sent in at the same time, although all these three deceased were subsequently identified by means of photographs taken after their decease. It is proved that all these three unknown deceased persons died from the effects of gunshot wounds. Major Moses, the Police Surgeon, who held the post mortem, inclines to the view that the wounds of all these unknown deceased were probably caused by a firearm of ·32 bore but the bullets were not recovered and he is not certain of the correctness of this opinion. It has also been proved by the constables who picked up Sawan Singh that it was never suggested at the time that he had been shot by the Fusiliers, and indeed, one man states that Sawan Singh himself said he had been killed by the Sikhs. If he was shot by the Fusiliers or thePolice there is no evidence how it was done and it must have been an accident but in the circumstances we think it probable that he was killed as stated by him by one of the Sikh rioters. The evidence indicates that the Sikhs had in addition to revolvers of ·38 bore at least one pistol of ·32 bore, and that two pistols of the latter bore were used by two police officers, Mr. Petrie and Sergeant Borgen.

34. The case of Mal Singh is more important. North of the station building there is a fence which divides the platform from a plot of ground at the back of the station. It appears from the deposition of a European police officer, who states that he was an eye-witness of this occurrence, that about half an hour after the riot had been quelled, 10 or 12 of the Fusiliers came up to this fencing and that some of them saw through the fence a man moving in this plot of ground behind the station with a sword in his hand. Two soldiers, as it is stated, fired at this man and injured him very severely. The person wounded proved to be Mal Singh, a Head Constable of police, and it is probable that he was really searching for fugitive Sikhs when he was shot, having his sword in his hand to protect himself and also using it to search for persons concealed in jungle growth. The wounded man was according to the evidence of this police officer shortly afterwards brought into the station and placed on a table in the booking-office; and in consequence of the want of vigilance of two Punjabi constables who were supposed to be watching him, he rolled on to the floor and shortly afterwards died from the effects of the injuries received. It was freely stated at the time that he had been killed by some of the troops and this story appears to be correct. The medical evidence as to the weapon which caused this Head Constable's death is not very clear and no bullet was found on his body. At one time Colonel Newman stated that he thought the wound was probably caused by a bullet from a ·303 rifle but he modified this opinion later and stated that it might have been caused by a small bore pistol. We think that the opinion first expressed was probably correct. We are further of opinion that the testimony of the police officer referred to is worthy of credit and if this is accepted we think the conduct of the soldiers who shot this head constable cannot be justified. If they had taken reasonable precautions to ascertain who the man was, the accident would not have happened.

35. With the exception referred to in the previous paragraph, and subject to the result of enquiries in regard to an incident to which reference will be made later, we think on the evidence before us that the conduct of the troops was satisfactory. They did not fire until it was absolutely necessary to do so, and there was, as far as we have been able to ascertain, no wild or unnecessary firing in the suppression of this riot. The death of Mazumdar, to which reference has already been made, was an accident which was we think unavoidable in the circumstances, in the confusion of a serious riot of this nature at night. The evidence to the number of cartridges used shows that 177 cartridges were fired by the troops.

36. It has been suggested that the number of Sikhs actually killed in this riot was larger than has been reported, that many innocent men and women were also shot by the troops, and that a number of Sikhs were killed after the riot was over and thrown into the river. These allegations have no foundation in fact. No single witness has stated before us that he either saw or heard of any outsider being killed or injured other than those who have already been referred to; and as to the story of men being shot and thrown into the river or that more Sikhs were killed than was stated in the Government report, there is equal lack of evidence. Indeed the only person who makes any statement on this point is Amir Mohamed Khan, a leader of the disaffected party on board the ship and a man of such character that his statements are unworthy of credit.

The suggestion that any of the rioters were killed by bayonet wounds is also, in our opinion, untrue. In fact the only person who is known to have been wounded with a bayonet was injured very slightly, and though we are sceptical as to some of the details of the story told to us of the manner in which he received his injuries, we do not think that any blame attaches to the Fusiliers in connection with the incident, and in any case the injury inflicted was very trifling.

37. Having now concluded the general account of the main facts connected with the voyage of the Komagata Maru and the riot at Budge Budge, it is necessary to deal with a number of important questions which require separate and careful examination. In the first place, it is desirable that we should place on record our views as to the necessity of taking action under the Ingress into India Ordinance in respect of these passengers. We consider that, in the circumstances, the Government of Bengal was justified in having recourse to the provisions of this law. We believe that in deciding to provide a special train for these passengers, this Government was to a great extent actuated by charitable motives, as the information before it was to the effect that these returned emigrants were in a destitute condition, and it was therefore very desirable, in the interests of the passengers themselves, that they should be assisted in their journey to the Punjab. But independently of this, the character of many of these passengers and their violent conduct at Vancouver, Kobe and Singapore, and subsequently at Budge Budge, indicates that many of them were men of a dangerous character: most of them were by this time under the influence of Gurdit Singh and his followers, many were actually disaffected towards Government and ready for any mischief. If they had been allowed at large in Calcutta they would have endangered the public peace, and we think that the Government of Bengal acted wisely in deciding to send them direct to the Punjab and to give them no opportunity of disturbing the public tranquillity during the present state of war.

38. As to the methods adopted for enforcing these measures there is perhaps more room for criticism, but it is always easy to be wise after the event; and it appears to us that the Government decided to adopt the measures actually taken partly owing to a lack of information and more particularly from a misapprehension as to the real position of affairs on the ship. From information received at the time the vessel arrived at Vancouver the Government had been led to believe that there were two factions on board the ship, that the party opposed to Gurdit Singh was considerably stronger than that of his adherents. It was also believed that the sufferings on the voyage, the disputes as to food and the discovery of the worthless nature of the promises made by Gurdit Singh had engendered very bitter feelings against him. The facts, however, were that whatever the feelings of the passengers towards Gurdit Singh were when they first arrived at Vancouver, he had subsequently regained the whole of his influence over them. The real leader of the faction opposed to him, Dr. Raghunath Singh, landed at Vancouver and another leader, Bhan Singh, also tried to disembark. Both these men were therefore regarded by their fellow-passengers as deserters and traitors. Gurdit Singh and his adherents on the other hand remained on boardship, supported the passengers in all their endeavours to secure admission into Canada, and if they were not successful in these attempts at least obtained from the Government of Canada a quantity of provisions for the return journey. Their statements that these articles had been extorted by force out of the Canadian Government were accepted, and their power on the Komagata Maru proportionately increased. This influence was further strengthened by Gurdit Singh's successful endeavours to obtain a large sum of money out of the British Consul at Kobe. There is also evidence to prove that Gurdit Singh told the passengers that, on his return to India, he would similarly secure compensation for them from the Government of India on account of their pecuniary losses. Finally the evidence indicates that the attempts on the part of the revolutionary party in Canada and of the disloyal party on the vessel to excite disaffection against the Government had been remarkably successful on the return journey among many of the passengers; all of whom were smarting under a sense of injustice and injury. Gurdit Singh, throughout the return voyage posed as a revolutionary leader on board the steamer, and this also tended to bring many of the passengers on to his side. When the Komagata Maru arrived at Calcutta, therefore, the Government officers, who had expected to find a large number of destitute passengers on board, the majority of whom were violently hostile to Gurdit Singh, found instead that he had at this time most of the passengers completely under his control; that many of them had been excited to a state of serious disaffection towards the Government, and as it turned out that a considerable number of them were armed and prepared to go to almost any length in their opposition to the authorities. The question of the number of firearms on this vessel is discussed later, but for the present it is sufficient to state that there were in fact a number of firearms on board of which the authorities had no information. It seems to us probable that if the real facts had been before the Government, the measures taken would have been of a different character, but in the circumstances and having regard to the information of the Local Government as to the position of affairs on the ship, we do not think we should be justified in coming to the conclusion that the measures taken were, save in one respect, unsuitable. It was very desirable for obvious reasons to avoid the use of force as far as possible, and the Government had every reason to hope and believe that, with a small body of police to assist, there would be no difficulty in inducing the emigrants to accept the arrangements made for them.

39. There is one point, however, regarding which we are not satisfied that the measures adopted by the Government were either appropriate or adequate and that is the measures taken for searching the passengers. We think that, if it was considered necessary to search these passengers at all, it would have been better to have had effective searches made. As it was, the luggage of these men was searched on more than one occasion and the persons of some were examined, and there can be no doubt that the passengers were irritated at these prolonged examinations. Both the evidence and the actual results indicate, moreover, that these searches were entirely ineffective. Some of the witnesses inform us that the searches were undertaken mainly in the hope of preventing seditious literature from being introduced into India; but it is, we think, clear from the evidence that the officers who carried out the searches were also on the lookout for firearms. If it was necessary to search for arms, we think that each individual passenger and his luggage should have been examined as he left the ship, and that if it was apprehended that the passengers would openly defy the authorities in such a search it would have been wise to have had an armed force in attendance to overawe any resistance. We admit, however, that there is considerable force in the arguments against such a procedure, and as before said, we feel and recognise how easy it is to criticise the action taken after the whole affair is over.

40. In regard to the arrangements made for meeting the ship we have mentioned that Mr. Donald, the local District Magistrate, Sir Frederick Halliday, the Commissioner of the Calcutta Police, Mr. Humphreys, a Deputy Commissioner of the Punjab, Mr. Slocock of the Criminal Intelligence Department, and Mr. Petrie of the Punjab Police were all present at Budge Budge when the ship arrived. The presence of all these officers might suggest that there was some confusion as to who was ultimately responsible for the orders given, but Mr. Donald's evidence proves that he was in charge of the arrangements and that the others attended only to advise him, and we do not think that there was in fact any division of authority.

41. As to Sir Frederick Halliday giving the order to fire, it appears that the troops were not within his jurisdiction as Commissioner of Police when he gave this order; the boundaries of the Calcutta police jurisdiction and those of the District and Railway police are, however, very complicated and confused in that vicinity. We think that in any case the order to fire would have come more properly from Mr. Donald, but the officer commanding the troops was, in our opinion, justified in opening fire when he did, as the circumstances were such that this course was necessary to save the lives of those present. Captain Moore was also not aware of the fact that Mr. Donald was the senior Magistrate present, and there was no time for him to make enquiries as to who was " the Magistrate of the highest rank." He appealed to Sir Frederick Halliday as the chief civil authority known to him on the spot. And it should be noted that Sir Frederick Halliday is a Magistrate vested with first-class powers, exerciseable as he states, throughout the district of the 24-Parganas.

42. The question of arms has already been referred to more than once in this report, but in view of the importance of this question some more detailed discussion of the point seems desirable. It is in evidence that, on the voyage out to Vancouver, there were at first only three or four pistols on board, and it is clear that, when the riot took place at Budge Budge, the passengers had in their possession a considerable number of firearms in excess of this number. Some of the officers present estimate that the number of revolvers used by the rioters was 30 or 40. The evidence of other witnesses indicate that a much smaller number was used, one officer indeed mentions six as the number of firearms used by the Sikhs. We think that the actual number was probably between these two extremes and that these Sikhs had at least 20 revolvers. Six of these were recovered after the riot, some being picked up at the scene of the occurrence and others being taken from the persons of the rioters after arrest. It is noteworthy that these weapons are all American revolvers of the same pattern S. & W. ·38 Calibre, the serial numbers of five of them being 112357, 112377, 112388, 112390, 112429. The numbers indicate that, probably, these five revolvers were purchased at one and at the same time. It is stated, and we believe the statement to be true, that they were distributed among the passengers by Gurdit Singh on the morning on which this riot occurred. From the evidence and circumstances, we infer that Gurdit Singh or one of his adherents procured these arms for use in case of need and that the general body of the passengers had nothing to do with them until the day on which the ship arrived at Budge Budge. It is difficult to state definitely when and where these arms were procured, or the object for which they were purchased. There is evidence to prove that at Vancouver efforts were made by Gurdit Singh to obtain arms from the disaffected Indians on shore through the Captain and Steward of the Komagata Maru, but there is nothing to show that these efforts were successful. The Captain of the ship speaks of 200 pistols being smuggled on board at Yokohama, but his evidence is very vague, and we think that the figure is probably exaggerated. There is again a suggestion that part of the money advanced by the Consul at Kobe was used for the purchase of firearms there: we cannot say that this is satisfactorily proved, but we think it is probable that a number of these firearms were obtained in Japan. In any case it is certain that when the vessel left Singapore on the return journey there were a large number of revolvers on board. There is evidence that some of these were thrown overboard between Singapore and Calcutta, and this story was accepted both by the Captain of the ship and by the officers who met the ship at Kalpi, but the depositions on this point are to some extent conflicting and also vague and unconvincing. Indeed this story that firearms were thrown overboard is chiefly important in that it was believed by the officers who met the vessel, and was one of the causes which led them to hope even after the ship arrived that they would not meet with serious resistance from the passengers. There is no direct evidence as to the purpose for which these arms were purchased. It has been suggested that they were procured in order to overawe the passengers who were hostile to Gurdit Singh, and also to enable his adherents to meet the crew on equal terms in case of necessity, but we incline to the view that the arms were really obtained with the intention of using them against the authorities if occasion should arise, and that, in purchasing them, Gurdit Singh was influenced by the consideration prevalent, amongst all those who take part in revolutionary movements that they should be possessed of fire-arms. As to the distribution of the arms on the 29th of September by Gurdit Singh, we think it is clear that, by this time, Gurdit Singh was eminently suspicious of the intentions of Government regarding him, and that he dis-distributed the pistols amongst his adherents with the deliberate intention of using them, if necessary, to resist the Government officers in any action they might take against him. In any case it is certain that these weapons were loaded and ready for use at the moment the riot began, and that the use of them was foreseen and was part of a definite plan.

43. A discussion of the question of firearms naturally leads to two other important points in this enquiry, namely, the question of who began the firing at Budge Budge and whether any of the Punjabis who used firearms were identified. As to the first point there is abundant evidence to show that it was the Sikhs who opened fire, that the police used their revolvers to defend themselves against their assailants, and that the troops only opened fire at a subsequent period when it was absolutely necessary to do so and after the Sikhs had fired about 20 or 30 shots. An attempt has been made by many of the Sikh prisoners and some persons resident at Budge Budge as also by one Indian railway official to make out that the Sikhs on their return to Budge Budge were ordered to halt near the level-crossing and that the troops then opened fire on them for no reason whatever. This story is in itself inherently improbable and there is ample evidence of the most trustworthy character to prove that it is false; this fact is so clear indeed that it would, in our opinion, be a waste of time to discuss it at any length. The Sikhs who made the statement have obvious reasons for inventing such a story and couple with it an allegation that they had no firearms with them, a statement which is certainly untrue. The only railway officer who makes this allegation does not give the same evidence before us on this point that he gave on previous occasion, and has also given us an incorrect version of two other incidents in this occurrence to which reference will be made later. The villagers who deposed to the fact that the troops began the firing did not, we believe, really see how the riot began, as the actual affray began after dark and at some little distance from their shops. We think also that directly there was any apprehension of a disturbance most of those residing in the vicinity fled from the scene of the occurrence in fear of injury. We apprehend that they may have been influenced in their evidence by the fact that a large number of Sikhs have been killed, by the stories which have been circulated of the ill-treatment of one Mangal Singh, who was arrested on the 30th September, and by a feeling of sympathy with the passengers on account of the refusal of the Canadian authorities to admit them into Canada.

44. Although, however, we find that it is proved that the firing was begun by the Sikhs who were as the evidence indicates the only persons who had firearms ready for use at that moment, there is, in our opinion, no satisfactory evidence to indicate which of the Sikhs actually used revolvers. The man who fired at Superintendent Eastwood has not been identified, but from the statements of some of the witnesses it seems probable that he was killed in the riot, and in the confusion which followed it was impossible to identify any of the others passengers who used firearms. There is satisfactory evidence, however, to prove that weapons were found on the person of one man who was arrested after the riot, and that in the case of another absconder arrested some days after the occurrence a revolver was found lying under a tree where he had been seen just before he was arrested. But beyond this there is no satisfactory evidence to connect any individual Sikh with the possession of arms. The one man who was found armed on arrest, Surain Singh, has been prosecuted for possession of a revolver without a license under the Arms Act. Allegations have been made that another Sikh was arrested on the morning of the 30th with a revolver which he was about to fire at the Fusilier who arrested him, but for a variety of reasons we are rather sceptical as to this evidence.

45. We have already stated that, in our opinion, the immediate cause of this attack by the Sikhs upon the police was the action taken by Superintendent Eastwood to bring Gurdit Singh out of the crowd for an interview with Mr. Donald. But in the circumstances it is necessary to discuss this important question in greater detail. There is no evidence to indicate that Superintendent Eastwood deliberately provoked the attack on him, that he behaved improperly or used any violence to any of the Sikhs, and in these circumstances there was, in our opinion, no justification whatever for the violent attack of the Sikhs or for the use of firearms. Indeed, we think that, in ordinary circumstances, the action of Superintendent Eastwood would have had no harmful result and that it was the peculiar conditions and circumstances of the case which caused this action to be so keenly resented on this occasion. It must be remembered that the Sikhs are, generally speaking, both courageous and excitable, and the passengers on board the Komagata Maru were by this time in a state of acute discontent and irritation. Many of them were, we believe, full of the seditious doctrines which they had been taught on the journey, and had been led by Gurdit Singh to believe that their ends could only be gained by force. The conduct of the Colonial authorities in refusing to allow them to land at Hong Kong or Singapore had rendered them more bitter than ever, and by the time they arrived in British India, they had come to believe that Gurdit Singh was the only man who would be able to secure some compensation for their losses and sufferings. They were therefore prepared to take any risk in protecting him from arrest. At the time of this outbreak, moreover, their tempers were not improved by a march of 8 or 10 miles in the heat of a September day, or by the treatment they had received from some of the European police sergeants on the way back to Budge Budge. As to this last point, it is in evidence that on the way back to Budge Budge, many of the passengers attempted to stray from time to time into shops and bye-ways, probably with a view to escape, but ostensibly to get water to drink, and they were forcibly brought back to the road and made to rejoin the main body of the passengers. Some of the passengers state indeed that during this part of their journey, the police officers repeatedly kicked them. We do not find any satisfactory evidence of this, but there is credible testimony that some of the police were rough to persistent stragglers and used more force than was necessary in preventing attempts to stray. We do not think that the violence used can have been very great or it would have led to immediate reprisals and also would have attracted the attention of some of the superior officers in attendance. All these circumstances, in our opinion, stimulated and accentuated the irritation which prevailed among the passengers. Under these conditions very little was needed to cause a breach of the peace. The advance of Superintendent Eastwood towards Gurdit Singh with the possible intention of arresting him was quite sufficient to cause the passengers to break out into open violence, and when a single shot was fired by some mischievous adherent of Gurdit Singh, those of the passengers who were in possession of firearms were ready enough to follow the example. It is probable also that the Sikhs were at the time when the riot began in ignorance of the presence of the troops at Budge Budge. The occurrence took place at night, the troops were some distance in the rear, and even if it is accepted that the troops had been seen when the passengrs were turned back on the Calcutta road, it is quite possible that they were not aware that the troops had followed them as far as Budge Budge. It is difficult to believe indeed that men of ordinary prudence would have attempted to use firearms on the police if they had been aware that a large body of troops was in the immediate vicinity ready to assist the authorities if called on.

46. Another matter of some interest which we have investigated with considerable care is the reason which led the passengers by the S.S. Komagata Maru to refuse to proceed to the Punjab from Budge Budge. We are of opinion that in this matter, as in other matters of importance throughout the voyage, the majority of the passengers acted under the influence of Gurdit Singh and his immediate adherents. At the time Gurdit Singh was very anxious to get to Calcutta to pose as a martyr and inaugurate an agitation against the British Government in respect of this voyage of the Komagata Maru. He had failed in his desire to secure admission for the emigrants into Vancouver and all he could hope for was that he might be able to inflame the minds of the public against the British authorities and in particular the Canadian Government; this object was likely to be frustrated if he and his fellow passengers were not allowed to go to Calcutta. Many of the emigrants did not, however, share this view; they were anxious to take advantage of the assistance offered to them by the Government, and for this reason about 60 of them did proceed in the special train provided for them at Budge Budge. It is stated that some of these men, notably the 17 Mahomedans from Shahpur, were the more ready to go as they owed Gurdit Singh money but they deny owing him anything. In any case it is not alleged that the rest of those who went off by the train were debtors of Gurdit Singh, and we do not doubt that a large number of the passengers would have consented to enter this train but for the misrepresentations of Gurdit Singh. To some of the passengers he alleged that the train was not being sent to Punjab at all, that all trains for the Punjab started from Howrah, and that no train could go there from Budge Budge which is not on the Howrah side of the Hughli. This incorrect statement was the more readily believed, because in the ordinary course of events trains do not proceed direct from Budge Budge to the Punjab and the passengers had not apparently been warned that they would be landed there. To other passengers, to whom he owed money on account of the advances made to him at Moji, Gurdit Singh stated that he was unable to pay his dues at the time but would do so if he was given an opportunity of going to the Sikh temple at Howrah; and many of the Sikhs who were owed money by Gurdit Singh were unwilling to leave him until he had satisfied their demands. He had also promised to distribute among the passengers when they arrived in British India, the balance of the 9,000 yen given to him at Kobe. This too he refused to do until he had reached the Gurdwara at Howrah. Finally, it is in evidence that he promised many of the unfortunate people that if they accompanied him to Calcutta he would bring a suit against the Government to secure repayment of the money spent by them on the voyage to Canada, and many appear to have followed him on his march to Calcutta in the hope that he would be able to secure for them compensation from the Government for the losses which they had suffered. We are of opinion that the majority of the emigrants who refused to comply with the orders of Government to entrain at Budge Budge did so owing to their belief in these and other similar allegations made by Gurdit Singh. We believe also that if many of these men had been left to themselves they would have made no attempt to force their way to Calcutta and have proceeded quietly to the Punjab.

47. In the course of this report we have frequently referred to Gurdit Singh and his close adherents, and it may be useful therefore if we state our views as to who these adherents were, as they really constituted the leaders of the Komagata Maru venture, and are responsible in great measure for the misfortunes of the passengers. The list we give below does not purport to be complete, as there is a great lack of information regarding many of the emigrants; but of those whose names have been brought prominently to our notice, we think that the following were intimately connected with Gurdit Singh in this venture :—

1. Daljit Singh, Secretary to Gurdit Singh.
2. Amir Mahommed Khan, Joint Secretary.

3. Bir Singh, Joint Secretary.
4. Amar Singh Nihang, of Lahore District.
5. Sucha Singh, son of Ala Singh, of Lahore District.
6. Kehar Singh, son of Jhanda Singh, of Khemoana, Faridkot State.
7. Harnam Singh, son of Rur Singh, of Khabra, Lahore District.
8. Surain Singh, son of Jowala Singh, of Sirhali, Amritsar District.
9. Tehal Singh, son of Gonda Singh, of Rambala, Sirhali, Amritsar District.
10. Indar Singh alias Trilochan Singh, son of Partab Singh, of Chirik Kalsia Singh.
11. Sundar Singh, son of Wariyam Singh, of Ajitwal, Ferozepore.
12. Tara Singh, son of Kahn Singh, of Aluni Meani, Ludhiana.
13. Nabkaul Singh, son of Albel Singh, of Maharajbheri, Nabha State.

Of these Gurdit Singh and Daljit Singh have not been accounted for. Bir Singh left the ship in Japan on the return voyage; Tehal Singh and Khar Singh are, it is believed, dead; the rest are prisoners in the Kalighat Jail. Most of these men appear to be violent and dangerous characters and ready to go to great length in support of Gurdit Singh. On the other hand, we think that the majority of the rest of the passengers are in themselves harmless. We do not seek to justify their conduct at Budge Budge, as it is clear that a large number of them must have joined in this lawless and violent attack upon the police and we do not desire to minimize their guilt in this respect. At the same time we think that they are in many ways much to be pitied. They had waited many months at various ports in the East with the intention of proceeding to Canada, a land represented to them as flowing with milk and honey, and when they did start on this voyage, they were fully impressed with the idea that they would be allowed to land on arrival without objection. They suffered considerable hardships on the voyage out, and those who had any money with them were made to subscribe considerable sums over and above their fares for this venture. On arrival at Vancouver they were refused admission and waited there for a period of two months, making fruitless efforts to secure permission to land. During this period they suffered great hardships, and were for a time in actual want of food. Finally they were directed to return, having spent about a lakh and a half of rupees on the voyage. Throughout the voyage they were subjected to seditious influences, particularly at Vancouver and on the return journey, and in the circumstances were peculiarly susceptible to the advice of disaffected and seditious leaders. Their discontent was accentuated by the fact that they were refused admission to Hong Kong where many of them had lived before, and because they were not allowed to land at Singapore. Finally, when they arrived in the Hughli, their resentment was aggravated by prolonged searches of their luggage, and by the fact that they were denied access to Calcutta where they hoped to obtain some compensation for the losses which they had suffered. The ship was taken to Budge Budge, a place with which they were not familiar and they were suddenly directed to proceed from there direct to the Punjab. Apart from any considerations of the propriety of the various measures to which we have referred, it is clear that they were likely to cause, and in fact did cause, active feelings of discontent and irritation among the passengers. Having regard to these facts, we think that, if the conduct of these men calls for very severe censure in many respects, they are also entitled to commiseration.

48. The case of Jawahir Mull and his brother Narain Das requires separate consideration. Jawahir Mull is a young man of 23 years of age and a graduate in Arts; Narain Das is a youth of 17 and well educated for his age. The evidence regarding them is very divergent. The Consul-General at Kobe described Jawahir Mull as a dangerous character, and the same opinion is expressed in more decided language regarding both brothers by all the Japanese officers. The passengers on the other hand speak of them as being perfectly inoffensive travellers. They certainly did not take any part in the movement to emigrate to Canada, as they did not join the ship until the return was nearly completed. We are not in complete agreement as to the character of these two passengers, and we find it very difficult to decide this question on the evidence before us. We consider, however, that it would be impossible to frame any definite opinion in respect of them until further inquiries have been made both in Kobe and in their native province.

49. We may now consider the incident referred to in paragraph 35, which is the subject of a police enquiry. It is in evidence that when the Komagata Maru came to Budge Budge there were in Gurdit Singh's safe on board the vessel considerable sums of money, including about £300 in gold, some Rs. 2,000 in Indian currency and a large roll of Japanese notes. The exact amount was unfortunately not ascertained, but the evidence of Mr. Petrie who saw the money in the safe is to the effect stated above. There is reason to believe that before disembarking Gurdit Singh distributed part of this money to some associates, including one man called Tehal Singh, and that Tehal Singh handed over a part or the whole of the sum so received to a Sikh named Nand Singh, who was subsequently arrested in Bhowanipore in the suburbs of Calcutta. A large sum of money was found on the person of this prisoner when arrested, including Rs. 1,025 in cash and a number of notes among which were 8 notes of a hundred yen each. The money given to Gurdit Singh by the Consul-General at Kobe was, it is believed, paid by the Hong Kong and Shanghai Bank in yen notes. On the 1st, 5th and 10th of October a Bombardier of the Royal Garrison Artillery, at present attached to the wireless station in Fort William, where the Fusiliers are also stationed, cashed 29 hundred-yen notes of the approximate value of £290 at the Calcutta branch of the Hong Kong and Shanghai Bank, receiving in exchange rupee-notes of various denominations, including a certain number of 100-rupee notes, the numbers of which are known. Five of these 100-rupee notes have been traced to a poddar or money-changer in the Fort, who deposes that he received them from four soldiers in the Royal Fusiliers. The soldiers who changed these notes signed their names in the note register of the poddar, but of the signatures, all except one, are denied by the persons whose names purport to be signed, and on a comparison of the actual signatures of these men with the signatures in the book we think that the signatures are probably forgeries. The signature in the register relating to the remaining note is admitted. This note was, as alleged, received by a private in the Fusiliers from a European dressed in mufti at the regimental coffee shop in exchange for small notes. It is impossible at present to arrive at any definite decision as to the proper inferences to be drawn from this evidence, and the matter is still under police investigation. We are informed that this police investigation will not be concluded for some time as efforts are being made to trace other notes issued by the bank in exchange for the 100-yen notes and to ascertain who actually changed the notes already traced with the poddar. It has been suggested that some of the soldiers on duty at Budge Budge looted the hundred-yen notes referred to from some of the Sikhs. There is, however, no evidence of this, and it is possible that the possession of the notes by the Bombardier may be accounted for in some satisfactory manner or that the notes were never the property of the Sikhs. We think, however, that the matter calls for most searching enquiry by the police, and that the facts referred to above should be brought to the notice of Government. The only other mention of any attempt to loot is a statement by one witness that a European not in uniform was seen on the night of the occurrence putting his hand into a haversack lying on a bench near the level-crossing; but this man has not been identified, and the story does not seem to us to be entirely above suspicion.

50. In regard to the conduct of the police who were present at Budge Budge on the occasion of the riot, we find that there is nothing which leads us to suspect that they used any unnecessary violence in the performance of their duty save at one particular period which has already been referred to, namely, when they were escorting the passengers back by the Calcutta road to Budge Budge. We think that at that time some of the European Police Sergeants were somewhat rough and, in the circumstances, this perhaps is not surprising. When, however, the riot began they were inferior in numbers to the Sikhs, and, with the exception of five men, had no firearms. They were very severely assaulted by a body of men superior to them in number, many of whom were armed with revolvers, without any chance of being able to defend themselves effectively.

51. As to the other officers, both European and Indian, it is proved by the evidence of nearly all the witnesses, including a great majority of the passengers on board the ship, that they treated the passengers with the greatest courtesy and consideration; on the other hand, there is convincing testimony to prove that many of these returning Punjabi emigrants, after the arrival of the ship at Budge Budge, behaved in a very insolent and discourteous manner. In the circumstances we consider that the conduct of these officers was most praiseworthy and that they showed great tact and forbearance in dealing with a troublesome body of men.

52. Regarding the subsequent arrest of the fugitives, there is little, so far as the arrests at Budge Budge are concerned, of importance to report. When the rioters had dispersed, it was apprehended that a large number of them might try to escape or force their way to Calcutta, and to prevent this, adequate measures were taken to guard the main routes to the city. These precautions were continued for some days, during which period the police were assisted by detachments and also by two squadrons, of the Calcutta Light Horse, to whose services the Inspector-General of Police specially refers in his report on the steps taken to arrest the fugitives.

The rioters arrested after the occurrence were not ill-treated and every care was taken to ensure prompt medical attendance in the case of any of them that were injured. It has, however, been alleged before us by the same two Indian railway officers, to whose evidence a reference has already been made, that one of the Sikhs, Mangal Singh by name, was seriously ill-treated on arrest at Budge Budge, and that he was suspended to a lamp post by a chain which was tied round his neck and drawn so tight that he was almost lifted off his feet. On enquiry we have ascertained that though this man was treated with considerable severity, this story is an exaggerated statement of the facts. The prisoner referred to, Mangal Singh, who is extremely eccentric, as we found on examination of him, made no complaint of any ill-treatment himself. From the evidence on record it is established that he was discovered hiding in a boat near Budge Budge on the morning of the 30th and that he attacked two European officers who attempted to arrest him with great violence. After arrest he was sent to the station in charge of two soldiers. On the way he escaped from their custody and ran into the river, and when arrested again he refused to move at all and again resisted those who had been deputed to remove him to the station. He was then tied to a bamboo and carried to the station, and in view of his dangerous character was tied to a lamppost by a chain which was passed first round his waist and then round his neck. The chain was not drawn tight; nor was he in any way suspended. The stationmaster, however, pointed out that he was exposed to the sun in this position, and the prisoner himself told us that directly he began to suffer inconvenience from the treatment he was receiving, and promised to sit down quietly with the other prisoners, he was placed with them. It is clear from these facts that the statements of the railway officer already referred to in respect of this prisoner cannot be accepted in their entirety, but there is some evidence to show that Mangal Singh was treated with considerable harshness, and while we must admit that he provoked such treatment by his conduct, we think that it is a matter for regret that this was allowed. Incidentally it may be stated that we believe that the treatment received by this man excited considerable resentment against the troops among the residents at Budge Budge.

53. As to the arrest of the Sikhs who escaped to outlying districts, the points of importance are noted below. Many of the fugitives appear to have escaped after the riot across the river into the districts of Howrah and Midnapore, some straying to Burdwan, Hughli, and Bankura and a number were arrested in these districts. One of these men, Surain Singh, a name already mentioned, was arrested in the Midnapore district with a ·38 Smith and Wesson revolver in his possession. A large body of men, some of whom must have been in possession of arms immediately before they were captured, were also arrested in Champadanga in the Howrah district. The evidence shows that information was received on 1st October that 25 armed Sikhs had been seen near a place called Jagatballabpur in the Howrah district and a body of troops and police proceeded in search of them. The fugitives were found in the middle of the night asleep close to the road near Champadanga, which is not very far from Jagatballabpur, and attempts were made to surround them. These attempts were discovered by the Sikhs, who at once made efforts to escape, and a shot was then fired into the air by one of the officers present as a signal that the police and troops engaged in the pursuit of these men were to close with the fugitives and arrest them. Immediately this shot was fired, the Sikhs, several of whom were armed, opened fire in return and the police and troops retaliated but with little effect, as no person was injured either on the side of the Sikhs or the police. After a short time the order to cease fire was given and the absconders were called on to surrender and a certain number did so; of this body of fugitives 17 were arrested though no arms were recovered and eight men escaped. It may be noted that Amar Singh and Surain Singh, referred to in para. 47, were among this party of twenty-five men. The fact that the Sikhs again used firearms on this occasion is of some importance as it indciates that they were prepared to resist any attempts to arrest them; but we think they probably were also under the impression, when the signal shot was fired into the air, that they were being attacked with firearms and for this reason returned the fire. If some other more suitable signal had been selected to indicate to the police when to close, it is possible that the Sikhs would never have opened fire at all. The matter is however of no great importance as no one was injured on either side. In all 211 of the rioters have been arrested up to date. For convenience of reference we have caused a list to be prepared of these men. The list is contained in Appendix IV, which also shows the names of the rioters killed and those believed to be at large.

54. The preceding paragraph concludes our findings on the questions referred to us for inquiry. It will be noted that we have deliberately abstained from citing the evidence recorded in support of each of these findings. It appears to us that any such reference is unnecessary in a report of this nature. Moreover, any attempt to refer in detail to all the evidence which covers nearly a thousand printed pages would render our report undesirably long and complicated. Finally, in many cases it would be most undesirable, both in the interests of Government and in the interests of the persons concerned, to publish the names of those from whom we have received information in the course of this inquiry. We also desire to make it clear that in respect of many of the points that have arisen for consideration in our investigation the evidence before us has necessarily been very meagre. Indeed, many of these points could not be fully elucidated without prolonged enquiries in China, Japan and Vancouver, and the opinions expressed in this report on such points are only tentative and based on such information as we have been able to obtain.

55. In conclusion we desire to thank the Government of Bengal and the various officers whom we have had occasion to call before us for the assistance rendered to us in the course of this long and complicated inquiry. We also desire in particular to place on record our appreciation of the manner in which Mr. Twynam has performed his duties as Secretary to this Committee. His services were placed at our disposal by the Bengal Government and the assistance he has rendered to us in our investigations has been invaluable.

We have the honour to be,

SIR,

Your most obedient servants,

INDIAN ARMY.

ARMY RESERVES.

No. 60-A.—With reference to Army Department Notification No. 863, dated 25th September 1914, the Government of India, with the approval of the Most Hon'ble the Secretary of State for India, are pleased to remove the previously announced prohibition on the grant of Commissions in the Indian Army Reserve of Officers to officials in Government employ, with the following restrictions:—

(1) This does not apply to officers of the Indian Medical Service.

(2) The applicant must already have had military training or must possess other special qualifications.

(3) His qualifications for military service must be exceptional if the applicant strictly belongs either to the Indian Civil Service or the Police.

(4) The applicant must not hold any appointment of exceptional responsibility and importance under the Civil Administration.

(5) The applicant can be spared by his Department for an indefinite time without inconvenience.

(6) The applicant must not be over 35 years of age, except in the case of existing members of the Volunteer force, whose cases will be considered specially.

(7) The applicant must obtain the sanction of the Head of his Department and of the Local Government concerned to the submission of his application.

2. The conditions and terms of service will be as follows:—

(a) Whilst serving within Indian limits, pay at civil rates according to the "next below" rule, or military pay and allowances, whichever is greater;

If employed in Europe or oversea, *military pay and allowances of rank plus civil furlough pay.

*The military pay of a 2nd-Lieutenant in the Indian Army Reserve of Officers is:—

	Rs.	A.	P.
Cavalry	456	14	0	per mensem.
Infantry	403	12	0	,,

(b) Service in the Indian Army Reserve of Officers will count for civil leave and pension whilst within Indian limits; should service be rendered in Europe or oversea, absence from India will not be ragarded as an interruption of duty for leave already earned, and will count for pension but not for leave.

(c) An officer will retain a lien on his civil appointment.

(d) An officer on incremental salary will count service in the Indian Army Reserve of Officers towards such increments.

(e) Grant of an outfit allowance of Rs. 600.

(f) A candidate already holding a Commission in the Indian Volunteer Force will be gazetted in a rank not lower than that next below that which he holds in the Volunteers.

3. An applicant in the first instance should apply in writing to the nearest General Officer Commanding a Brigade or Divisional Area, stating age and any special military or other qualification. The Branch or Department of the Army preferred should be mentioned. Every endeavour will be made to post an applicant to the Branch he selects. For example: a gentleman with Engineering qualifications will, if he wishes, be appointed to Royal Engineer duties, such as Sapper and Miner Corps.

4. A candidate should forward with his application—

(a) a medical certificate as to physical fitness,

(b) a declaration in the following form, which should be made before a Magistrate:—

"I, the undersigned (insert full Christian names and surname), hereby promise and declare that I will serve His Majesty the King, Emperor of India, his heirs and successors, as an officer of the Indian Army Reserve of Officers, until my resignation shall be accepted, and if I am called to Army service by notification in the Gazette of India, that I will serve in any part of India or in any other place in which any portion of His Majesty's Indian Forces may be serving and in any branch or department of the Service to which I may be appointed. I am aware that I may be sent back to my civil duties at any time should the Government of India consider this necessary."

Signed this day of 191 .

Witness

5. Should the applicant appear to be a desirable candidate for a Commission, he will be directed to attend for a personal interview with the General Officer Commanding a Brigade or Divisional Area (or in special cases by an officer deputed by him), his travelling expenses being defrayed by Government. This procedure may be waived if the General Officer Commanding a Brigade or Divisional Area thinks it unnecessary.

6. The name of a candidate approved by the above military authorities will be submitted to the Military Secretary to His Excellency the Commander-in Chief, Army Headquarters.

7. A candidate must clearly understand that, normally speaking, his military service will be required in India.

PENSIONS.

No. 76.—The Government of India are pleased to announce that, with the approval of the Most Hon'ble the Secretary of State for India, enhanced rates of wound, injury and family pensions for Indian combatants and non-combatants as set forth in the following amendments to Army Regulations, India, Volume I, have been introduced with effect from the 5th August 1914.

AMENDMENTS TO ARMY REGULATIONS, INDIA, VOLUME I.

Wound and Injury Pensions and Gratuities.

1052. Wound pensions (and gratuities in the case of Indian officers) are granted for wounds received in action, or caused by a person from whom, in the performance of military duty, a risk is incurred equal to that encountered on active service.

1053. Injury pensions (and gratuities in the case of Indian officers) are granted for injuries received in the performance of military duty, other than those covered by paragraph 1052.

Injury pensions are also granted to those who become unfit for further service owing to :—

(i) Illness contracted on or solely attributable to field or foreign service.

(ii) Incurable disorders brought on by performing particular duties, or serving in unhealthy surroundings.

Cases coming under (ii) require the orders of the Government of India.

1054. Injury pensions (and gratuities in the case of Indian officers) are inadmissible for injuries due to a more accident not caused by duty, and the rate of pension (and gratuity in the case of an Indian officer) may be reduced if the injury was due to awkwardness or want of reasonable care.

1056. Wound and injury pensions (and gratuities in the case of Indian officers) are granted in accordance with the rank held on the date that the wound or injury was received, or the illness contracted.

If the individual is promoted to a higher rank for distinguished gallantry on the occasion on which he was wounded or injured, the Government of India may grant him the pension attached to the higher rank.

1057. Except in the case of Indian officers, wound and injury pensions can only be granted to those who are rendered unfit for further service in the army.

1058. Except in the case of Indian officers and the Indian Subordinate Medical Department, the amount of wound and injury pensions depends on the following classification of degrees of injury received, or illness contracted :—

1st Degree.—Loss of two limbs or eyes, or incapacitated from earning a living and requiring the care of another person.

2nd Degree.—Loss of one limb or eye, or incapacitated from earning a living, but not requiring the care of another person.

3rd Degree.—Wound or injury equal to the loss of a limb, or preventing the recipient from contributing except partially towards his livelihood.

1059. Indian Officers will be granted wound and injury pensions, as well as gratuities, under the rules applicable to British Officers, vide paragraph 748 et s q. Should a temporary pension be granted originally, its subsequent conversion into a permanent pension will be governed by the rules in paragraphs 753 and 754.

The following are the monthly rates of wound and injury pensions and the rate of pay on which gratuities are to be calculated :—

Rank.	Rate per mensem, wound pension.	Rate per mensem, injury pension.	Rate per mensem of pay for calculating gratuity.

(b) Temporary public followers, employed for special service at enhanced rates of pay, will receive wound and injury pensions on the scale allowed for those drawing less than Rs. 8.

Special rules and rates for authorised private followers.

1063. Private followers, of the servant class, authorised to be taken on active service, are eligible for wound and injury pensions on the scale allowed in paragraph 1062 for those drawing less than Rs. 8.

Stoppage of pension.

1064. Government may at any time, for grave misconduct, withhold or stop the payment of a pension.

Individual adversely affected.

1065. An individual who is adversely affected by the preceding rules governing wound and injury pensions and gratuities can claim to receive pension under the rules applicable to him when he joined the service.

Family Pensions and Gratuities.

To whom admissible.

1066. Family pensions at the rates given in paragraph 1073 are admissible to the recognised heirs of all Indian officers, warrant officers, non-commissioned officers and men, as well as of non-combatant departmental and regimental employés and followers engaged by or on behalf of Government in a military capacity, who die under certain conditions.

Degree of relationship necessary in case of heir.

1067. To be eligible for pension an heir must be related to the deceased in one of the following degrees :—

1st, Son, actual and legitimate.
2nd, Widow, lawfully married by a valid ceremony.
3rd, Daughter, actual and legitimate.
4th, Father.
5th, Mother.

Nomination of heir.

1068. Any individual of the classes mentioned in paragraph 1066, the families of which are eligible for pension, has the right to nominate any one of the members of his family mentioned in paragraph 1067 as the heir to the exclusion of the remainder.

If no nomination is made by such individual, the pension will be allowed to the living relative highest in the list given in paragraph 1067, unless such relative is disqualified, when it can be given to the next in order.

Terms on which granted.

1069. The grant of family pension is for life, subject to the following restrictions :—

(i) A pension is given to a son until the age of 18 only, unless he is a cripple or otherwise unable to support himself, in which case it can be given for life.

(ii) A pension is given to a father only after the age of 50, but then for life; before that age for life only if a cripple or otherwise unable to support himself.

(iii) A pension cannot be transferred. It ceases altogether on the death of the original recipient.

(iv) Government can at any time withhold or stop the payment of a pension for grave misconduct.

(v) The same individual cannot hold two Government pensions at the same time. The pension least advantageous to the individual must be surrendered.

(vi) A pension merges in the pay of any appointment under Government; but if such pension exceeds such pay the heir will receive the half of such pension in addition to pay. On discharge from such appointment the pension becomes admissible.

NOTE.—Officers employing pensioners should communicate the fact to the audit officer concerned.

Higher and lower rates when admissible.

1070. Family pensions are admissible at a higher or at a lower rate according to the cause of death of the individual.

The higher rate is granted to the heir of an individual who—

(i) while in the performance of his duty, is killed in action ;

(ii) within five years of being wounded in action, while in the performance of his duty, dies of such wounds.

NOTE.—An individual who is killed or dies of wounds caused by persons from whom, in the performance of his duty, a risk is incurred equal to that encountered on active service, is considered as coming under (i) or (ii) above.

The lower rate is granted to the heir of an individual who—

(iii) dies from illness, the result of active operations in the field, or of foreign service, within five years after having been first removed from duty on account of such illness, provided the illness is certified to have commenced during, and to be due to, such operations or foreign service ;

(iv) dies in consequence of wounds or injuries received in the performance of military duty otherwise than in action, within five years of having been so wounded or injured.

NOTES.—(a) Such cases of death must not be due to the individual's own imprudence. No pension is granted in the case of an individual committing suicide while sane.

(b) Ordinary service in any country or province cannot count as foreign service for an individual who is a native of that country or province.

Gratuity may be deducted from heir pension.

1071. When an individual, who has been discharged with a gratuity, dies subsequently from causes which entitle his heir to a pension, the amount of gratuity will be deducted from that pension.

Subsequent promotion does not entitle heir to higher pension.

1072. Family pension is granted in accordance with the status of the individual at the time of his death or discharge from the service. Promotion or increase of pay granted after an individual has been wounded, or is known to have contracted illness on active or foreign service, does not entitle the heir to a higher pension.

The heir of an Indian officer, non-commissioned officer, or soldier who received promotion for distinguished conduct in the field, or for distinguished gallantry in circumstances entailing a risk equivalent to that arising on active service, may, at the discretion of the Government of India, receive the pension attaching to the rank to which such individual was promoted.

Rates admissible.

1073. Family pensions are granted at the following monthly rates :—

Status of individual.		Higher rate	Lower rate.
		Rs.	Rs.
Risaldar and Subadar-Majors ; Risaldars ; Subadars ; Ressaidars (except those of Camel Corps, Units and Transport Corps) ; Senior Sub-Assistant Surgeons, 1st Class		50	40

	25	8	7
	16	6	5

	Under 8	3	3

NOTE.—The family pensions of non-combatant employés and followers, who receive a specially high local rate of pay, will be determined by the rate of pay admissible to followers of a corresponding class when serving in peace in the Punjab.

Rate admissible to temporary followers specially engaged 1074. In the case of temporary public followers, who are engaged on high rates of pay for a particular service, if they are killed in action, or die of wounds during the course of the operations, or in the latter case before being discharged, their heirs are entitled to pension at Rs. 3 per mensem.

If the heir so desires, or difficulties exist for paying such a regular pension, the capitalised value of the pension may be paid in lieu of pension.

Rates admissible for private followers

1075. If private followers of the servant class, authorised to be taken on active service, are killed or die of wounds or disease attributable to such active service, within one year of their return from such active service, their heirs are entitled to pension at the rate of Rs. 3 per mensem.

Gratuity in addition to pension payable to Indian officers

1076. In addition to the grant of the higher rate of family pension to the heir of an Indian officer or Senior Sub-Assistant Surgeon ranking as such, who is killed in action, or dies of wounds received in action (vide paragraphs 1070 and 1073), a gratuity of one year's pay on the scale laid down in paragraph 1059 is payable to the heir.

Individuals adversely affected.

1077. An individual who is adversely affected by the preceding rules regarding family pension can claim to receive pension under the rules applicable when the deceased joined the service.

B. HOLLOWAY, Brigadier-General,
Secy. to the Govt. of India.

The following notification, issued by the Government of India in the Legislative Department and published in the Gazette of India, dated the 16th January 1915, is republished for general information.

J. G. CUMMING,
Chief Secy. to the Govt. of Bengal.

The following Act of the Governor General of India in Council received the assent of the Governor General on the 12th January 1915, and is hereby promulgated for general information :—

ACT NO. 1 OF 1915.

An Act to continue in force the provisions of certain Ordinances.

WHEREAS the Ordinances mentioned in the Schedule are temporary in their duration and in virtue of section 25 of the Indian Councils Act, 1861, are limited to expire within the period of six months from their promulgation; and,

24 & 25 Vict., c. 67.

Whereas owing to the state of war existing between His Majesty the King Emperor and certain foreign Powers it is expedient to provide for the continuance, as in this Act mentioned, of the provisions contained in those Ordinances, it is hereby enacted as follows :—

1. This Act may be called the Emergency Legislation Continuance Act, 1915.

Short title.

2. The provisions of the Ordinances mentioned in the Schedule shall have effect as if they had been enacted by the Governor General in Council and shall be in force during the continuance of the present war and for a period of six months thereafter :

Continuance of provisions of Ordinances in Schedule.

Provided that the Governor General in Council may, by notification in the Gazette of India, direct that any provision in any of the said Ordinances shall cease to be in force at any earlier date which may be specified in such notification.

SCHEDULE.

(See section 2.)

Year	Number.	Short title.
1914	I	The Indian Naval and Military News (Emergency) Ordinance, 1914.
,,	II	The Impressment of Vessels Ordinance, 1914.
,,	III	The Foreigners Ordinance, 1914.
,,	IV	The Indian Volunteers Ordinance, 1914.
,,	V	The Ingress into India Ordinance, 1914.
,,	VI	The Commercial Intercourse with Enemies Ordinance, 1914.
,,	VII	The Foreigners (Amendment) Ordinance, 1914.
,,	VIII	The Foreigners (Further Amendment) Ordinance, 1914.
,,	IX	The Articles of Commerce Ordinance, 1914.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

The outbreak of the present war necessitated certain special legislation to meet the emergency created thereby. Action was taken by Ordinances under section 23 of the Indian Councils Act, 1861 (24 & 25 Vict., c. 67).

2. The Ordinances, made in exercise of the power referred to, are limited in duration to a period of six months. The present state of affairs requires that the duration of this emergent legislation should be prolonged. Accordingly the present Bill continues for the period of the war and for a period of six months thereafter the provisions of the Ordinances made since the outbreak of war.

3. It is clear that the actual cessation of hostilities will not coincide precisely with the disappearance of the conditions that led to the special legislation. In order to meet this point the Act, if the Bill becomes law, will continue to be in force for a definite period of six months after the termination of the war. Power is, however, reserved to the Governor General in Council to direct by notification that any provisions of the Ordinances may be declared to cease to be in force at any earlier date.

The 11th January 1915.

W. W. HORNELL,
Director of Public Instruction, Bengal.

Nos. 731-743, dated Simla, the 1st September 1908.

RESOLUTION—By the Government of India, Home Department.

THE Government of India have for some time past had under their consideration the question of encouraging the scientific study of Sanskrit and Arabic by natives of India. They believe that great advantage will result from aiding students to acquire the critical and scientific methods of Western scholarship, by studying the classics under European Professors and by acquiring a knowledge of French and German, which is indispensable for making full use of the researches of European Orientalists.

2. They have accordingly decided, with the sanction of the Secretary of State, to allot for the present four scholarships tenable in Europe—three for the study of Sanskrit and one for the study of Arabic. Not more than two will be awarded annually. The scholarships will be open to well-qualified students with a genuine taste for oriental studies and to gentlemen employed as Professors of Sanskrit and Arabic in India. The value of each scholarship will be £150 a year, and it will be tenable for two years. The Secretary of State will decide the courses of study of each scholarship-holder and the special conditions to be observed, if necessary, by students who elect to study in continental Europe rather than in England. A scholarship-holder will be provided with a free second class passage to Europe, and also with a return passage if he completes the full period of residence or is compelled by sickness to return within that period. He will be required for disciplinary purposes to conform to such rules as the Secretary of State may make in this behalf.

3. In the first year one scholarship will be awarded for Sanskrit and one for Arabic. In the following year two scholarships for Sanskrit only will be awarded. Each Local Government or Administration is invited to submit, during the current financial year, the name of one candidate for a Sanskrit and one for an Arabic scholarship, and in the following year the names of two candidates for a Sanskrit scholarship, this procedure being followed in alternative years. It is requested that the names of the candidates may be accompanied by a full description of their qualifications, and with the views and recommendations of the Local Government thereon. The power of selection will rest with the Government of India, who will award the scholarships to those whom they may consider best fitted to hold them. Local Governments and Administrations are requested to submit their recommendations so as to reach the Government of India by the 31st March of each year at latest. Those for the current year should be sent in as soon as possible.

ORDER.—Ordered that a copy of this Resolution be communicated to the Government of Bengal, for information and guidance.

No. 1998, dated Delhi, the 23rd December 1914.

From—THE HON'BLE MR. H. SHARP, C.I.E., Joint Secretary to the Government of India, Department of Education,

To—The Secretary to the Government of Bengal, General (Education) Department.

THE State scholarship granted this year for the scientific study of Arabic in Europe having become vacant by the resignation of its holder, the Government of India consider that it may perhaps be found possible to re-award the scholarship next year in addition to the two scholarships which will be available for the study of Sanskrit. I am accordingly to request that, with the permission of the Governor in Council, the usual notice may be published inviting applications for the scholarship and the nomination of the Local Government submitted to the Government of India by the 1st March 1915.

ORDERS BY THE HON'BLE THE VICE-CHANCELLOR AND SYNDICATE OF THE CALCUTTA UNIVERSITY.

BRITISH POSSESSIONS.

Caution when Approaching British Ports.

No. 17 (first publication).—The following particulars, etc., relative to the above, issued by the British Admiralty (No. 1805 of 1914), are republished :—

PART I.

CLOSING OF PORTS.

Former Notice.—No. 1 of 1914 (This Office No. 74 of 1914), hereby cancelled.

(1) My Lords Commissioners of the Admiralty, having taken into consideration the fact that local or other circumstances may arise in which it may be necessary, on account of periodical exercises, manœuvres, or otherwise, to forbid all entrance to certain ports of the Empire, this is to give notice that on approaching the shores of the United Kingdom, or any of the ports or localities of the British Empire, referred to in Part III of this Notice, a sharp look-out should be kept for the signals described in the following paragraph, and for the vessels mentioned in paragraph (5), Part II, of this Notice, and the distinguishing and other signals made by them. In the event of such signals being displayed, the port or locality should be approached with great caution, as it may be apprehended that obstructions may exist.

(2) If entrance to a port is prohibited, three red vertical lights by night, or three red vertical balls by day, will be exhibited in some conspicuous position, in or near to its approach, which signals will also be shown by the vessels indicated in paragraph (5), Part II, of this Notice.

If these signals are displayed, vessels must either proceed to the position marked "Examination Anchorage" on the Admiralty charts and anchor there, or keep the sea.

(3) At all the ports or localities at home or abroad referred to in Part III of this Notice, search-lights are occasionally exhibited for exercise.

Instructions have been given to avoid directing moveable search-lights during practice on to vessels under way, but mariners are warned that great care should be taken to keep a sharp look-out for the signals indicated in paragraph (2) above, when search-lights are observed to be working.

PART II.

EXAMINATION SERVICE.

(4) Under certain circumstances it may become necessary to take special measures to examine vessels desiring to enter the ports or localities at home or abroad, referred to in Part III of this Notice.

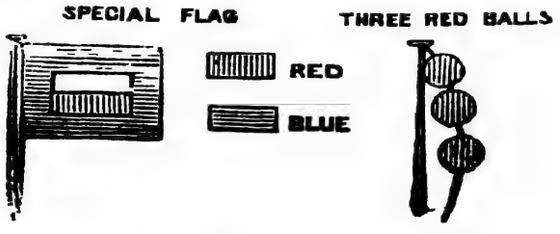
(5) In such case, vessels carrying the distinguishing flags or lights mentioned in paragraph (7) will be charged with the duty of examining ships which desire to enter the ports and of allotting positions in which they shall anchor. If Government vessels, or vessels belonging to the local port authority, are found patrolling in the offing, merchant vessels are advised to communicate with such vessels with a view to obtaining information as to the course on which they should approach the Examination anchorage. Such communication will not be necessary in cases where the pilot on board has already received this information from the local authorities.

(6) As the institution of the Examination Service at any port will never be publicly advertised, especial care should be taken in approaching the ports, by day or night, to keep a sharp look-out for any vessel carrying the flags or lights mentioned in paragraph (7), and to be ready to "bring to" at once when hailed by her or warned by the firing of a gun or sound rocket.

In entering by night any of the ports mentioned in Part III, serious delay and risk will be avoided if four efficient all round lamps, two red and two white, are kept available for use.

(7) By day the distinguishing flags of the Examination Steamer will be a special flag (white and red horizontal surrounded by a blue border) and a blue ensign.

Also, three red vertical balls if the port is closed.



By night the steamer will carry :—

(a) Three red vertical lights if the port is closed.
(b) Three white vertical lights if the port is open.

The above lights will be carried in addition to the ordinary navigation lights, and will show an unbroken light around the horizon.

(8) Masters are warned that, before attempting to enter any of these ports when the Examination Service is in force, they must in their own interests strictly obey all instructions given to them by the Examination Steamer. In the absence of any instructions from the Examination Steamer they must proceed to the position marked "Examination Anchorage" on the Admiralty Charts and anchor there, or keep the sea.

Whilst at anchor in the Examination Anchorage, Masters are warned that they must not lower any boats (except to avoid accident), communicate with the shore, work cables, move the ship, or allow anyone to leave the ship, without permission from the Examination Steamer.

(9) In case of fog, Masters of vessels are enjoined to use the utmost care, and the Examination Anchorage itself should be approached with caution.

(10) Merchant vessels when approaching ports are specially cautioned against making use of private signals of any description, either by day or night: the use of them will render a vessel liable to be fired on.

(11) The pilots attached to the ports will be acquainted with the regulations to be followed.

SWEEPING OPERATIONS.

H.M. Vessels are constantly engaged in sweeping operations off ports in the United Kingdom.

Whilst so engaged, they work in pairs, connected by a wire hawser, and are consequently hampered to a very considerable extent in their manœuvring powers.

With a view to indicating the nature of the work on which these vessels are engaged, they will show the following signals:—

A black ball at the foremost head and a similar ball at the yardarm, or where it can best be seen, on that side on which it is dangerous for vessels to pass.

For the public safety, all other vessels, whether steamers or sailing craft, must keep out of the way of vessels flying this signal, and should especially remember that it is dangerous to pass between the vessels of a pair.

RESOLUTION—No. 331Agri.

READ—

The Report on the Working of Co-operative Societies in Bengal for the year 1913-14.

THIS report is a record of a further remarkable advance in the progress of the co-operative movement in Bengal. The number of societies of all kinds increased during the year from 1,123 to 1,663, or by 48 per cent., the total membership from 56,889 to 90,363, or by 59 per cent., and the working capital from Rs. 46,07 301 to Rs. 89,40,803, or by 94 per cent. Satisfactory as these figures are, it is still more gratifying to find that the expansion of the movement has been accompanied by intensive development. The report contains ample evidence that a marked improvement has been made in the adequate financing of societies, and in their management and supervision, and it is clear that the policy of consolidation and cautious advance deliberately adopted in this Presidency, far from retarding the movement, has given it an impetus which is now assured, while the organisation which has gradually been built up enables it to be guided and controlled on safe lines.

2. The most noteworthy feature of the year has been the extension of the Central Bank system, on which reliance must largely be placed for the financing and supervision of individual rural societies, a task with which it is already beyond the capacity of the Registrar to cope unaided. The number of Central Banks has increased during the year from 17 to 33, and their working capital from 13 lakhs to 32 lakhs. Hitherto Central Banks have as a rule been started only in areas in which a number of efficient rural societies are already at work, but the Registrar has this year in some cases adopted the policy of starting Central Banks for the promotion and financing of co-operative societies in areas which have been previously untapped, but in which the conditions are favourable for the establishment of societies on a large scale. It is claimed that this policy has been justified by results, and that it avoids the necessity of allowing the expansion of the movement to depend on the enthusiasm of individual workers. The obvious objection is that it may lead to the artificial creation of rural societies. but the Registrar is fully alive to this danger, and the Governor in Council is confident that he will exercise in regard to this matter the same caution and circumspection, which he has hitherto shown in guiding the advance of the movement.

3. In view of the growing importance of Central Banks, a brief analysis of their main features is of interest. Of their working capital of 32 lakhs, 27 lakhs is derived from deposits, and nearly 4 lakhs from share capital. The reserve funds at present amount to only Rs. 35,000, but will be built up gradually out of the profits, at least one-fourth of which must under the law be devoted to this purpose. In view of the dependence of the banks on deposits, the early increase of the reserve funds should be regarded as a matter of first-rate importance. The work of financing rural societies appears to be carefully done, and in the Registrar's opinion, the Directors of the Central Banks as a rule err on the side of caution, rather than in the direction of over-financing their constituents. During the year, the banks lent a sum of 22½ lakhs to their affiliated societies, and on the 30th June, the balance outstanding was 31 lakhs, of which only Rs. 44,000 was overdue. The financial operations of the banks have therefore been very successful, and the Registrar reports a decided improvement in the manner in which their other functions of supervising the rural societies are exercised. The tendency to rely too much on paid officers or to leave everything in the hands of one or two prominent members has not disappeared, but is diminishing, and in several Central Banks, the Directors have begun to make regular inspections of village societies in order to see things for themselves. The difficulty of supervising outlying village societies has been met in some places by the establishment of unions which do not carry on any banking business, but merely inspect the working of village societies and make recommendations to the Central Bank regarding the loans to be issued. Some of these unions are said to have done remarkably good work, but others appear to be discontented with their limited functions, and desire to be converted into Central Banks. As the Registrar points out, the undue multiplication of Central Banks in a subdivision or other area is not desirable, and one strong Central Bank is likely to be more efficient than a number of small banks. The Registrar suggests that the most satisfactory solution of the problem will be to convert the supervisional union into a branch of the Central Bank with local Directors and its own paid staff. This plan has already been adopted in one instance, and its working will be watched with interest.

4. The scheme for the establishment of a Provincial Bank, which will perform for the Central Banks very much the same functions which the Central Banks perform for the village societies, has made further progress during the year. The question was considered by a strong sub-committee of the last Provincial Conference which included several influential members of the mercantile and business community in Calcutta. The sub-committee unanimously decided that the co-operative movement in Bengal has now reached a stage at which a Provincial Co-operative Bank should be launched, and a scheme approved by the sub-committee has been worked out in detail under competent legal advice and is ready for issue. Owing to the dislocation of business caused by the outbreak of the war, it has been decided to hold the scheme in abeyance for the present, but His Excellency in Council trusts that the successful establishment of a Provincial Co-operative Bank, which will be of incalculable benefit to the movement, will not be long delayed.

5. The development of agricultural societies has been even more remarkable than in previous years. The number of societies has increased from 1,039 to 1,543 ; the membership from 42,000 to 71,000, and the working capital from 22¾ lakhs to 44 lakhs. A sum of 30 lakhs was issued in loans to the members as against 14 lakhs last year, and of the loans taken more than 28 lakhs were devoted to the payment of debts and other economic or productive purposes. The policy of localising supervision and finance through the agency of Central Banks is said to have effected a marked improvement in the working of agricultural societies, but the Registrar has rightly called attention to the indications that the village societies may become unduly dependent on the Central Banks for their finance. Of their total working capital of 44 lakhs, the agricultural societies have obtained 30½ lakhs, or more than two-thirds by means of loans from Central Banks. Last year the proportion was only 57 per cent. Local loans and deposits have increased considerably, but account for only about 8½ lakhs, or less than one-fifth of the total capital ; and if, as the Registrar says, one of the surest tests of the success of a society is its ability to raise local deposits, the majority of the Bengal societies cannot yet be said to have attained the highest measure of success. On the other hand, it must be remembered that local capital is largely in the hands of the local money-lenders, who are still inclined in most places to regard an agricultural co-operative society as a formidable rival rather than as a desirable form of investment, and the members of the societies, most of whom were in debt to the money-lenders when they joined, cannot as yet be expected to have put by substantial sums for deposit. Moreover, as the Government of India have pointed out in their recent Resolution on the growth and development of the co-operative movement in India, another important test of the progress of a co-operative society is its ability to enlist the confidence of the public. Judged by this test, the Bengal societies are developing successfully, and as has already been shown their punctual repayment of loans to the Central Banks justifies the confidence they have inspired. An increase of local deposits, particularly from members, would be an indication that the societies were succeeding in their ultimate object of increasing the prosperity of the rural community, but practically at the present stage the main drawback to dependence on the Central Banks for a large proportion of their capital is the risk that the Central Banks might be compelled to withdraw their assistance at a time of unusual strain, and so render the societies less able to help their members when help was most required.

Although the punctuality shown by the societies in repaying their loans to the Central Banks leaves little to be desired, there is still room for improvement in regard to the realisation of loans granted to members. Last year out of 21 lakhs of outstanding loans taken by members of agricultural societies, 3½ lakhs or 17 per cent. was overdue. This year, the outstanding loans amount to 40 lakhs, of which Rs. 3,86,000 or less than 10 per cent. is overdue. There has thus been some progress in realising overdue loans, but the statements attached to the report indicate that the matter might well be examined further In some districts, the realisations could not be more satisfactory Thus in Rangpur out of over 2 lakhs of loans in the hands of members, less than Rs. 200 is overdue. Elsewhere, however, the proportion of overdue loans is considerable. In this connection, the Government of India have remarked in their recent resolution that there is no complete information regarding the term for which loans are ordinarily granted by societies to their members, and this question should be dealt with in next year's report. It is understood that the Registrar has already given effect to the Government of India's further suggestion that a definite system for the repayment of loans should be prescribed.

6. As the energies of the Registrar and his Assistants are fully occupied with the improvement and organisation of rural societies, other forms of co-operation have to be left mainly to voluntary effort, though the advice and assistance of the department are always at the disposal of those who wish to form societies. Non-agricultural credit societies are said to be working satisfactorily and to be much appreciated by the middle classes in the towns in which they have been started. The number of such societies has increased during the year from 60 to 71, the membership from 11,164 to 13,653, and the working capital from 9 lakhs to 12 lakhs. The considerable increase in members' deposits indicates a satisfactory growth of thrift. The non-credit societies are few in number and have so far not proved very successful. The Registrar has under consideration the starting of societies for the benefit of weavers to enable them to purchase yarn at wholesale rates and to dispose of it at more profitable prices without the intervention of middlemen. His Excellency in Council is particularly pleased to notice that the important question of extending the use and knowledge of agricultural improvements through the medium of co-operative societies is receiving attention, and that some progress has been made during the year, particularly in Mymensingh and Rangpur. It is of course essential that co-operative societies should not be asked to finance any schemes of doubtful value or of an experimental nature, but once the Agricultural Department can guarantee the suitability of an improvement, such as manure or implements or superior seed, to a particular locality, there will be plenty of scope for co-operative societies in spreading information regarding it among their members and assisting with funds those whose resources are insufficient to enable them to adopt it. The matter is one in which the Registrar should work in the closest consultation with the Director of Agriculture, who should keep the Registrar informed of any areas in which he considers that use can suitably be made of co-operative societies in spreading a knowledge of the results achieved by the Agricultural Department.

7. The Governor in Council congratulates Rai Jamini Mohan Mitra Bahadur on the successful work of the year and thanks him for his interesting and suggestive report The co-operative movement in Bengal owes much to his unremitting and unselfish work, and to his tact and sturdy caution and common sense. Complaints are sometimes made that the progress of the movement is not so rapid as it might be, and it is of course true that it has so far reached only a fraction of the agricultural population. It may, however, be noted that in the past three years, the number of societies in this Presidency has more than doubled, and the number of members has trebled, while the working capital has increased sixfold. These results could not have been achieved without the hearty co-operation of a host of willing workers. Two years ago the Governor in Council had occasion to express his regret that the non-official workers were so few and his hope that the interesting and responsible work involved in the creation of Central Banks would induce gentlemen of position and education to come forward in larger numbers to assist the movement. This hope has been fully realised, and the Registrar has now no reason to complain of a lack of assistance and advice from any section of the community in dealing with the new problems which the expansion of the movement is bringing into prominence. His Excellency in Council offers his hearty thanks to all the gentlemen, both official and non-official, who in various capacities have helped on a work, which even in its present early stages has shown itself capable of doing an immeasurable amount of good to the people of this province.

By order of the Governor in Council,

J. H. KERR,
Secretary to the Govt. of Bengal.

RESOLUTION ON THE ADMINISTRATION REPORT OF THE COMMISSIONERS FOR THE PORT OF CALCUTTA FOR THE YEAR 1913-14.

No. 126Marine.

GOVERNMENT OF BENGAL.

MARINE DEPARTMENT.

Dated Calcutta, the 12th January 1915.

READ—

The Administration Report of the Commissioners for the Port of Calcutta for the year 1913-14.

1. Income.—The income of the Trust in 1913-14 which amounted to Rs. 1,51,28,435 exceeded that of 1912-13 the highest previously earned, by no less than Rs. 8,82,118. This increase was due principally to the rapid expansion in the import trade.

2. Expenditure.—The total expenditure during the year amounted to Rs. 1,56,61,450 as against Rs. 1,47,00,316 in the previous year. The growth of the working expenses of the Trust is unavoidable in view of the large amount of capital expenditure unproductive for the time being, the cost of maintenance and repairs, the extended dredging operations and other natural causes.

The deficit of Rs. 5,33,015 on the working of the year was met from the Revenue Reserve Fund.

3. The receipts and expenditure under the more important heads of accounts were as follows :—

Jetties.—The total earnings rose from Rs. 18,86,697 to Rs. 24,51,126 ; this was mainly due to the larger amount of tonnage of goods landed at the jetties which exceeded that of the previous year by 221,000 tons. In spite of this increase the congestion at the jetties was on the whole less acute than in the preceding year. The main causes which contributed to this result were the transfer of the Boat Traffic Ex-coasting vessels from No. 8 to No. 1 jetty, the reduction of the free time from three to two days, the imposition of a double rate of rent after the fifth day from the date of landing and the adoption by the Commissioners of an improved method of sorting and stacking cargo in the sheds and yards.

The expenditure rose from Rs. 10,23,673 to Rs. 12,42,594 mainly on account of increased expenditure under labour, dredging operations and the revision of the jetty staff.

Sale Tea Warehouse.—The income under this head decreased from Rs. 2,27,332 to Rs. 2,25,986 owing to a falling-off in receipts from bulking and blending and from storage of sale teas. The number of chests of tea sold in the tea warehouse was 961,434, showing an increase of 8,134 chests, as compared with the previous year.

In regard to the provision of increased accommodation for sale teas the necessity for which was recognized by Government, the Commissioners have made the following remarks :—

"There is no space for an extension of the system, which would moreover be undesirable on other grounds owing to the difficulty of the Railway approaches at this site which cannot be made to serve any considerable increase of traffic. It is not therefore possible to preserve the present unity of system, and some splitting up of the trade has been recognized as inevitable. The separation which at once suggests itself is that of rail-borne from river-borne teas, and this is in fact what has actually been taking place during the height of the past two seasons when 'B' shed, on the west side of the docks, has been used for the reception of the rail-borne portion of the traffic. After discussion with the Tea Trade it has been decided to erect on the Circular Garden Reach Road, at a site convenient to the existing and future docks, a new four-storeyed warehouse to be used in the first instance for rail-borne teas only. This relief to the present warehouse will provide for an expansion of 25 per cent. in river-borne teas, the surplus accommodation in the new warehouse being utilized for general storage purposes, Export and Import, and made over gradually for teas as that trade expands."

The construction of this warehouse is in progress.

Petroleum Wharf.—The total income earned in 1913-14 was Rs. 4,37,545 compared with Rs. 4,01,987 in the previous year, or a nett increase of Rs. 35,558, due to increases under wharfage, handling and stevedoring and the rents derived from lands allotted to the several oil companies for their factories, installations and storage-sheds. The number of vessels which discharged oil at Budge-Budge was 143 as against 129 in 1912-13.

Port.—The number of vessels which entered the Port was 1,650 with a gross tonnage of 6,926,817 as against 1,730 vessels with a gross tonnage of 7,074,830. The income which is derived from mooring hire, Harbour Masters' fees and charges for hauling in and out of moorings showed a slight falling-off.

Port Approaches.—The income which is chiefly derived from Port dues rose from Rs. 7,98,682 to Rs. 8,07,033. Port dues are levied on vessels per nett registered ton. In the year under review, although the nett registered tonnage of vessels entering the Port decreased, the increase in receipts was due to fewer vessels entering the Port in ballast. The rate of Port dues realized from such vessels is less than that realized from cargo vessels.

The dredging operations in the upper and lower reaches of the river by the suction hopper dredger Belari and in the upper reaches by the Sandpiper have been attended with satisfactory results. The purchase of a third dredger has been sanctioned by Government. The general scheme has been to improve all the bars of the rivers above Mud Point anchorage to permit of out-going vessels reaching that place in one day, and then proceeding direct to sea on the next flood tide. This will avoid considerable delay, when the restriction to navigation by night in the lower reaches between the Mud Point and Saugor is withdrawn by Government. This matter is referred to later. The question whether training works are also desirable to improve the channels of the river is under consideration.

Railway.—The income under this head fell from Rs. 15,71,721 to Rs. 15,42.971 on account of decrease in the terminal charges in Dock Traffic and in the earnings from jute from the viâ Chitpore traffic.

The expenditure increased from Rs. 11,83,460 to Rs. 14,03,803 owing to heavy repairs to the permanent-way, maintenance of locomotives and wagons, additional locomotives purchased and the higher price paid for coal.

Ferry Service.—The number of passengers carried rose from 9½ millions in 1912-13 to over 10½ millions in 1913-14, thereby increasing the receipts under this head from Rs. 3,39,321 to Rs. 3,78,773. An additional steamer which proved very valuable to the public has been placed by the Commissioners on the Matiabrooze, Rajabagan and Rajgunge service.

Kidderpore Docks.—There was a decrease of 400,000 tons in exports shipped through the Docks. Of this decrease, 140,000 tons were in wheat and seeds, 100.000 tons in jute, and 140,000 tons in coal. The total imports rose from 380.890 to 613,876 tons, or an increase of 233,000 tons, of which 77,000 tons were in imports of sugar from Java and 109,000 tons of Burma rice.

Establishment charges.—There was a slight reduction in the percentage of establishment charges to income.

4. The actual expenditure on capital works during the year amounted to Rs. 70,20,308 which was met by the issue of a new debenture loan of 70 lakhs. The following were the most important works in progress or completed during the year :—

New general produce berths with sheds, cranes, railway lines, &c., in Dock No. 2.

Coal-loading plant for No. 19 berth.
New coaling jetty in place of berth No. 21 in Dock No. 2.
Paving the quays in Dock No. 1 with stone sets.
New bridge over the boat canal with sidings.
Six new locomotives.
Three hundred additional covered goods wagons.
Construction of jetty and warehouse at No. 9 jetty berth.
Extension of shed No. 6 jetty berth, construction of loading platform and additions and alterations to railway lines.
Two additional 100-ton lighters and two motor lorries for jetties.
Open corrugated-iron sheds extensions between Nos. 2, 3, 4, 5 and 6 jetties.
Construction of a riverside transit shed north of the Howrah Bridge for the traffic of Inland Vessels Companies.
New suction dredger Belari for Port Approaches,
One double ladder dredger for the jetties and wharves.

5. As regards the scheme for lighting the lower reaches of the Hooghly between Mud Point and Saugor for the purpose of night navigation, the Port Commissioners having reported, since the close of the year under review, that the channels had been duly lighted with acetylene gas buoys and boat buoys, Government appointed a Committee of practical navigators to test and report on the adequacy and efficiency of the lighting. The Committee, after thorough investigation at night up and down the lighted channels, suggested slight alteration in period, and the placing of an additional buoy in the Jellingham channel. Night navigation in the lighted channels could then in their opinion be safely permitted. The Port Commissioners having given effect to the Committee's recommendations, the prohibition to night navigation will be removed as soon as rules have been drawn up for the regulation of traffic at night. This is engaging the attention of the Port Officer whose recommendations are awaited.

6. The capital debt of the Trust at the close of the year after allowing for the amounts of Rs. 1,33,12,658 at the credit of the Sinking Fund and Rs. 12,70,457 repaid on the Kidderpore Dock Loan, was Rs. 9,18,88,049 as compared with Rs. 8.74,21,287 on 31st March 1913. The total assets, including the expenditure on capital works and the value of property, amounted to Rs. 12,07,34,842.

7. The whole question of the development of the Port of Calcutta and of the transport and other facilities connected with it was examined by the Committee which was appointed by this Government during the year under review. The report submitted by the Committee received the general assent of the Bengal Chamber of Commerce, and in accordance with its recommendations which have the approval of Government, the Commissioners have embarked upon the following programme of works :—

	Rs.
Riverside berths, Garden Reach—
Four general berths	1,33,48,513
One coaling berth	8,84,534
Entrance to the new dock system (rough estimate only)	1,00,00,000
Excavation and reclamation work for new railway yard, including rolling stock ...	42,32,160
Cost of new railway yard (ultimate when complete)	22,00,000
Realignment of Eastern Bengal State Railway, Budge-Budge branch	15,00,000
First five berths behind the new dock entrance at, say, Rs. 12 lakhs a berth	60,00,000
Dredging for these berths	20,00,000
Extension of warehousing accommodation (rough estimate)	15,00,000
Beliaghata scheme	30,00,000
Total ...	4,46,65,207

To meet the expenditure which these works involve, and in accordance with the recommendations of the Port Facilities Enquiry Committee, the Commissioners have formulated proposals which without imposing inequitable burden upon the trade of the Port will restore equilibrium between income and expenditure. These proposals, which include an extension of the period for the re-payment of the old Kidderpore Dock Loan, the raising of further capital to the extent of Rs. 2 crores of loans repayable in 60 years, the charging of interest on the cost of major works to capital during the period of construction, an enhanced terminal of 2 pies per maund on rail-borne traffic to and from the Docks and Jetties, and an increase from two annas to four annas per bale on jute railed from press-houses and shipped through the Docks, have either received the assent of Government or are under consideration.

8. The thanks of Government are due to the Port Commissioners for their efficient administration of the Port Trust during the year under review, especially to Sir Duncan Macpherson who was Chairman from 1st April to 4th January 1914; to the Hon'ble Mr. Stevenson-Moore who was Chairman from 5th January to 31st March 1914; and to the Hon'ble Mr. Hilary who acted as Vice-Chairman throughout the year, with marked zeal and ability.

By order of the Governor in Council,

F. A. A. COWLEY,

Offg. Secretary to the Government of Bengal.

INDIAN FOREST SERVICE.

Regulations as to the Appointment of Probationers, 1915.

1. Appointments.—The Secretary of State for India in Council will, in the summer of 1915, make a number of appointments of Probationers for the Indian Forest Service.

In making these appointments, he will act with the advice of a Selection Committee.

2. Applications for Appointments.—Applications for appointment must be made on a printed form to be obtained from the Secretary, Revenue Department, India Office, Whitehall, London, S.W., and to be returned to him not later than Thursday the 1st July 1915. Candidates must be prepared, if called upon, to attend at the India Office, at their own expense, for a personal interview with the Selection Committee within three weeks from that date.

3. Age Limit.—Candidates must be not less than 19 but under 22 years of age on the 1st January 1915.

4. Nationality, &c.—Every candidate must be a natural-born subject of His Majesty. He must be prepared to give an undertaking, if selected, that he will not marry before he reaches India. If he does so, he will forfeit his appointment. He must be of good physique, and must produce evidence of character to satisfy the Secretary of State for India in Council that he is suited for the Indian Forest Service.

5. Qualifications.—Candidates must have obtained a degree with Honours in some branch of Natural Science* in a university of England, Wales, or Ireland, or have passed the Final Bachelor of Science examination in Pure Science in one of the universities of Scotland†. A degree in Applied Science will not be considered as fulfilling these conditions. Candidates will be required to produce evidence that they have a fair knowledge of either German or French.

Note.—Applications for appointment will be accepted from candidates who, on the 1st July 1915, have already sat at an examination for a degree as mentioned above, but have not learned the result of the examination.

6. Should there be more candidates considered to be qualified in every respect than vacancies to be filled, the Secretary of State reserves the right to require them to pass a competitive examination conducted by the Civil Service Commissioners, on the results of which their final selection would depend. Particulars of this examination, which would be held in August, will be found in Appendix I.

7. Medical Examination.—Selected candidates will be required to undergo a strict examination by a Medical Board at the India Office, at which particular stress will be laid on good vision and hearing, and to satisfy the Secretary of State for India that they are physically fit for service in the Indian Forest Department (see Appendix VI).

Candidates, who do not satisfy the Secretary of State for India that they are physically fit for appointment to the Indian Forest Service, will not be admitted to the competitive examination mentioned in Regulation 6.

8. Period of Probation.—Before appointment to the Indian Forest Department, a probationer will be required—

(i) to have obtained, either before selection as probationer, or within the period of two years' probation, the degree or diploma in Forestry at one of the Universities named in the margin;

Oxford, Cambridge, or Edinburgh.

* A Moderatorship in Natural Science or in Experimental Science at the University of Dublin will be considered as fulfilling these conditions.

† Graduates in Forestry at the University of Edinburgh are regarded as satisfying the requirements of this paragraph if they pass the Final Examination of that University in some one branch of Natural Science embraced in the degree in Pure Science.

(ii) to have undergone a special course of instruction in Forestry, under the direction and supervision of the Director of Indian Forest Studies appointed by the Secretary of State for India in Council, in such British and Continental localities as may be selected for the purpose;

(iii) to have passed an examination in certain special subjects, namely, Systematic Botany of Indian trees, Indian Geology, Forest Law, Indian Working Plans, and, if required, an Indian vernacular language;

(iv) to have undergone a final competitive examination in Forestry (See Appendix II);

(v) to have satisfied the Secretary of State, in such manner as may be determined, of his ability to ride.

The period of probation will in ordinary cases be two years. The Director of Indian Forest Studies will instruct probationers in each case as to the order and manner in which they should fulfil these various requirements.

9. Charges.—The probationers will be required to defray all expenses of lodging, board, tuition, and excursions, while at the University, and on practical instruction in Great Britain and on the Continent, with the exception of fees payable to local forest officers in Great Britain and on the Continent.

10. Allowances.—The Secretary of State for India in Council will make payments to each probationer at the rate of 120*l.* annually, not exceeding a total of 240*l.* (besides the fees to local officers mentioned above). These payments will ordinarily be made on the following dates in each year:—

On the 1st December	30
On the 1st March	30
On the 1st June	60

The cases of probationers whose probation does not extend over the full two years will be specially considered.

The grant of the allowances is subject to the following conditions:—

(a) that the progress of the probationer in his studies is satisfactory;

(b) that the probationers give security to refund the payments in respect of this advance, as well as such payments, not exceeding 60*l.* in all, as may have been incurred by the Secretary of State on the probationer's behalf in respect of fees to local forest officers, in the event of his failing to qualify for an appointment in the Indian Forest Service, or not signing the articles of agreement as specified in paragraph 13, or failing to join the Indian Forest Service at the end of the period of probation.

11. Conduct.—Every Probationer will be required to conduct himself during the period of probation in a manner satisfactory to the Secretary of State, and to give evidence of satisfactory progress in his studies in such a manner as may be required, failing which, or in the event of serious misconduct, he will be liable to have his name removed from the list of Probationers.

12. Appointment and Seniority.—Probationers who comply with the requirements of Regulation 8 within the sanctioned period of time, and also satisfy such other tests as may be prescribed, will be appointed Assistant Conservators in the Indian Forest Department, provided they are of sound constitution and free from physical defects which would render them unsuitable for employment in the Indian Forest Service. Their position in the provincial Forest Lists will be determined by the Secretary of State for India in Council on the report of the Director of Indian Forest Studies; but in making selections for the post of Conservator, officers joining the service in the same year are reckoned as equal in seniority unless the Secretary of State for India in Council shall for special reasons have directed otherwise in any particular case or cases.

Probationers will be allowed at the end of the period of probation to state their preference in respect to the Provinces to which they desire to be allotted; but the distribution will be made to the several Provinces according to the needs of the public service, at the discretion of the Secretary of State for India in Council. Officers are, however, at all times liable to be transferred from one Province to another at the pleasure of the Government of India.

13. Articles of Agreement.—A probationer is required, on qualifying for appointment as Assistant Conservator, to sign articles of agreement setting forth the terms and conditions of his appointment; he must embark for India when required to do so by the Secretary of State, and must engage his own passage. Failure to embark at the stated time will, in the absence of satisfactory explanation, lead to forfeiture of appointment.

14. Passage allowance.—An allowance on account of passage to India will be paid to each probationer on appointment to the Indian Forest Service, to the amount of 37*l.* 10*s.* for passage to Calcutta, Madras, or Bombay, and 43*l.* for passage to Rangoon.

NOTE.—The above is the normal rate of passage allowance. In consequence of the surtax of 10 per cent., at present charged by shipping companies in respect of passages to India, the above rates of passage allowance have been raised to 41*l.* 5*s.* and 46*l.* 5*s.*, respectively. Should this surtax be removed, these rates will be reduced to those given in paragraph 14.

15. Salary.—An Assistant Conservator of Forests will draw pay at the rate of Rs. 380 a month (equivalent to 301*l.* a year, when the rupee is at 1*s.* 4*d.*) from the date of his reporting his arrival in India.

16. Promotion, Leave, Pension, and Provident Fund.—Promotion, leave, and pension will be governed by the Regulations laid down by the Government of India, and applicable to Forest officers, such regulations being subject to any modifications or alterations which may be made in them from time to time by the Government of India, and their interpretation in case of any doubt arising being left to that Government. A copy of the existing regulations can be seen on application at the India Office.

Certain information regarding appointments in the upper controlling staff of the Indian Forest Service, the pay of which has been recently improved, will be found in Appendix III; a summary of information regarding Leave is contained in Appendix IV; and regarding Pensions and the Provident Fund, in Appendix V.

APPENDIX IV.

[NOTE.—Appendices IV and V are intended merely to show the principal leave and pension rules in the Civil Service Regulations at present applicable to officers appointed to the Indian Forest Service by the Secretary of State from the United Kingdom, without going into minute details, and do not profess to deal with every case that may arise. The rules are subject to alteration, and any disputed question must be decided with reference to the authorised text of the Civil Service Regulations for the time being.]

LEAVE.

Long Leave.

1. Furlough and special leave with allowances (see paragraph 5) are admissible to an aggregate maximum amount of six years during an officer's service. The amount of furlough "earned" is one-fourth of an officer's active service, and the amount "due" is that amount less any enjoyed.

2. Furlough without medical certificate can, if due, be generally taken after eight years' active service, and again after intervals of not less than three years' continuous service. It is limited to two years at a time.

3. Furlough on medical certificate may be granted (a) to an officer who has rendered three years' continuous service, for not more than two years, but capable of extension up to three years; and (b) to an officer who has not rendered three years' continuous service, up to one year in any case, and up to such longer period, if any (but not exceeding two years in all), as the officer may have furlough "due" to him.

* The officer holding this appointment draws in addition to the pay of his grade a minimum local allowance of Rs. 200 a month.

† These appointments are allotted to the various provinces as follows:—Burma, 66; Madras, 32; Bombay, 28; Central Provinces, 24; United Provinces 29; Punjab, 12; Bengal, 12: Assam, 13; and Bihar and Orissa, 6; and 4 Imperial Instructors at Dehra Dun.

‡ Until he has passed the prescribed Departmental examinations, an Assistant Conservator is liable to stoppage of increments of pay. On passing the examinations he will resume drawing pay under the time scale at the rate to which his length of service entitles him

§ These draw a local allowance of Rs. 150 a month in addition to their grade pay, with the exception of the President, Forest Research Institute and College, in whose case the allowance is at the rate of Rs. 200 a month. Of these 10 appointments, the four posts of Imperial Instructors have been sanctioned for five years from 1912, for the present.

NOTE.—Under the improved scale of salary shown above, no Exchange Compensation Allowance is granted.

4. The allowances admissible during furlough are :—

(1) During the first two years of furlough without medical certificate and during so much of furlough with medical certificate as may be "due"— half average salary, subject to certain maximum and minimum limits.

(2) After the expiration of the period for which the foregoing allowances are admissible—one quarter of average salary, subject to certain maximum and minimum limits.

5. Special leave may be granted at any time for not more than six months, with intervals of six years' service; allowances, calculated as during furlough, are given during the first six months only, whether taken in one or more instalments.

Short Leave.

6. Privilege leave is a holiday which may be granted to the extent of one-eleventh part of the time that an officer has been on duty without interruption; and it may be accumulated up to three months, earned by 33 months' duty. During privilege leave, the officer retains a lien on his appointment, and receives the salary which he would have received if on duty. An interval of not less than six months must elapse between two periods of absence on privilege leave.

Privilege leave may be prefixed to furlough, special leave, or extraordinary leave without allowances. The whole period of leave thus taken in combination is known as combined leave. Combined leave may not be granted for a period of less duration than six months, nor, except on medical certificate, may it be extended beyond two years.

7. Subsidiary leave in India for a minimum of 10 days, usually with half average salary, is granted to an officer proceeding on or returning from leave out of India, or on retirement, to enable him to reach the port of embarkation or to rejoin his appointment. It is admissible only at the end and not at the beginning of combined leave.

8. Short leave is also granted to enable officers to appear at examinations, etc.

9. Extraordinary leave without allowances may be granted in case of necessity, and, except in certain specified cases, only when no other kind of leave is by rule admissible. It may be granted in continuation of other leave.

General Rules.

10. Leave of absence can never be claimed as of right, and is given or refused at the discretion of Government.

11. When leave allowances other than privilege leave pay are paid at the Home Treasury, or in a Colony where the standard of currency is gold, rupees are converted into sterling at the rate of exchange fixed for the time being for the adjustment of financial transactions between the Imperial and Indian Treasuries, unless any other rate has been exceptionally authorised. But for the present the rate of conversion is subject to a minimum of 1*s.* 6*d.* to the rupee. Privilege leave pay when issued from the Home Treasury (this is only admissible when privilege leave is combined with other leave) is converted at 1*s.* 4*d.* to the rupee.

APPENDIX V.

(See Note under Appendix IV.)

PENSIONS AND PROVIDENT FUND.

1. An officer of the Indian Forest Service is eligible for a pension on voluntary retirement after completing 20 years' qualifying service or attaining the age of 55 years. If at an earlier date he is compelled to retire from the service through ill-health, not occasioned by irregular or intemperate habits, he becomes eligible for an invalid pension or a gratuity according to the length of his service.

The amount of pension or gratuity is regulated as follows:—

After a service of less than 10 years, an invalid gratuity not exceeding one month's emoluments for each completed year of service.

	Rs.
10	1,000 a year.
11	1,400 ,,
12	1,800 ,,
13	2,200 ,,
14	2,600 ,,
15, 16, 17, 18, 19	3,000 ,,

After a service of not less than 20 years, a retiring pension not exceeding the following amounts:—

Years of Completed Service.	Scale of Pension. (Sixtieths of Average Emoluments.)	Maximum Limit of Pension.
		Rs.
20 to 24	30	4,000 a year.
25 and above		5,000 ,,

Officers who have shown special energy and efficiency during an effective service of three years as Inspector-General of Forests or Conservators may, at the discretion of the Government of India, be allowed an additional pension of Rs. 1,000 a year, subject to the condition that the officer must not retire voluntarily before the completion of a total qualifying service of 28 years.

Subject to certain prescribed conditions, rupee pensions are now issued to pensioners residing in countries where the Indian rupee is not legal tender at the rate of exchange of 1*s.* 9*d.* the rupee.

2. A General Provident Fund has also been established on the following basis:—

(a) The contribution is compulsory up to 6¼ per cent. on salaries, with voluntary contributions of not more than a further 6¼ per cent. Subscriptions on leave of any kind are optional.

(b) Compound interest on such payments is annually credited by Government to each officer subscribing, the rate being at present 4 per cent. per annum.

(c) The sum which thus accumulates to the credit of an officer is his absolute property, subject to the rules of the Fund, and is handed over to him, unconditionally, on quitting the service; or, in the event of his death before retirement, to his legal representatives, or such other person or persons as, under and subject to the rules of the Fund for the time being in force, may be entitled thereto.

(d) Other forms of life insurance will, however, if they fulfil certain conditions, be accepted in lieu of the contributions in (a).

APPENDIX VI.

GENERAL PHYSICAL REQUIREMENTS.

[Note.—These Regulations are published for the convenience of candidates and in order to enable them to ascertain the probability of their coming up to the required physical standard. But it must be clearly understood that the Secretary of State reserves to himself an absolute discretion to reject as unfit any candidate whom he may consider, after hearing the opinion of his medical advisers, to be physically disqualified for the public service; and that his discretion is in no respect limited by these Regulations.]

1. A candidate must be in good mental and bodily health, and free from any physical defect likely to interfere with efficient performance of duty.

2. In the examination of candidates the Medical Board will apply the following table of correlation of age, height, and chest girth :—

Age.	Height without shoes.	Chest.
		Girth when expanded.	Range of expansion.
	Inches.	Inches.	Inches.
19 to 20	62½ and under 65 ...	35	2
	65 ,, 68 ...	35	2
	68 ,, 70 ...	35½	2
	70 ,, 72 ...	36	2
	72 and upwards ...	36½	2½
21 and upwards .	62½ and under 65 ...	35	2
	65 ,, 68 ...	35½	2
	68 ,, 70 ...	36	2
	70 ,, 72 ...	36½	2½
	72 and upwards ...	37	2½

3. Measurement of Height.—The candidate will be placed against the standard with his feet together, and the weight thrown on the heels, and not on the toes or outside of the feet. He will stand erect without rigidity, and with the heels, calves, buttocks, and shoulders touching the standard; the chin will be depressed to bring the vertex of the head level under the horizontal bar, and the height will be noted in parts of an inch to eighths. No fixed limit of height is imposed.

4. Measurement of Chest.—The candidate will be made to stand erect with his feet together, and to raise his hands above his head. The tape will be carefully adjusted round the chest, the posterior upper edge touching the inferior angles of the shoulder blades, and its anterior lower edge the upper part of the nipples. The arms will then be lowered to hang loosely by the side, and care will be taken that the shoulders are not thrown upwards or backwards so as to displace the tape. The candidate will then be directed to empty his chest of air as much as possible. This is best done by continuous whistling with the lips as long as sound can be produced. The tape is carefully gathered in during the process, and when the minimum measurement is reached it is recorded. The candidate will then be directed to inflate his chest to its utmost capacity. This maximum measurement will likewise be noted. The girth with the chest fully expanded and the range of expansion between the minimum and the maximum will then be recorded.

5. The hearing must be good,

6. The speech without impediment.

7. The teeth in good order, i.e., decayed or broken teeth must be properly stopped or crowned, and deficient teeth replaced by artificial teeth where necessary for effective mastication.

8. The chest must be well formed, the lungs and heart sound.

9. Rupture, hydrocele, varicocele, varicose veins in a severe degree, or other condition likely to cause inefficiency will disqualify a candidate, unless such condition is cured by operation.

10. The limbs, feet, and toes must be well formed and developed, with free and perfect motion of all the joints.

11. A candidate must have no congenital malformation or defect likely to interfere with efficiency.

12. A candidate must not be the subject of chronic skin disease.

13. Evidence of previous acute or chronic disease pointing to an impaired constitution will disqualify.

14. Candidates may, if they wish it, undergo a preliminary examination as to their physical fitness by the Medical Board, which meets at the India Office every Tuesday, under the following conditions :—

(a) Applications must be addressed to the Under-Secretary of State, India Office, Whitehall, London, accompanied by a fee of two guineas.

(b) Candidates must pay their travelling expenses.

(c) It must be understood that the opinion of the Medical Board, which will be communicated by the Board to the candidate at the end of the examination, is solely for the candidate's own information and is not an official finding. The Board, if they consider a candidate unfit, will exercise their discretion as to informing him of the particular grounds on which their opinion is based. No further information can in any case be given as to the Medical Board's opinion which will be confined solely to the physical fitness of the candidate; and any question as to the eligibility of the candidate, if found physically fit, to be admitted to the particular Indian service which he desires to enter, should be addressed in writing to the Under-Secretary of State.

(d) Candidates considered to be unfit by the Medical Board at this preliminary examination are not bound to accept its opinion, but may, at their own risk, continue their studies, with the knowledge that they will have to submit themselves for a final medical examination by the Medical Board prior to their appointment.

(e) As the preliminary examination by the Medical Board is held solely for the candidate's information, a candidate who is informed after such an examination that he is physically fit will have on that account no claim to be accepted as physically fit when he presents himself for the final medical examination, upon which alone his acceptance or rejection will depend. Candidates may be considered fit for the Service at the preliminary examination, but may be found at the final examination to be unfit, either on account of some physical defect which did not exist or passed undetected at the preliminary examination, or for other reasons.

REGULATIONS AS TO THE STANDARD OF VISION FOR THE INDIAN FOREST SERVICE.

1. If myopia in one or both eyes exists, a candidate may be passed, provided the ametropia does not exceed 2·5 D, and if with correcting glasses, not exceeding 2·5 D, the acuteness of vision in one eye equals $\frac{6}{6}$ and in the other $\frac{6}{9}$, there being normal range of accommodation with the glasses.

2. Myopic astigmatism does not disqualify a candidate for service, provided the lens or the combined spherical and cylindrical lenses required to correct the error of refraction do not exceed—2·5 D; the acuteness of vision in one eye, when corrected, being equal to $\frac{6}{6}$, and in the other eye $\frac{6}{9}$, together with normal range of accommodation with the correcting glasses, there being no evidence of progressive disease in the choroid or retina.

3. A candidate having total hypermetropia not exceeding 4 D is not disqualified, provided the sight in one eye (when under the influence of atropine) equals $\frac{6}{6}$, and in the other eye equals $\frac{6}{6}$ with + 4 D or any lower power.

4. Hypermetropic astigmatism does not disqualify a candidate for the service, provided the lens or combined lenses required to cover the error of refraction do not exceed 4 D, and that the sight of one eye equals $\frac{6}{6}$ and of the other $\frac{6}{9}$, with or without such lens or lenses.

5. A candidate having a defect of vision arising from nebula of the cornea is disqualified if the sight of one eye be less than $\frac{6}{12}$. In such a case the better eye must be emmetropic. Defects of vision arising from pathological or other changes in the deeper structures of either eye, which are not referred to in the above rules, may exclude a candidate for admission into the service.

6. Squint, or any morbid condition, subject to the risk of aggravation or recurrence, in either eye, may cause the rejection of a candidate. The existence of imperfection of colour sense will be noted on the candidate's papers.

NOTIFICATION.

No. 852Regn.—The 19th January 1915.—The following rules regarding the special test of Sub-Registrars for District Sub-Registrarships, having been sanctioned by the Governor of Bengal in Council, are published for general information :—

SPECIAL TEST OF SUB-REGISTRARS FOR DISTRICT SUB-REGISTRARSHIPS.

This examination has been instituted for the purpose of testing the fitness of Sub-Registrars for performing the duties of a District Sub-Registrar. Ordinarily Sub-Registrars in the first three grades, who are not over the age of 40 at the time of the examination, will be eligible to appear at the test, provided they have obtained the previous permission of the District Registrar and of the Inspector-General of Registration. Such permission should be given only to officers whose work as Sub-Registrar has been satisfactory, and who seem likely to make good District Sub-Registrars. In the case of a difference of opinion between the District Registrar and the Inspector-General of Registration as to the fitness of a Sub Registrar to appear at the test, the matter will be submitted for the orders of Government.

2. After the end of 1915, in making appointments as District Sub-Registrars, preference will be given, other considerations being equal, to Sub-Registrars, who have passed the Special Test. Officers who have passed the test will ordinarily be tried as Officiating District Sub-Registrars as vacancies occur, but it must be distinctly understood that the mere passing of the test gives them no claim to an appointment, and that their confirmation as District Sub-Registrars will depend on their work and conduct.

3. The test will be directed and controlled with the assistance of the Inspector-General of Registration, by the Central Examination Committee. It will be held in Calcutta, annually or at such intervals as the Inspector-General may determine, on the dates fixed for the half-yearly departmental examination of Assistant Magistrates and Deputy Collectors. A notification regarding the intention to hold a test will be published in the Calcutta Gazette at least six months before the test is held. The test will consist partly of a written examination in law and accounts, and partly of a practical examination in the duties of a District Sub-Registrar.

4. The object of the written examination is to test the candidates' knowledge of law, of accounts, and of the English language. There will be two papers on law—one to be answered without the help of books, and the other with the help of books. Only unannotated editions of Acts and Codes will be allowed in answering the latter paper. There will be a third paper in accounts to be answered with the help of books. The questions in the two papers to be answered with books will be prepared, as far as possible, with reference to practical points likely to arise in the ordinary work of a District Sub-Registrar, and candidates will not be expected to show a knowledge of abstruse legal questions or of technical accounts matters. A list of the prescribed text-books is given in the Appendix.

5. The practical examination is intended to test the candidates' ability to perform the administrative and inspecting functions of a District Sub-Registrar and to write intelligent and intelligible notes and reports. Candidates will be given a file of official papers in connection with a case arising in the Registration Department and will be required to write a précis and to draft a letter carrying out the orders indicated in the notes on the file. They will also be required to inspect a Sub-Registrar's office, and to write an inspection note in narrative form, setting forth the results of their inspection.

6. The marks to be assigned in the different subjects are shown below :—

	Subject.		Maximum marks.	Pass marks.	Proficiency marks.
1.	Law without books ...	...	150	75	120
2.	Law with books ...	...	100	50	75
3.	Accounts paper ...	...	100	50	75
4.	Practical test ... Office work	...	50	25	35
	Inspection	...	100	50	75
	Total	...	500	250	380

In awarding marks, special attention will be paid to legible handwriting and a good working knowledge of English.

7. Candidates who pass in any of the subjects will not be required to present themselves again for examination in that subject, but except for special reasons and with the special permission of the Inspector-General of Registration, no Sub-Registrar will be allowed to appear at the test more than twice. Candidates will not ordinarily be allowed to inspect a Registration office until they have passed in the other subjects.

8. The names of successful candidates will be published in the Calcutta Gazette. They will be arranged in two classes, the first consisting of those who pass with proficiency and the second of those who obtain only pass marks.

9. Sub-Registrars attending the test will be allowed travelling allowance subject to the provisions of articles 1116 and 1117 of the Civil Service Regulations. They will also be allowed travelling allowance for their journeys in connection with their inspections of Sub-Registration offices.

10. The first test under these rules will be held at the time of the Departmental examination in October or November 1915.

JOINT NOTE OF DISSENT BY THE HON'BLE RAJA HRISHIKESH LAHA AND THE HON'BLE MR. B. CHAKRAVARTI.

WE sign the Report of the Select Committee subject to the following Note of Dissent:—

1. We regret that our amendment has not been accepted in the Select Committee. It was as follows:—

that before the words "the Sundarbans" the words "such embankments in" be added, and after the word "Sundarbans" the following words be similarly added in clause 2, namely:—

"as abut on navigable rivers, provided that such extension shall not affect any right which the owners may acquire to alluvial lands by accretion to their estates."

Clause 2 with this amendment would run thus:—

"The following enactments are hereby extended to such embankments in the Sundarbans as abut on navigable rivers, provided that such extension shall not affect any right which the owners may acquire in alluvial lands by accretion of the same to their estates, namely:"

Sub-clause (2) of clause 3 would then be omitted.

2. To extend the whole of the Bengal Embankment Act, 1882 (Ben. Act II of 1882), to the Sundarbans, except Part IX which contains special provisions for Orissa only, would be detrimental not only to the interests of the lessees and cultivators, but also to those of the Government. By section 1 of the Bengal Embankment Act, 1882, the Sundarbans were excluded from the operation of the Act after due deliberation, and the object of the exclusion is obvious, namely, to encourage the reclamation of Sundarban lands. The Embankment Acts now in force in the Sundarbans are the Bengal Embankment Act, 1855 (XXXII of 1855), and the Bengal Embankment Act, 1866 (Ben. Act VII of 1866), which contain no provision for controlling the erection of private embankments. The reason stated for taking over such control is that on account of the cultivators constructing embankments on lands not yet well formed and elevated by the deposit of silt, the deterioration of channel and water-courses takes place. But experience does not show that as a general practice cultivators make such constructions on fluvial accretions unless and until they are well-formed and elevated enough to prevent the newly-constructed embankments being swept away by the tidal waves, and there are no complaints of obstructed drainage by reason of such constructions. The erection of private embankments by cultivators is a necessity, which they cannot avoid, for the growth and safety of their crops. The Sundarbans are intersected by numerous channels, creeks and water-courses, and are liable to be overrun by floods of salt water from time to time. In constructing an embankment, the cultivator has as his objects—

(1) the preventing of salt water from coming in and thus making the lands unculturable, and

(2) the preventing of the running out of the accumulated rain-water, upon which depends the growth of his crops.

Thus, by reason of the control which the cultivators have upon the embankments raised by themselves, they can regulate the accumulation of rain-water according as they think it necessary for the growth and safety of their crops; any excess accumulation they then let out by cutting open the embankments to prevent the total destruction of their crops. Now, the object of this Bill is to take away that control from the cultivators and to vest it in the Government. The effect of this legislation therefore would be to prevent the cultivators from regulating the accumulation of rain-water according to their discretion. No doubt, the Collector, under section 76 of Ben. Act II of 1882, can give them permission for such construction, but it is impossible for poor people like them to go up to him on every occasion when necessity arises. That provision will be a dead letter.

3. The passing of this Bill would also be a violation of the terms of the existing leases granted to the lessees. They have all along cultivated the lands and erected embankments for the safety of their crops under the belief that the control of the embankments would continue to be vested in them.

4. Then again, the taking over of the control of the embankments by the Government would lead to the belief that it would prevent the growth of ownership which the owner has got to the accretions even on navigable rivers. This course will greatly discourage and prevent reclamation and cultivation, which, as is well known, is the object of Government to encourage.

5. The suggested omission of sub-clase (2) of clause 3 is ancillary to the main amendment.

6. We further contend that the provisions of section 7, Clause 1, of the Bengal Embankment Act, 1855 (XXXII of 1855), so far as they relate to the recovery of compensation by a civil action, should be embodied in the present Bill in the place of sections 39 and 40 of Ben. Act II of 1882. We desire that this remedy should be available mainly because it has been decided by their Lordships of the Privy Council that there is no appeal to the Privy Council under the present Land Acquisition Law.

NOTIFICATION.

No. 148L., dated the 25th January, 1915.—The following Report of the Select Committee, which was presented to the Bengal Legislative Council on the 19th January, 1915 (with the Bill, as amended by the Committee, annexed), is hereby published for general information :—

REPORT OF THE SELECT COMMITTEE ON THE CALCUTTA IMPROVEMENT (AMENDMENT) BILL, 1915.

1. We, the undersigned Members of the Select Committee, to which the Bill to amend the Calcutta Improvement Act, 1911, was referred, have considered the Bill and have the honour to submit this our Report, with the Bill, as amended by us, annexed thereto. In reprinting the Bill, all changes made by us have been underlined.

2. Clause 3.—As will be seen from a perusal of the revised draft of the Bill, we have materially modified the provisions of the proposed new section 63 of the Act as set out in clause 3 of the Bill. This modification is primarily due to the fact that we think it desirable, in the public interest, that the Trust should have, within the limits of the Calcutta Municipality, the power (which the present Act gives to them in the neighbourhood of that Municipality) to define, where necessary, the building line on each side of a projected public street ; and that the proposed new section should define the policy to be followed by the Board in relation to building lines as well as to street alignments. Accordingly, in sub-section (1) of the section we have included a reference to building lines ; and the remaining changes made are largely consequential upon this initial alteration. The words inserted by us in sub-sections (2) and (3) merely relate to matters of detail and need not be further discussed ; while the amalgamation of sub-sections (6) and (7) of the original draft follows naturally upon the changes which it has been thought desirable to make in order to define the character which will attach to a projected public street after it has been notified as such by the Local Government, or until such time as the notification relating to it is cancelled. An additional proviso has been added to sub-section (8) in order that house-owners may not be unduly hampered in the matter of the erection of outhouses, porches, etc., on land falling between a building line and the street alignment,—a concession to which we consider they are entitled. After sub-section (8) we have inserted a new sub-section (8a), analogous in some respects to section 351 of the Calcutta Municipal Act, which provides that the Chairman of the Trust shall be bound to permit an applicant to erect a wall or building on land falling within the street alignment or building line of a projected public street, on condition that he engages, in the event of the Board subsequently deciding (after an improvement scheme has been sanctioned for the area in which the building or wall is situate) that it ought to be removed, to remove the same and not to claim compensation for such removal. No material change has been made in sub-section (9), but sub-section (10) has been largely redrafted, and now provides that if the Chairman refuses permission to the erection of a wall or building falling within a street alignment, or between the street alignment and building line, of a projected public street, the owner of the land affected by such refusal shall have the option, at any time within three months from the date thereof, of requiring the Board either to pay him compensation for such damage as he may have sustained thereby or to acquire the said land. In the former alternative, the Board will be bound fully to compensate the owner for such damage as he may be ascertained to have suffered ; and, in the latter, to acquire the land. This provision, however, is subject to the reservation that, in the case of land which falls within the street alignment only, it shall be open to the Board to elect to acquire it instead of paying compensation. The enactment of a new section 63 provides an opportunity for the amendment of the definition of "building line" at present applicable to the Act, so as to make it embrace a projected public street, and the necessary insertion has been made in clause 2 of the Bill.

3. Clause 4.—As a consequence of the restoration to the Bill of the provision in section 63 relating to compensation, this clause is no longer necessary, and has accordingly been omitted.

4. Clause 6.—The first sentence in section 171 has had to be redrafted in order to bring it into consonance with the changes which we have made in the proposed new section 63.

5. Clause 6A.—By this new clause it is proposed to add a new penalty section to the Act. It is considered that this course is necessary if the new sub-section (8a), to which reference has been made above, is to prove effectual.

6. Clause 7A.—This new clause is also consequential upon the proposed new sub-section (8a) of section 63. It is merely designed to empower the Chairman to remove a wall or building which the owner has failed to remove in compliance with the notice issued upon him under sub-section (8a), and to lay down that the expenses for such removal shall be recoverable by the sale of the materials removed.

7. Clause 8.—Sub-clause (bbb) has been brought into accordance with new section 63 as amended by us; but we have decided, after careful consideration, to recommend the omission in its entirety of sub-clause (bbbb) which was intended to negative the adoption of the zone method of valuation in the cases of "set backs". We are in sympathy with the object of the sub-clause, but consider that it would be safer not to legislate in this direction until the practice of the Tribunal has become settled.

8. We recommend that the Bill, as now amended by us, be passed.

CALCUTTA;
The 16th January, 1915.

* This member signed subject to his Note of Dissent appended.

NOTE OF DISSENT BY THE HON'BLE RAJA DINENDRA NARAYAN RAY.

I RECOMMEND the omission of the proposed clause (bb) for Article 9 of the Schedule to the Act (clause 8 of the Bill). In a considerable number of cases there will be an interval of several years between the time when a projected public street is notified and the time of the actual acquisition of the land. It will be impossible to determine, in such cases, what proportion of any increase in land-value (which may have accrued during the interval) is attributable to the alignment of the projected public street and what proportion to the normal rise of land-value. Besides, in order to arrive at an estimate of the increase or decrease due to the street alignment, it would be necessary to go back to the period before which that alignment was laid down, and it would be difficult to ascertain the land-value of that time. Apart from the practical difficulties in working, the principle of valuing property at a rate other than its market-value at the time of acquisition is unjustifiable.

NOTE OF DISSENT BY THE HON'BLE RAI RADHA CHARAN PAL BAHADUR.

I SIGN the Report with a reservation. I am of opinion that the Board should serve notices on owners or occupiers of premises falling within the projected street scheme. As individual objection is contemplated to be invited, there ought to be individual notice on persons directly affected. A notification in the Calcutta Gazette or an advertisement in some obscure corner in a newspaper does not ordinarily attract the attention of the individuals concerned.

2. The new clause invites only objections from the owners, but omits to make such further provisions, as are to be found in section 47 of the existing Act, regarding the hearing of objections from parties. An ex parte consideration by the Board without hearing the parties is an unsatisfactory method of disposing of objections. The hearing in many instances may elucidate matters and may lead to the modification of the plans, after the pros and cons have been discussed with the parties, who not unoften suggest alternative plans through their expert engineers, which may be advantageously adopted either wholly or partially by the Board. This procedure affords some consolation to the people affected, who are liable to become very much alarmed and disheartened at the prospect of the acquisition of their properties.

3. The Bill as introduced in Council provided that the Board should have power only to prepare plans of proposed public streets of such width as they might deem necessary. But in the Select Committee a material alteration has been made, and a further power is vested in the Board to prescribe a building line in rear of the street alignment on both sides of the proposed street within which no building can be erected except out-offices on a small portion of the frontage, a balcony or a porch, and a wall not exceeding 8 feet in height. Thus, if a street be 100 feet in width, the Board will have the power to declare that additional 30 feet wide spaces on either side of the said 100 feet street should be left open. This seems to be a very hard provision and will inflict great hardship, particularly in developed areas where people have settled and built their houses on small plots of land.

4. The amended Bill further provides that if a person erects, re-erects or adds to any building within the alignment without the sanction of the Board, he shall not be entitled to any compensation. But the provision does not stop here. It enacts a penal clause that he will be prosecuted and even subjected to daily fines. The penal clause seems to be wholly unnecessary when the interest of the Board is sufficiently safeguarded by clause (bbb), which clearly provides that no compensation will be claimable in respect of any increase in the market-value resulting from such additional structure. Prosecutions in cases like these will cause unnecessary harassment, vexation and pecuniary loss which have the effect of producing dissatisfaction and discontent without any corresponding benefit to the Trust.

5. In the Calcutta Improvement Act material alterations of the Land Acquisition Act have already been made, and further modification of the latter Act is not necessary. By a new clause (bb) to be added to Article 9 of the Schedule it is now proposed that the increase or decrease in the market-value of land falling within or near to the street alignment will be disregarded in assessing the compensation. It is expected that a projected street will not be made before the lapse of some years after the notification, and the actual acquisition will naturally take place after an interval of several years. It would be almost impossible to determine what proportion of increase in the market-value of the land to be acquired, which has accrued during the interval, is due to the alignment of the projected public street and what proportion to the normal rise of value is due to other causes. In the circumstances and having regard to the uncertainty of the valuation and the possibility of a mere speculative and arbitrary determination of such increase, it will be inequitable to insert a provision like this in the Bill, in disregard of the ordinary provision of the Land Acquisition Act, which has worked well. As has been stated in the letter of the Chairman of the Corporation, dated 12th January current, "the Corporation has aligned projected streets from time to time under section 356 of the Calcutta Municipal Act, and it has not been found in actual experience that any extensive increase in the value of land has resulted from such alignment. . . . . They considered, therefore, it undesirable to introduce any innovation into the existing law relating to land acquisition in order to provide for a contingency which is not likely to arise in any substantive degree in actual practice." As regards clause (bbb) of Article 9 of the Schedule, I support what has been stated in the Hon'ble Mr. Payne's letter that a time limit should be prescribed for the completion of the projected public street. It is stated in that letter that "several years may lapse before a projected public street materialises into a sanctioned street scheme, and in not a few cases the alignment will ultimately be abandoned. This being so, it will not be an equitable proceeding to prevent land-holders from developing and improving their property for an indefinite time. The limit which the Committee (of the Corporation) propose is two years from the date of notification of the projected street under (the proposed) section 63 (b). The Committee consider that this period should give the Improvement Trust sufficient time to frame a street scheme, and that the limitation should have a wholesome effect in preventing delay on the part of the Trust." With these views I am in cordial agreement.

NOTE OF DISSENT BY THE HON'BLE BABU SURENDRA NATH RAY.

1. I do not agree with the majority of the Members of the Select Committee with reference to the unrestricted power proposed to be given to the Board to prescribe building lines in rear of the street alignment. This was not in the Bill as introduced in the Council, but was introduced in the Select Committee. Though the original proposal about the building line has been partially modified yet I think this provision may be omitted altogether.

2. In the last portion of clause (10) of new section 63 option is given to the Trust to acquire such land as falls within the street alignment only in lieu of paying compensation. I think there should be a provision for payment of compensation for severance as well where there is such severance, and not simply for the value of land.

3. I think the new penal clause in the Bill should be omitted altogether.

4. I think, in the interests of the general public, there ought to be a limit of time within which the projected public street is to be made.

5. It has not been adequately explained why the general law relating to land acquisition proceedings should be departed from in the case of acquisitions under the Calcutta Improvement Trust. Clause (bb) of section 8 may be omitted as has been recommended by the Calcutta Corporation.

The Calcutta Improvement (Amendment) Bill.

and the proposed public street to which such notification refers shall be deemed to be a projected public street, and shall be so deemed until—

(Clauses 6A-8.)

New section 171A.

6A. After section 171 of the said Act the following shall be inserted, namely:—

Penalty for failure to remove building or wall in respect of which agreement has been executed.

"171A. If the owner for the time being of any wall or building in respect of which an agreement has been executed as provided in section 63, sub-section (8a), fails—

(a) to remove such wall or building, or any specified portion thereof, when so required by notice issued under that sub-section, or,

(b) within fifteen days from the receipt of such notice, to authorize the Chairman, by permission in writing, to remove the said wall, building or portion,

he shall be punishable—

(i) with fine which may extend, in the case of a masonry wall or building, to one hundred rupees, and, in the case of a hut, to twenty rupees; and

(ii) with further fine which may extend, in the case of a masonry wall or building, to ten rupees, and, in the case of a hut, to five rupees, for each day after the first during which the failure continues."

Repeal of section 172.

7. Section 172 of the said Act is hereby repealed.

New section 174A

7A. After section 174 of the said Act the following heading and section shall be inserted, namely:—

"Recovery of expenses.

Removal of buildings and recovery of expenses.

174A. When a written notice, issued under section 63, sub-section (8a), for the removal of a wall or building, or any portion thereof, is not complied with by the owner thereof for the time being as provided in section 171A, the Chairman may proceed to remove such wall, building or portion, and the expenses incurred in effecting such removal shall be recoverable by sale of the materials or other things removed."

[Cf. Ben. Act III of 1899, s. 601.]

Amendment of Article 9 of the Schedule.

8. After clause (b) in Article 9 of the Schedule to the said Act the following shall be inserted, namely:—

"(bb) if the market-value has been increased or decreased owing to the land falling within or near to the alignment of a projected public street, such increase or decrease shall be disregarded;

The Calcutta Improvement (Amendment) Bill.

(Clause 8.)

(bbb) if any person, without the permission of the Chairman required by section 63, sub-section (8), of the Calcutta Improvement Act, 1911, has erected, re-erected or added to any wall (exceeding eight feet in height) or building within the street alignment or building line of a projected public street, then any increase in the market-value resulting from such erection, re-erection or addition shall be disregarded."

*1. Will the Government be pleased to state :—

(i) whether the abolition of the existing last grade of Munsifs in Bengal will take effect from the commencement of the current financial year as provided for in the current year's budget ;

(ii) if not, from what date will the abolition take effect, and what are the reasons for delay ?

Abolition of the last grade of Munsifs in Bengal.

The Hon'ble MR. CUMMING replied :—

(ii) It is not possible to state from what date the abolition of the last grade of Munsifs in Bengal will take effect.

Government regret that they are not prepared to make recommendations at the present time for the immediate increase of expenditure which the proposal would involve and are awaiting the Report of the Royal Commission on the Public Services before taking further action in the matter."

By the Hon'ble BABU UPENDRA LAL RAY :—

*2. (a) Are the Government aware that in the Customs House at Calcutta, Government paper and other securities, and cash for adjustment of salt credits, are not accepted by the Accounts and Cash Department after 2 P.M. and 2-15 P.M., respectively, on ordinary days and after 12 noon and 12-15 P.M., respectively, on Saturdays ?

Latest hour of receipt of Government paper and other securities in the Customs House, Calcutta.

(b) Is it a fact that after the introduction of the salt credit system and up to September 1914 the time for receiving such securities and cash was till 3 P.M. on ordinary days and 12-30 P.M. on Saturdays ?

(c) Are the Government aware that representations have been made to the Collector of Customs, Calcutta, by the dealers and brokers on the subject ?

(d) What has been the result of these representations ?

(e) Is it a fact that in all other Government offices, including the other departments of the Customs office, cash and securities are received till 3 P.M. on ordinary days and 12-30 P.M. on Saturdays ?

(f) Are the Government considering the question of introducing the old system of receiving cash and securities which had been in force before September 1914 in the Customs House at Calcutta ?

The Hon'ble MR. STEPHENSON replied :—

(c) & (d) Representations have been made to the Collector of Customs, who received a deputation of dealers and brokers on the subject.

(e) The answer is in the affirmative.

(f) The new timing was introduced because it was found that owing to the development of the salt credit system the Accounts Branch was kept at work daily till a late hour in order to close the salt credits. The change has given considerable relief to the clerks and inflicts no real hardship on the dealers and brokers. Government do not, therefore, propose to interfere with the Collector's order."

Mosques situated within the area acquired by the Port Commissioners.

*3. (a) Is it a fact that the doors of one of the mosques situated within the area acquired by the Port Commissioners at Kidderpore have been removed by the Port Commissioners in spite of protests by the Muhammadan community?

(b) Is it a fact that the Port Commissioners are hindering Muhammadans from visiting the mosques for purposes of prayer and other religious observances?

The Hon'ble MR. CUMMING replied :—

(a) "It is a fact that two doors have been removed from the mosque situated at the junction of the Sonai Road and Sonai First Lane. Inquiries have been made and it has been ascertained that the doors were not removed by the employés of the Port Commissioners. It is not known by whom they were taken away.

(b) The answer is in the negative."

Question and Answer; Resolution.

The President.

By the Hon'ble CHAUDHURI MUHAMMAD ISMAIL KHAN :—

Survey and settlement operations in the district of Noakhali.

11.—Will the Government be pleased to state whether they are considering the desirability of postponing the carrying out of the present survey and settlement operations in the district of Noakhali to a time of greater agricultural prosperity?

The following reply by the Hon'ble Mr. KERR was laid on the table :—

"The question was considered in connection with certain petitions submitted to Government in September and November last, and Government came to the conclusion that there was nothing in the agricultural conditions of the district to warrant a suspension of the Survey and Settlement operations. The recovery of the cost, moreover, will not begin until the year 1917-18, and any delay at the present stage would inevitably result in an increase in the total cost of the operations."

DEATH OF

The Hon'ble NAWAB SIR KHWAJA SALIMULLAH BAHADUR, G.C.I.E., K.C.S.I.

His Excellency the PRESIDENT said :—

"Before we proceed to the business on the paper, I desire to suspend the Rules of Business in order to refer to the loss we have sustained through the passing away of our late colleague the Nawab Bahadur of Dacca, and to move a resolution. Probably no one connected with Bengal, as it now is, was more widely looked up to throughout the Presidency, certainly no one in Bengal was more widely known outside of it. In a country where the holding of land counts for more than it now does in most countries and where the profession of a common religion is still the strongest bond to unite groups of men for common action, the Nawab Bahadur was one of the largest landlords and was looked up to as their trusted leader by the members of the most numerous religious community. You all know—better most of you than I do—the part which he took in political affairs. He freely gave his strong support to constituted authority, and his influence was a great help to Government officers in troublous times. He never forgot the interest of his own class or of his own community; but he was always fairminded and willing to look at both sides of any question. I often discussed with him matters concerning Bengal—matters especially as to which Government officers and popular leaders have not always seen eye to eye, or those which religious communities approach from entirely different stand-points, and I can say with truth that I have met no one since I came here who has pointed out to me more incisively than the Nawab Bahadur did where European officials may have made a mistake or may have failed to appreciate the Indian point of view, nor any one who saw more clearly than he did where there was a risk of those for whom he spoke failing to give heed enough to the cherished beliefs of others, or who was more ready to try to arrange that gain to his own friends should not be secured at a loss to those with whom he differed. His wide interests, his shrewd common sense and his sense of humour won for him the confidence of even those who were most naturally opposed to him. He never made any secret to me of his belief that the events which brought me to Bengal were not such as he could welcome in his own personal interests, but nevertheless no one could have been more frank than he was in explaining to me how he thought I might be able to help others, and I feel that in him I have lost a friend. His ill-health did not permit of his coming often to this Council, but he took great interest in its deliberations. He was looking forward to being here to-day and even meant to take a part in the proceedings. But he can no longer help us—save by the help which the memory of a wise man who loved his country always affords. Perhaps that help is peculiarly valuable at this moment. We all feel, I am sure, what grief the war must bring to the Muhammadan community. We all recognise how well the members of that community are meeting their present trial. We know how the Nawab Bahadur, by his counsel and by his example, was making it clear to all that the loyalty to our King-Emperor which so distinguishes his co-religionists is in no way incompatible with the fervent devotion to their ideals and to the teaching of their history to which they are so nobly devoted.

Gentlemen, I ask you to agree to the following resolution :—

> 'That this Council desire to place on record their recognition of the serious loss which they and the whole Presidency of Bengal have sustained by the death of the late Nawab Bahadur of Dacca, who, during a long period of years, unceasingly exerted his great influence and marked abilities in the furtherance of the public welfare; and to convey to the members of his family an expression of sincere sympathy in their great loss.'"

The Hon'ble MAHARAJADHIRAJA BAHADUR OF BURDWAN said :—

"My Lord, I rise not only to associate myself with what Your Excellency has said regarding the late Nawab Sir Khwaja Salimullah Bahadur of Dacca but also to express very feebly my regret at the death of one who in every sense of the word held up the traditions of a true nobleman. To me personally the loss is great, for he was more than a friend—he was a brother; and although we shall no longer see him in this Council Chamber, although the Government will no longer get direct, and if I may venture to say, healthy advice from one who in more ways than one helped to keep the Muhammadan community in Bengal together, and although the community have suffered a loss which for this generation will, I think, be irreparable, yet we have got the memory of a great man to cherish and we have got this consolation that for him not one but thousands are grieving at this moment. I shall certainly miss, if I may use a term of familiarity, my friend Salim, not only in this Council Chamber but everywhere, and I think that the Hindu Members of this Council present here to-day will agree with me that, laying aside our political views and ideas, the Hindu community as a whole feel the loss of the late Nawab Sir Khwaja Salimullah as keenly as do the Muhammadans although their loss in certain respects is keener and irreparable. With these few words, I beg to support the resolution which Your Excellency has moved and to associate myself with everything that has fallen from you."

The Hon'ble BABU SURENDRA NATH BANERJI said:—

"My Lord, I desire to accord my hearty support to the resolution which has been placed before us by Your Excellency and to associate myself wholeheartedly with the observations which have fallen from Your Excellency and from my hon'ble friend the Maharajadhiraja Bahadur of Burdwan. I cannot claim to have had the advantage of his close personal friendship, but what little I knew of the late Nawab Bahadur filled me with the highest admiration for his many noble qualities of head and heart. My Lord, we did not always worship in the same temple and my friend has referred to the divergence of opinion which took place between him and ourselves on many questions, but none could approach, none could argue, none could discuss any public question with him without feeling that there was before him a person, honest, sincere and straightforward in the entertainment of his opinions and the expression of those opinions. My Lord, my hon'ble friend has rightly voiced the sentiments of the Hindu community when he says that we Hindus feel the loss as keenly as our Muhammadan fellow countrymen do. Although perhaps to them his loss is irreparable, we associate ourselves whole-heartedly with them in their great sorrow and stand by them in the hour of their bereavement. With these few words I desire to support the resolution."

The Hon'ble MR. GLEN said:—

"My Lord, I desire to associate myself with all that has fallen from Your Excellency. Having been connected with the district of Dacca for twenty-five years, I perhaps knew more of the late Nawab than many Hon'ble Members in this Council, and I can testify to the great qualities of the late Nawab and his predecessors. On behalf of the commercial community of Eastern Bengal, I wish to express our heartfelt sympathy with the Muhammadan community in the loss they have sustained."

The Hon'ble NAWAB SAIYID NAWAB ALI CHAUDHURI, KHAN BAHADUR, said:—

"My Lord, a great shadow has fallen over Bengal and the Indian Mussalmans by the sudden and unexpected death of the late Hon'ble Nawab Bahadur Sir Khwaja Salimullah, G.C.I.E., K.C.S.I., of Dacca. He had been ailing long from complicated diseases and his object in coming to Calcutta was chiefly to place himself in the hands of expert doctors. He was confined to bed since his arrival and there was no immediate cause for any anxiety. On Tuesday last, however, he had an attack of fever which abated on Friday morning, but in the afternoon towards 4 o'clock there was soon another relapse and he expired at two-twenty-five in the morning of Saturday. I was at his bedside when he passed away.

On behalf of the friends and relatives of the deceased nobleman and on behalf of the entire Mahammadan community, I beg to express our deep gratitude to Your Excellency for your presence and sympathy and for kindly cancelling all your valuable engagements and for closing the offices on Saturday. I would also take this opportunity of extending our gratitude to the other European and Indian officials and non-officials present on the occasion, and also to the Hon'ble Mr. Lyon who followed the funeral to the Railway station.

The deceased Nawab Bahadur descends from a family of great traditions. The founder of this family Khwaja Hakimollah came from Cashmere and on the downfall of the Moghul Empire settled himself down at Sylhet and assumed the role of a merchant. His successor Khwaja Alimollah it is told gave up this mercantile enterprise, began purchasing landed property and settled himself at Dacca. In the time of the late Nawab Abdul Ghani the family rose to influence and power. In 1869 the difference between the Shias and Sunnis was smoothed over by his foresight and wisdom. He rendered much help to Government during the time of the Mutiny as well as in the Lushai and Naga Expeditions and during times of famines and floods. His generosity knew no bounds, and schools, colleges, hospitals, dispensaries, mosques, tombs, etc., received liberal donations. The water-works of Dacca owe their existence to the munificent donation of Sir Khwaja Abdul Ghani. He was succeeded by Sir Ahsanullah who was as liberal as his father and introduced at his own cost Electric Light throughout Dacca.

The late Khwaja Sir Salimollah succeeded his father Sir Ahsanullah. He was gradually honoured with the titles of Nawab Bahadur, C.S.I., K.C.S.I. and G.C.I.E., in recognition of the valuable services he rendered to Government, to his country and to his community.

Resolution.

Nawab Saiyid Nawab Ali Chaudhuri, Khan Bahadur:

The Nawabs of Dacca have long been known for their wealth and munificence in Bengal and especially in Eastern Bengal. Sir Khwaja Salimollah exceeded his ancestors though not in wealth but in the estimation of the Government and the people and was the foremost leader of his community. The influence he had over his community was greater than that of his ancestors. Nawab Salimollah has had a successful career. In his early years he reverted to his ancestral calling temporarily as a merchant and was also in Government employ for a brief period in the Provincial Civil Service and so had gained an insight into human nature and was able to wield great influence over his community and other classes. His liberality and kind heartedness are too well known to need any comment. I have been closely associated with him from almost the beginning of his career and can make bold to say this of him. Innumerable institutions, families and individuals have been benefited by his generosity.

The death of the Nawab Bahadur of Dacca will be keenly felt not only in Bengal but throughout India. The Mussalmans of Bengal have lost in him a great leader, counsellor and friend and his death leaves a gap hard to be filled. He was the people's friend and representative and was readily accessible to all. He was ever ready to take his share in any work entrusted to him either by the Government or his countrymen. In spite of all that may be said, he was liked by Indian and European friends for his many qualities of head and heart. In later years the maladies he suffered from prevented him much from participating in Council meetings and other public affairs, but it must be said that his record of work in both the Councils—Imperial and Local—has been exemplary and his counsels were of great help.

Whatever he took up in hand he did it with the earnestness of purpose for the public weal. Politics played an important part in his life and he always distinguished himself by his fund of common sense and tact and guided the people safely through the course of all currents of thought. He was a power in Bengal and especially in Eastern Bengal. The inception of the All-India Moslem League was due to him and the preliminary session of the League was held at Dacca in 1906 and he was one of its Vice-Presidents. He was also a Vice-President of the London Branch of the League. He was the Founder and President of the Provincial Muhammadan Association of Eastern Bengal and Assam, Founder and President of the East Bengal and new Bengal Muhammadan League. He was also the President of the Eastern Bengal Landholders' Association for a long time.

Moslem Education also engaged his attention a great deal. He was the Founder and President of the Educational Conference in Eastern and the new Bengal as constituted at present. Zealous as a true Muhammadan he evinced a warm interest in all that concerned Islam and helped all around where his money and advice were needed. In religious education too, he evinced no less a keen desire in the scheme for the reformation of the Madrassahs which, it is hoped, will soon see the light of day.

An excellent representative and an exponent of the highest ideals and aspirations of the Mussalmans, his death to them is a great blow and with him one of the most influential personalities which Mussalman India produced in recent years passes away. Indian Mussalmans have lost in him a great and good man and the Mussalmans of Bengal and especially of Eastern Bengal a great patron of learning and one that was ever ready to ameliorate the conditions of the people and to dole out charity to all indigent who came to his doors.

He endeared himself to all classes by his kind and affable ways, and we shall miss his cheerful personality from this Chamber as well as in other spheres. The late lamented Nawab Bahadur is now dead and gone but his memory will be preserved in the hearts of all who came in contact with him. To have known him is to have loved him. Personally, I have lost in him a great friend and counsellor and we never hesitated to consult each other and profit by the same. There have been occasions when I differed from him in certain of his views but we agreed in essentials and remained good friends.

To his eldest son Nawab Khwaja Habibullah and all the bereaved members of his family, this Council, I am sure, joins me in its deep sympathy and condolence, and also to Government and the people of Bengal in general over the loss of one who was ever loyal to the backbone in thought, word and deed, and to the people—a patron, friend and counsellor. In doing so let us pray that God's blessings may rest on Nawab Habibullah, that He may grant him wisdom in the performance of his duties."

The Hon'ble MAULVI CHAUDHURI MUHAMMAD ISMAIL KHAN said :—

"My Lord, I will be failing in my duty if I do not associate myself with my Hon'ble friends who so feelingly expressed their sorrow at the untimely death of Nawab Bahadur Sir Khawja Salimullah. I had the privilege and pleasure of enjoying his friendship for more than 12 years. On many an occasion his generosity and liberality struck me with astonishment and admiration. With all his rank, wealth and dignity he was always accessible to every one whether high or low. He would never disappoint a really needy person and he was always ready with a kind reply or a word of hope for those who approached him for help and guidance. I for one have lost in him a dear and a sincere friend. His death has cast a gloom over this province and the Mussalmans of Bengal consider it in the light of a national calamity. He was to them a leader in whom they had placed implicit faith and confidence so much so that they would have ungrudgingly followed him wherever he would like to lead them. Thus it is a great and noble man in the prime of his life who has been carried away from amidst us. We can only mourn his loss and pray to the Almighty that his soul may rest in peace."

The Hon'ble NAWAB SYED SHAMS-UL-HUDA said :—

"My Lord, I desire to associate myself with everything that has fallen from Your Excellency's lips. I had the privilege of enjoying the friendship of the late Nawab Sir Salimullah and I can say from an intimate knowledge of him extending over many years that it will always be difficult to find a man more lovable in his disposition, more generous towards friends and more forbearing towards enemies. A shrewd man ready to do the right thing at the right moment with an intense love for his country and his community he was the ideal leader of the Mussalmans of this Presidency and exercised the highest influence for good over the entire Muslim community of India. The manner in which he performed his duties as a leader at a time when circumstances demanded the highest qualities of tact and statesmanship is well known to Government and to his countrymen. I have never known one more sincere in his convictions and more anxious to promote the best interest of his country and his countrymen. Of his unflinching loyalty to his sovereign it is not for me to speak. Your Excellency has spoken of that in no uncertain language, and no one who knows of the life and work of the man would say that that estimate is in the least too high.

There are very few public men in this country who have not at one time or other asked for his support and never was support more judiciously or more ungrudgingly given. I myself remember with gratitude my great personal indebtedness to him, but this is not the time or place to dwell on that.

Resolution.

Maulvi Mushraf Husain ; Mr. Lyon.

The Mussalmans of India have lost in him not only a friend and a guide but one who was ever ready to place himself and his resources at their service. I am afraid the gap created by his death will not soon be filled."

The Hon'ble MAULVI MUSHRAF HUSAIN said :—

"My Lord, I beg to support the resolution moved by Your Excellency in this Council. Language fails to express the sorrow felt by all of us on the sad, sudden and untimely death of our distinguished leader and friend, the late Nawab Sir Khawja Salimullah Bahadur of Dacca. It is needless to enumerate here the services rendered by the distinguished gentleman both to Government and to the people, as they are too well known to all of us present to need enumeration. His very presence had an electrifying effect on all those he met. I have never seen anybody returning disappointed from our revered friend. He enjoyed the confidence of both Government and people and whatever problem, political or social, was put before him for solution, he solved it in the interest of the rulers and the ruled and as such his solutions were accepted by all without a word of protest. We have lost in him a true leader, a sincere friend, a wise statesman and an earnest worker in the cause of humanity and the lasting peace of the country. I sincerely wish that his soul may rest in peace in Heaven and see the effects of all the good and useful works he has inaugurated during his life time.

With these words, My Lord, I beg to support the resolution put before the Council for acceptance."

The Hon'ble Mr. LYON said :—

"My Lord, I should like to add a few words to the tribute which has been paid to-day to the late Nawab Bahadur of Dacca, both as an old personal friend and as one who has been closely associated with him, both in his private affairs and in his public life, for the past ten years.

We all were his friends here and we knew his geniality, his hospitality, his sympathy, and that kindness to all, entirely irrespective of class or creed which endeared him to everyone he met. And also we recognised the deep religious convictions which, while they bound his own community to him with bonds of steel, at the same time evoked the respect and affection of others who, while they might have similar ideals, did not share in his religious faith.

But here, in this Council, it is mainly as a statesman that we regard him and as such he rose as many other statesmen have risen in times of stress. We remember how at the time of the first partition of Bengal, he set himself at once loyally to do what he could for the new Province and to help its Government. He incurred much obloquy and much opposition from those who did not agree with him. He met all this with patience, with strength and with dignity, and it is not too much to say that in a very short time he earned the respect and affection of even those who were opposed to him. And, later, when the partition of Bengal was revoked, when he was present in spite of his ill-health at the Delhi Durbar, he had the foresight to see at once that the word of the King-Emperor could not be recalled, and that the decision which had been come to was final, and he ranged himself once more on the side of law and order and devoted all his energies to preventing those of his community who were disappointed at that decision from giving expression to it in any violent or disorderly manner. And, during the past few months of anxiety his work has been worthy of him, in spite of his grievous and increasing illness.

It is not too much to say that while the Muhammadans of this country owe him a great debt, Bengal as a whole owes him one that is even greater, and all that we may do to honour his memory will repay it in but small measure."

Resolution ; The Bengal Embankment (Sundarsbans) Bill ; The Calcutta Improvement (Amendment) Bill ; the Bengal Steam-boilers and Prime-movers (Amendment) Bill.

Babu Upendra Lal Ray ; Mr. Beatson Bell ; Nawab Syed Shams-ul-Huda.

The Hon'ble BABU UPENDRA LAL RAY said:—

"My Lord, I rise to associate myself with the resolution moved by Your Excellency. The death of the Hon'ble Nawab Bahadur of Dacca has come upon us as a surprise. As an inhabitant of Eastern Bengal I had occasion to know the late Nawab Bahadur in various ways. His strong personality and his genial disposition endeared him to all who had occasion to meet him. He was as honest in the formation of his opinion on all matters of public importance as he was straightforward in his expression of them. The loss to Bengal has been great and it is not known whether it will be made up in the near future. The only consolation that we can offer his bereaved family is that the Government recognised his meritorious services and that the country mourns his loss."

The resolution was then carried, all present standing.

THE BENGAL EMBANKMENT (SUNDARBANS) BILL, 1915.

LIST OF BUSINESS—ITEM No. 2.

The Hon'ble Mr. Beatson Bell presented the Report of the Select Committee on the Bengal Embankment (Sundarbans) Bill, 1915.

He said :—

"My Lord, I ask for leave to present the Report of the Select Committee on the Sundarbans Bill. In doing so, I express regret that one member of the Committee, my friend the Hon'ble Maulvi Faz-ul-Haq, was unable to attend any of our meetings owing to illness. Another matter of regret is that we are not quite unanimous. A minute of dissent has been recorded by two Hon'ble Members. It is now placed on the table. I am also asked to give notice that Hon'ble Members desiring to move amendments to the Bill should, under the rules, send notice of the same to reach the Secretary to the Council not later than 11 A. M. on the 17th February next."

THE CALCUTTA IMPROVEMENT (AMENDMENT) BILL, 1915.

LIST OF BUSINESS—ITEM No. 3.

The Hon'ble Nawab Syed Shams-ul-Huda presented the Report of the Select Committee on the Calcutta Improvement (Amendment) Bill, 1915.

He said :—

"My Lord, I also am asked to give notice that Hon'ble Members desiring to move amendments to the Bill should, under the rules, send notice of the same to reach the Secretary to the Council not later than 11 A. M. on the 17th February next."

THE BENGAL STEAM-BOILERS AND PRIME-MOVERS (AMENDMENT) BILL, 1915.

LIST OF BUSINESS—ITEMS Nos. 4 and 5.

The Hon'ble Mr. Beatson Bell moved for leave to introduce a Bill further to amend the Bengal Steam-boilers and Prime-movers Act, 1879.

He said :—

"My Lord, this Bill deals with rather a technical subject—steam-boilers and Prime movers. According to the definition in the existing Act, "boiler" includes any cylinder or vessel for generating steam under pressure, while "prime-mover" includes any steam-engine, fly-wheel, first driving shaft or pulley attached to any such engine. The Act extends to the town of Calcutta and Howrah and it is also within the competence of Government to extend it to other places in the mufassal. It has been extended to various places in the coal districts and it has also been extended to Naraingunge and Chandpur and I think, to a few other places. The main point of our Bill is that we think that the present Act is possibly rather too drastic, and we are proposing therefore to make it more elastic. I hope this Bill will show that Government are not always actuated by that passion for regulation with which it is not unoften credited.

Resolutions.

Babu Surendra Nath Ray.

At present, the exemptions under the Act are very few. The Act does not apply to any locomotive engine used upon any railway or to any steam vessel in the Port of Calcutta. These are the only exemptions. Locomotives are, of course, thoroughly inspected under the supervision of the Railway Board and the steam vessels in the Port of Calcutta are covered by other legislation. But we think that these exemptions do not go quite far enough. Some prime-movers and steam-boilers are in no way dangerous either to the public or to those who work them and we ask for power to exempt them specifically. We also ask for power to exempt any boiler or prime-mover which is used exclusively for domestic purposes at atmospheric pressure. I think the Council will agree that these are reasonable exemptions.

The third exemption which we suggest introducing into the Act relates to steam-vessels in any area outside Calcutta to which the Act has been extended. Passenger steamers in the mufassal are already dealt with under other Acts, but there are certain other steamers in the mufassal, for example steam-launches belonging to mercantile firms, both European and Indian, at Narainganj and Chandpur. We have been advised that it is unnecessary to subject these vessels to the Act, and we therefore propose to exempt them, following the precedent of the Burma Act. It may be, however, that this is going too far and we are quite prepared to reconsider or modify this proposal after we have consulted those most concerned.

Finally, we propose to provide for the payment of pensions, gratuities or compassionate allowances, as the case may be, to any Boiler Inspector who is injured, or to the relative of any Boiler Inspector who is killed, in the discharge of his duties. This is a humane and necessary provision which will, I am sure, commend itself to the Council.

My Lord, these are the main provisions which we desire to incorporate in the Act.

The motion was put and agreed to.

The Hon'ble Mr. Beatson-Bell moved that the said Bill be referred to a Select Committee consisting of the Hon'ble Mr. Newbould, the Hon'ble Mr. Payne, the Hon'ble Mr. Cowley, the Hon'ble Raja Hrishikesh Laha, the Hon'ble Mr. Bray, the Hon'ble Mr. Grice, the Hon'ble Babu Upendra Lal Ray and the mover with instructions to circulate their report in time for its consideration in Council at the meeting to be held in March next.

The motion was put and agreed to.

(Under the Rules for the discussion of matters of general public interest.) purpose of advising Government in matters connected with primary and secondary education in this Presidency.'

He said :—

"My Lord. I am sorry to find that there is some misapprehension in the minds of certain of the Muhammadan members of this Council as regards my resolution. I do not like at this time to move a resolution which may have the effect of hampering the Government. In the circumstances, therefore, I beg to withdraw the resolution with your Excellency's permission.

The resolution was then, by leave of the President, withdrawn.

The resolution having been withdrawn, the following two amendments standing in the name of the Hon'ble Nawab Saiyid Nawab Ali Chaudhuri, Khan Bahadur, and the Hon'ble Chaudhuri Muhammad Ismail Khan, respectively, were also deemed to have been withdrawn :—

'The Hon'ble Nawab Saiyid Nawab Ali Chaudhuri, Khan Bahadur, to move that for the words within brackets "(to consist of official and nonofficial Members)", in line 2 of the Hon'ble Babu Surendra Nath Ray's resolution, the following be substituted, namely :—

PART V.

Acts of the Governor General's Council assented to by the Governor General.

GOVERNMENT OF INDIA.

LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT.

ACT No. 1 OF 1915.

An Act to continue in force the provisions of certain Ordinances.

WHEREAS the Ordinances mentioned in the Schedule are temporary in their duration and in virtue of section 23 of the Indian Councils Act, 1861, are limited to expire within the period of six months from their promulgation ; and,

4 & 25 Vict., c. 67.

Whereas owing to the state of war existing between His Majesty the King Emperor and certain foreign Powers it is expedient to provide for the continuance as in this Act mentioned of the provisions contained in those Ordinances, it is hereby enacted as follows :—

1. This Act may be called the Emergency Legislation Continuance Act, 1915.

Short title.

2. The provisions of the Ordinances mentioned in the Schedule shall have effect as if they had been enacted by the Governor General in Council and shall be in force during the continuance of the present war and for a period of six months thereafter :

Continuance of provisions of Ordinances in Schedule.

Provided that the Governor General in Council may by notification in the Gazette of India direct that any provision in any of the said Ordinances shall cease to be in force at any earlier date which may be specified in such notification.

SCHEDULE.

(See section 2.)

Year.	Number.	Short title.
1914	I	The Indian Naval and Military News (Emergency) Ordinance, 1914.
„	II	The Impressment of Vessels Ordinance, 1914.
„	III	The Foreigners Ordinance, 1914.
„	IV	The Indian Volunteers Ordinance, 1914.
„	V	The Ingress into India Ordinance, 1914.
„	VI	The Commercial Intercourse with Enemies Ordinance, 1914.
„	VII	The Foreigners (Amendment) Ordinance, 1914.
„	VIII	The Foreigners (Further Amendment) Ordinance, 1914.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

THE outbreak of the present war necessitated certain special legislation to meet the emergency created thereby. Action was taken by Ordinances under section 23 of the Indian Councils Act, 1861 (24 & 25 Vict., c. 67).

2. The Ordinances made in exercise of the power referred to are limited in duration to a period of six months. The present state of affairs requires that the duration of this emergent legislation should be prolonged. Accordingly the present Bill continues for the period of the war and for a period of six months thereafter the provisions of the Ordinances made since the outbreak of war.

3. It is clear that the actual cessation of hostilities will not coincide precisely with the disappearance of the conditions that led to the special legislation. In order to meet this point the Act, if the Bill becomes law, will continue to be in force for a definite period of six months after the termination of the war. Power is however reserved to the Governor General in Council to direct by notification that any provisions of the Ordinances may be declared to cease to be in force at any earlier date.

BRITISH POSSESSIONS.

Caution when Approaching British Ports.

No. 17 (second publication).—The following particulars, etc., relative to the above, issued by the British Admiralty (No. 1805 of 1914), are republished :—

PART I.

CLOSING OF PORTS.

Former Notice.—No. 1 of 1914 (This Office No. 74 of 1914), hereby cancelled.

(1) My Lords Commissioners of the Admiralty, having taken into consideration the fact that local or other circumstances may arise in which it may be necessary, on account of periodical exercises, manœuvres, or otherwise, to forbid all entrance to certain ports of the Empire, this is to give notice that on approaching the shores of the United Kingdom, or any of the ports or localities of the British Empire, referred to in Part III of this Notice, a sharp look-out should be kept for the signals described in the following paragraph, and for the vessels mentioned in paragraph (5), Part II, of this Notice, and the distinguishing and other signals made by them. In the event of such signals being displayed, the port or locality should be approached with great caution, as it may be apprehended that obstructions may exist.

(2) If entrance to a port is prohibited, three red vertical lights by night, or three red vertical balls by day, will be exhibited in some conspicuous position, in or near to its approach, which signals will also be shown by the vessels indicated in paragraph (5), Part II, of this Notice.

If these signals are displayed, vessels must either proceed to the position marked "Examination Anchorage" on the Admiralty charts and anchor there, or keep the sea.

(3) At all the ports or localities at home or abroad referred to in Part III of this Notice, search-lights are occasionally exhibited for exercise.

Instructions have been given to avoid directing moveable search-lights during practice on to vessels under way, but mariners are warned that great care should be taken to keep a sharp look-out for the signals indicated in paragraph (2) above, when search-lights are observed to be working.

PART II.

EXAMINATION SERVICE.

(4) Under certain circumstances it may become necessary to take special measures to examine vessels desiring to enter the ports or localities at home or abroad, referred to in Part III of this Notice.

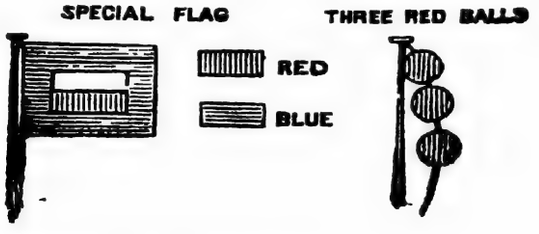
(5) In such case, vessels carrying the distinguishing flags or lights mentioned in paragraph (7) will be charged with the duty of examining ships which desire to enter the ports and of allotting positions in which they shall anchor. If Government vessels, or vessels belonging to the local port authority, are found patrolling in the offing, merchant vessels are advised to communicate with such vessels with a view to obtaining information as to the course on which they should approach the Examination anchorage. Such communication will not be necessary in cases where the pilot on board has already received this information from the local authorities.

(6) As the institution of the Examination Service at any port will never be publicly advertised, especial care should be taken in approaching the ports, by day or night, to keep a sharp look-out for any vessel carrying the flags or lights mentioned in paragraph (7), and to be ready to "bring to" at once when hailed by her or warned by the firing of a gun or sound rocket.

In entering by night any of the ports mentioned in Part III, serious delay and risk will be avoided if four efficient all round lamps, two red and two white, are kept available for use.

(7) By day the distinguishing flags of the Examination Steamer will be a special flag (white and red horizontal surrounded by a blue border) and a blue ensign.

Also, three red vertical balls if the port is closed.



By night the steamer will carry :—

(a) Three red vertical lights if the port is closed.
(b) Three white vertical lights if the port is open.

The above lights will be carried in addition to the ordinary navigation lights, and will show an unbroken light around the horizon.

(8) Masters are warned that, before attempting to enter any of these ports when the Examination Service is in force, they must in their own interests strictly obey all instructions given to them by the Examination Steamer. In the absence of any instructions from the Examination Steamer they must proceed to the position marked "Examination Anchorage" on the Admiralty Charts and anchor there, or keep the sea.

Whilst at anchor in the Examination Anchorage, Masters are warned that they must not lower any boats (except to avoid accident), communicate with the shore, work cables, move the ship, or allow anyone to leave the ship, without permission from the Examination Steamer.

(9) In case of fog, Masters of vessels are enjoined to use the utmost care, and the Examination Anchorage itself should be approached with caution.

(10) Merchant vessels when approaching ports are specially cautioned against making use of private signals of any description, either by day or night: the use of them will render a vessel liable to be fired on.

(11) The pilots attached to the ports will be acquainted with the regulations to be followed.

SWEEPING OPERATIONS.

H.M. Vessels are constantly engaged in sweeping operations off ports in the United Kingdom.

Whilst so engaged, they work in pairs, connected by a wire hawser, and are consequently hampered to a very considerable extent in their manœuvring powers.

With a view to indicating the nature of the work on which these vessels are engaged, they will show the following signals:—

A black ball at the foremost head and a similar ball at the yardarm, or where it can best be seen, on that side on which it is dangerous for vessels to pass.

For the public safety, all other vessels, whether steamers or sailing craft, must keep out of the way of vessels flying this signal, and should especially remember that it is dangerous to pass between the vessels of a pair.

Resolution of this Government, No. 4425 P.—D., dated the 25th October 1913.
Letter No. 255 D. A. C., dated the 29th May 1914, from the President, District Administration Committee.

IN the Resolution cited in the preamble, the Government of Bengal, with the concurrence of the Government of India, appointed a Committee to examine the conditions prevailing in the districts of Bengal, to compare them with those existing in other provinces, and to report in what respects the administrative machinery of the Presidency could be improved. The scope of the Committee's enquiries was necessarily wide; and the report, which the Committee submitted in May 1914, deals with many important questions affecting the general administration of this Presidency. The Governor in Council hopes that through the publication of this report the attention of the public may be drawn to the difficult problems arising out of these questions and that he may be favoured with criticisms and advice which will assist him in dealing with them.

2. His Excellency in Council desires to take this opportunity of acknowledging the services which the Hon'ble Mr. E. V. Levinge, C.S.I., Mr. H. V. Lovett, C.S.I., and Mr. C. E. Low, C.I.E., have rendered to this Government as President and Members of the Committee. He also wishes to express his indebtedness to the Governments of the United Provinces, the Central Provinces, Bihar and Orissa and Madras, and to their officers, for the help which they gave to the Committee in the course of its enquiries.

ORDER.—Ordered that a copy of the Resolution be published in the Calcutta Gazette, and that copies of the report be forwarded to the principal newspapers and representative Associations of Bengal.

Ordered also that copies of the report be forwarded to the selected officers and departments of Government whom the report may concern.

The Report of the Bengal Districts Administration Committee.

ALSO—

A joint address presented to His Excellency the Governor at Midnapore on 10th November 1914.

Proposals for the partition of the district of Midnapore have been before this Government since the year 1852. The state of the case, as it stood in July 1913, is fully set out in the resolution quoted above. Since then the question has continued to receive the anxious attention of this Government, and the petitions and memorials which are detailed above have received the most careful consideration. His Excellency also received a large deputation, introduced by Mr. Surjya Kumar Agasti, in Government House

Calcutta, on the 4th November 1914. He listened with much interest to the arguments advanced by that deputation against the general policy of partition, also to the divergent views expressed by different members of the deputation as to the best method of partition in the event of Government adhering to their policy. Finally, Lord Carmichael visited the district between the 9th and the 12th November 1914. He personally inspected Contai and Kharagpur and spent two days at Midnapore, where he received and replied to the address mentioned above

2. As a result of these deliberations His Excellency in Council has arrived at the conclusion that the partition of the district of Midnapore is an urgent administrative necessity which should be undertaken as soon as funds are available. It is unnecessary to recapitulate the arguments in favour of partition which are set out in the Resolution of the 7th July, 1913. The further facts and figures which are contained in chapters III and IV of the report of the Bengal Districts Administration Committee (which is now being published for general information) make the case even stronger. Above all, the Governor in Council is satisfied that it is impossible to introduce into Midnapore a satisfactory system of Local Self-Government, until the district has been divided into two separate districts of manageable size.

3. The Governor in Council is satisfied that the scheme which is outlined in the Resolution of July, 1913, is, in its main lines, the best solution of the problem. In this scheme it is contemplated that there will be two districts—first, the district of Midnapore, with its head-quarters at Midnapore and its outlying subdivisions at Ghatal and Jhargram; and secondly, the district of Hijli, with its head-quarters at Kharagpur and its outlying subdivisions at Contai and Tamluk. It has been suggested in several memorials that the headquarters of the second district should be at Contai or Tamluk. There is not much to be said for the selection of Tamluk, but the Governor in Council recognises that the claims of Contai deserve serious consideration. After visiting both Kharagpur and Contai Lord Carmichael has finally decided in favour of Kharagpur. Even if Contai be connected by rail with Contai Road station, Kharagpur will still be more generally accessible to the people of the new district. As a great Railway centre it will be the more important of the two places. An excellent site for the new civil station of Kharagpur has already been acquired and negotiations have been entered into with the authorities of the Bengal-Nagpur Railway Company for supplying the new civil station with water and electricity. But perhaps the strongest argument for preferring Kharagpur to Contai as the headquarters of the new district is that, owing to the proximity of Kharagpur to Midnapore, this arrangement will involve a minimum of dislocation in the transaction of business, and a minimum of change to all concerned. This is of the more importance as it is not proposed at present to make any change in the arrangements of the Judge's Court, and it will be consequently of advantage to have the executive capital of the new district within easy reach of the Judge's Court at Midnapore.

4. While the Governor in Council has decided to adhere to the general lines of the scheme of July, 1913, he was impressed with the arguments contained in a largely signed memorial from the residents of Panskura thana, asking that their thana should remain within the subdivision of Tamluk and should not be transferred to the Sadar subdivision of Midnapore. In the scheme of July, 1913, the population of the Midnapore district would be 1,215,438, with an area of 2,806 square miles; while the population of Hijli would be 1,605,763, with an area of 2,339 square miles. The thana of Panskura has a population of 143,991 and an area of 152 square miles. If, therefore, the request of the memorialists be granted the two districts will be practically equal in area, but there will be a marked preponderance of population on the side of Hijli. It is probable, however, that the expansion of population will be more rapid in Midnapore than in Hijli, and in any case His Excellency in Council considers that the convenience of the people of Panskura should be the governing factor. He has, therefore, decided to retain Panskura in the Tamluk subdivision of Hijli.

5. His Excellency in Council has made special enquiries regarding a suggestion put forward by the Nawab Bahadur of Murshidabad to the effect that the pargana of Nayagram should be included in the Sadar subdivision of Hijli and not in the Jhargram subdivision of Midnapore. He recognises that the proposed change would occasion some convenience to the managing staff of the Nawab Bahadur. The tenants of the pargana are, however, mainly aboriginals, who would experience no inconvenience in going to Jhargram. Moreover, the Governor in Council is greatly impressed with the importance of retaining, as far as possible, all the aboriginals in the same district, as the work of administering areas inhabited by such people is of a special character. He, therefore, regrets that he cannot see his way to accept the suggestion of the Nawab Bahadur.

6. A representative of the Midnapore Zamindari Company was a member of the deputation which waited upon His Excellency on the 4th November 1914. He concurred with the other members of the deputation in deprecating any partition. It appears, however, from the manager's official letter of 12th September, 1913, that the Company has no objection to the scheme of partition as put forward in the Government Resolution of July, 1913, provided only that a small portion of the Bahadurpur estate, consisting of 34 square miles on the right bank of the Cossye river, be included in the district of Midnapore and not in the district of Hijli. The Governor in Council has already taken steps for the inclusion of this area in the thana of Jhargram. When, therefore, the proposed partition is carried out, this area will be in the Midnapore district and the definite objection of the Zamindari Company will have been removed. The change which has been made will also apparently meet the wishes of the residents of Bahadurpur who presented petition No. 15, mentioned above.

7. As regards petition No. 10, which contains a suggestion for the establishment of a new subdivision at Dantan, the Governor in Council recognises that sooner or later it may be necessary to open a new subdivision in the district of Hijli. When the time comes he will bear this suggestion in mind.

8. Petition No. 20, received from Babu Bir Narayan Jana and others, contains suggestions which would involve an alteration not only in the boundaries of Midnapore but also in those of Howrah or Bankura. The Governor in Council considers that the districts of Howrah and Bankura do not require any enlargement and he is not prepared to pursue further the suggestions contained in this petition.

9. The other petitions either deal with the general policy of partition or put forward arguments for the selection of Contai or Tamluk as the head-quarters of a new district. In view of the preceding remarks it is unnecessary to discuss these petitions in further detail. The Governor in Council has decided that the partition should be proceeded with, and that the scheme contained in the Resolution of July, 1913, should be adopted with the modifications already explained in connection with the thana of Panskura and the estate of Bahadurpur. The scheme which has been finally adopted is as follows :—

Proposed Midnapore district.

	Area in square miles.	Population.
I. Midnapore Sadar subdivision (consisting of thanas Midnapore, Salbani, Garhbeta, Keshpur and Debra)	1,079	414,258
II. A new subdivision to be opened at Jhargram (consisting of thanas Jhargram, Binpur and Gopiballabhpur) ...	1,237	372,793
III. Ghatal subdivision as at present (consisting of thanas Ghatal, Daspur and Chandrakona)	372	301,396
	2,688	1,088,447

Proposed Hijli district.

	Area in square miles.	Population.
I. Hijli Sadar subdivision (consisting of thanas Kharagpur, Sabang, Narayangarh and Dantan)	954	513,029
II. Contai subdivision as at present (consisting of thanas Contai, Egra, Pataspur, Bhagwanpur, Khajri and Ramnagar) ...	849	618,223
III. Tamluk subdivision as at present (consisting of thanas Tamluk, Panskura, Maslandapur, Sutahata and Nandigram)	654	601,502
	2,457	1,732,754

10. As regards the new civil buildings at Kharagpur and Jhargram the Public Works Department of this Government will be asked to consider whether it is advisable to erect, in the first instance, buildings of a permanent or temporary nature. Comparative estimates should be prepared. It is important that the establishment of the new district and the new subdivision should not be unduly delayed.

ORDER.—Ordered that this Resolution be published in the Calcutta Gazette and that it be forwarded to the Commissioner of the Burdwan Division, with the request that copies, both in English and in the vernacular, may be widely circulated within the Midnapore district.

By order of the Governor in Council,

J. G. CUMMING,

Chief Secy. to the Govt. of Bengal.

CALCUTTA, THE 2ND FEBRUARY, 1915.

RESOLUTION—No. 189Medl.

READ—

(1) Letter from the Government of India, Home Department, No. 358, dated the 4th June 1913.
(2) Letter to the Government of India, Home Department No. 44T.Medl., dated the 19th July 1913.
(3) Letter from the Government of India, Home Department, No. 844, dated the 21st September 1914.
(4) Letter to the Government of India, Home Department, No. 5049Medl., dated the 5th November 1914.
(5) Letter from the Government of India, Home Department, No 1159, dated the 3rd December 1914.

IN connection with a scheme for the improvement of the pay and prospects of the Civil Assistant Surgeons in Bengal, which was sanctioned by the Government of India in Home Department Resolution No. 1142—50, dated the 22nd August 1898, it was decided for the first time that a certain number of Civil Surgeoncies should be opened to this class of officers. The pay to be drawn by a Civil Assistant Surgeon when appointed to a Civil Surgeoncy was then fixed at Rs. 350—30—500 a month. In 1912 the pay and prospects of the Civil Assistant Surgeons in Bengal were generally revised, but the rate of pay to be drawn by these officers holding Civil Surgeoncies was left unaltered. The question of improving their pay has, however, since been under consideration, and the Government of India have now decided in the Home Department letter No. 844, dated the 21st September 1914, cited in the preamble, that the pay of Civil Assistant Surgeons appointed to be Civil Surgeons in Bengal should be raised from Rs. 350—30—500 to Rs. 400—40—600 a month. These orders will have effect from the 21st September 1914.

2. The Government of India have also subsequently sanctioned in Home Department letter No. 1159, dated the 3rd December 1914, the following concessions to the Civil Assistant Surgeons appointed to officiate as Civil Surgeons, viz. :—

(i) that Civil Assistant Surgeons officiating as Civil Surgeons should be allowed, irrespective of their grade, to draw the full minimum pay of the post, in recognition of their higher status and increased responsibilities and of the additional expenses incidental to short incumbencies ; and

(ii) that when a Civil Assistant Surgeon has drawn pay at the rate of Rs. 400 per mensem for a year as a Civil Surgeon, officiating or substantive, he should be eligible for his first increment in the scale of pay of Civil Assistant Surgeons promoted to Civil Surgeoncies.

These orders will have effect from the 3rd December 1914.

ORDER :—Ordered that a copy of this Resolution be published in the Calcutta Gazette, and that a copy be forwarded to the Surgeon-General with the Government of Bengal and to the Accountant-General, Bengal, for information and guidance.

By order of the Governor in Council,

H. L. STEPHENSON,
Secretary to the Govt. of Bengal.

In exercise of the power conferred by section 221 of the Bengal Municipal Act, 1884 (Bengal Act III of 1884), and upon the application of the Commissioners of the Sonamukhi Municipality, in the district of Bankura, made in pursuance of a resolution passed at a meeting specially convened to consider the question, the Governor in Council is pleased to extend all provisions of Part X of that Act to the said Municipality.

No. 231M.—The 1st February 1915.—In exercise of the power conferred by section 290 of the Bengal Municipal Act, 1884 (Bengal Act III of 1884), the Governor in Council makes, in supersession of the Rules published under Notification No. 228M., dated the 15th January 1897, at page 12 of Part 1B of the Calcutta Gazette of the 20th idem, the following rules, subject to which the Commissioners of the Howrah Municipality may allow communication-pipes to be laid down from the service-pipes of the Commissioners for the purpose of leading water to holdings within the Municipality for domestic purposes only :—

Howrah.

Rules.

So long as the Commissioners deem it practicable and consistent with the maintenance of an efficient water-supply, they may allow the owner or occupier of any holding paying a water-rate imposed under the provisions of Part VII of the Bengal Municipal Act, 1884, on the annual value of such holding, when such annual value is not less than Rs. 50 or such higher amount as may be fixed from time to time by the Commissioners at a meeting, to lay communication-pipes from the service-pipes of the Commissioners for the purpose of leading water to such holding for domestic purposes only, subject to the following rules and conditions :—

1. The owner or occupier of any holding requiring water to be laid on to such holding for domestic purposes, or requiring any addition or alteration to an existing water-supply, must apply for the same on a printed form to be supplied free of cost at the Municipal office ; and the work must be commenced within three months from the date of sanction, failing which the sanction shall be deemed to be withdrawn, and a fresh application and sanction shall be required.

2. Before any work is commenced every such owner or occupier must pay to the Commissioners such fee as the Commissioners in meeting may from time to time direct, under section 301 of the Act, for each new connection and also a fee of Re. 1 for each addition to, or alteration in, an existing connection, such fee to be in addition to all other costs and charges imposed under these rules.

3. No persons other than the Licensed Plumbers will be allowed to execute any work in connection with the supply of water to any holding as contemplated in Part VII of the Bengal Municipal Act.

4. (1) The owner or occupier of the holding in respect of which the connection is required must bear the entire cost thereof, including the cost of the supply and fixing of the fittings referred to in rule 8.

(2) The applicant for the connection will also be liable for the cost of such alterations in, or repairs to, roads, drains, sewers, gas or water-mains, or pipes and the cost of such other works as may be necessitated by, or result from, the work of making such connection, and also all charges for which the Commissioners may become liable in respect of any of the matters referred to in this sub-rule.

5. Each holding must have a separate connection, and extensions from the communication-pipe of one holding to another shall not be permitted. Connections, however, may be allowed from a common communication-pipe provided that such pipe is laid in a street or common passage, and that separate stop-cock and metre is fixed to each such connection.

6. Every connection with municipal water-mains must be made under the supervision of an officer appointed by the Commissioners in this behalf, and no such connection shall be made except at such time as may be appointed, and in such position as may be selected, by an authorized Municipal officer.

7. No connection shall be allowed to the rising main except with the permission of the Commissioners at a meeting.

8. A holding connection shall comprise the following parts or fittings :—

(a) a brass or gun-metal ferrule inserted in the main supply-pipe ;
(b) a galvanized iron communication-pipe from the ferrule to the meter ;
(c) a stop-cock and its surface box ;
(d) a meter ;
(e) service-pipes from the stop-cock to the taps ; and
(f) taps.

9. Of the fittings referred to in rule 8, those specified under (a), (c), (d) and (f) shall, subject to the approval of a Municipal officer authorized in this behalf, be supplied by the Licensed Plumbers at such rates as may from time to time be fixed by the Commissioners in meeting.

10. All communication-pipes and service-pipes shall be inspected and stamped by an officer authorized by the Commissioners before being fixed.

11. The size of the ferrule and the diameter of the communication-pipe referred to in clauses (a) and (b) of rule 8 and the number of taps should be fixed in accordance with the annual valuation of the holdings as follows :—

Annual valuation of holding.	Size of ferrule.	Diameter of communication-pipe	Number of taps.
Under Rs. 200 ...	½"	½"	2
From Rs. 200 to 499 ...	½"	½"	3
From „ 500 to 799 ...	⅝"	⅝"	4
From „ 800 to 1,199 ...	½"	¾"	5
From „ 1,200 to 1,999 ...	⅝"	⅞"	6
From „ 2,000 to 3,000 ...	¾"	1"	7

Over Rs. 3,000 one additional tap for every additional Rs. 1,000 in the annual valuation of the holding :

Provided that though the communication-pipe shall not ordinarily be more than ¼" larger in diameter than the ferrule, yet the Engineer may, under special circumstances, fix the size of the communication-pipe with reference to the length of the pipe and the prevailing pressure.

12. The holding connection, when fitted in position, must be capable of standing a pressure of 100 feet, and no water shall be supplied until this test has been applied by the Commissioners.

13. No connection shall be allowed to any holding unless the Engineer is satisfied that such holding is provided with means of efficient drainage for waste water.

14. (a) On every communication-pipe, a brass or gun-metal stop-cock, having the same waterway as such pipe, shall be placed outside the holding to be supplied, but as near as practicable to the point where that pipe enters the holding.

(b) The stop-cock shall be built in a brick-chamber provided with a surface cover-box so designed that it can be locked, and the key of this box shall remain under the control of the Chairman.

(c) The stop-cock shall be capable of adjustment so that the supply to the holding may be regulated thereby.

15. (a) The meter shall be placed as near to the stop-cock as possible and in a position where it can be conveniently examined.

(b) The meter must be fixed in a brick-chamber covered over with a surface box of approved pattern.

16. The Commissioners shall depute an authorized person to read every meter not less than once a quarter and shall give notice to the occupier at least twenty-four hours before the reading is recorded.

17. Every tap shall be of the same size as the pipe to which it is attached, and shall be of brass and of the pattern known as screw-down, or of such other pattern as may from time to time be approved by the Commissioners at a meeting. Every tap shall, except with the special permission of the Commissioners, be at least three feet above the road-level.

18. No communication-pipe or service-pipe shall be laid along or adjacent to any drain or watercourse or in any place where, in the opinion of the Engineer, there is risk or likelihood of the water in such pipe becoming contaminated.

19. Whenever a communication-pipe has to be laid across a sewer or open drain, or in any place where, in the opinion of the Engineer, it is liable to injury, such pipe must be passed through a cast-iron pipe of sufficient length and strength to afford due protection.

20. The Commissioners may cut off the connection between any water-works of the Municipality and any holding to which water is supplied from such works, or may turn off such supply, in any of the following cases, namely :—

(a) if the holding is unoccupied ;

(b) if the occupier refuses to admit any officer duly empowered in that behalf into the holding for the purpose of making any examination or inspection authorized under this Act or under any bye-law or rule framed under this Act, or prevents such officer from making such examination or inspection ;

(c) if the owner or occupier of the holding touches or interferes with his meter in any way except with the permission of the Chairman, or wilfully or negligently injures or damages it;

(d) if the owner or occupier of the holding wilfully or negligently permits waste of water in such volume as will, in the opinion of the Chairman, endanger the water-supply in the neighbourhood;

(e) if the owner or occupier of any holding which is supplied with water under these rules shall refuse or neglect to pay any of the fees or charges imposed in accordance with these rules for a space of fourteen days after he has been served with a notice of demand for the same:

Provided that such disconnection or turning off of water-supply shall not relieve any person from any liabilities which he may have incurred under these rules.

In the circumstances contemplated in clause (d) an officer authorized by the Commissioners in this behalf by a general order shall have the power to turn off the supply for a period not exceeding eight hours on his previously recording his reason in writing.

21. In all cases in which disputes arise as to the size or quality of pipes or fittings or in which these rules do not apply an appeal against the orders of the Chairman or Engineer, as the case may be, shall lie to the Commissioners in meeting, whose decision shall be final, provided that no appeal shall lie against an order passed under rule 20 unless and until such order has been complied with.

BRITISH POSSESSIONS.

Caution when Approaching British Ports.

No. 17 (third publication).—The following particulars, etc., relative to the above, issued by the British Admiralty (No. 1805 of 1914), are republished:—

PART I.

CLOSING OF PORTS.

Former Notice.—No. 1 of 1914 (This Office No. 74 of 1914), hereby cancelled.

(1) My Lords Commissioners of the Admiralty, having taken into consideration the fact that local or other circumstances may arise in which it may be necessary, on account of periodical exercises, manœuvres, or otherwise, to forbid all entrance to certain ports of the Empire, this is to give notice that on approaching the shores of the United Kingdom, or any of the ports or localities of the British Empire, referred to in Part III of this Notice, a sharp look-out should be kept for the signals described in the following paragraph, and for the vessels mentioned in paragraph (5), Part II of this Notice, and the distinguishing and other signals made by them. In the event of such signals being displayed, the port or locality should be approached with great caution, as it may be apprehended that obstructions may exist.

(2) If entrance to a port is prohibited, three red vertical lights by night, or three red vertical balls by day, will be exhibited in some conspicuous position, in or near to its approach, which signals will also be shown by the vessels indicated in paragraph (5), Part II, of this Notice.

If these signals are displayed, vessels must either proceed to the position marked "Examination Anchorage" on the Admiralty charts and anchor there, or keep the sea.

(3) At all the ports or localities at home or abroad referred to in Part III of this Notice, search-lights are occasionally exhibited for exercise.

Instructions have been given to avoid directing moveable search-lights during practice on to vessels under way, but mariners are warned that great care should be taken to keep a sharp look-out for the signals indicated in paragraph (2) above, when search-lights are observed to be working.

PART II.

EXAMINATION SERVICE.

(4) Under certain circumstances it may become necessary to take special measures to examine vessels desiring to enter the ports or localities at home or abroad, referred to in Part III of this Notice.

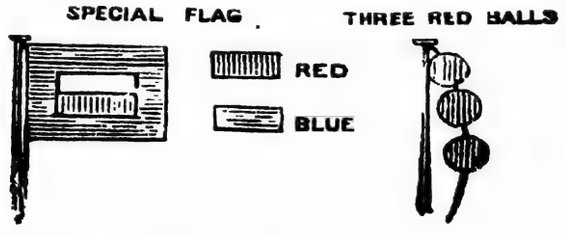
(5) In such case, vessels carrying the distinguishing flags or lights mentioned in paragraph (7) will be charged with the duty of examining ships which desire to enter the ports and of allotting positions in which they shall anchor. If Government vessels, or vessels belonging to the local port authority, are found patrolling in the offing, merchant vessels are advised to communicate with such vessels with a view to obtaining information as to the course on which they should approach the Examination anchorage. Such communication will not be necessary in cases where the pilot on board has already received this information from the local authorities.

(6) As the institution of the Examination Service at any port will never be publicly advertised, especial care should be taken in approaching the ports, by day or night, to keep a sharp look-out for any vessel carrying the flags or lights mentioned in paragraph (7), and to be ready to "bring to" at once when hailed by her or warned by the firing of a gun or sound rocket.

In entering by night any of the ports mentioned in Part III, serious delay and risk will be avoided if four efficient all round lamps, two red and two white, are kept available for use.

(7) By day the distinguishing flags of the Examination Steamer will be a special flag (white and red horizontal surrounded by a blue border) and a blue ensign.

Also, three red vertical balls if the port is closed.



By night the steamer will carry :—

(a) Three red vertical lights if the port is closed.
(b) Three white vertical lights if the port is open.

The above lights will be carried in addition to the ordinary navigation lights, and will show an unbroken light around the horizon.

(8) Masters are warned that, before attempting to enter any of these ports when the Examination Service is in force, they must in their own interests strictly obey all instructions given to them by the Examination Steamer. In the absence of any instructions from the Examination Steamer they must proceed to the position marked "Examination Anchorage" on the Admiralty Charts and anchor there, or keep the sea.

Whilst at anchor in the Examination Anchorage, Masters are warned that they must not lower any boats (except to avoid accident), communicate with the shore, work cables, move the ship, or allow anyone to leave the ship, without permission from the Examination Steamer.

(9) In case of fog, Masters of vessels are enjoined to use the utmost care, and the Examination Anchorage itself should be approached with caution.

(10) Merchant vessels when approaching ports are specially cautioned against making use of private signals of any description, either by day or night: the use of them will render a vessel liable to be fired on.

(11) The pilots attached to the ports will be acquainted with the regulations to be followed.

SWEEPING OPERATIONS.

H.M. Vessels are constantly engaged in sweeping operations off ports in the United Kingdom.

Whilst so engaged, they work in pairs, connected by a wire hawser, and are consequently hampered to a very considerable extent in their manœuvring powers.

With a view to indicating the nature of the work on which these vessels are engaged, they will show the following signals :—

A black ball at the foremost head and a similar ball at the yardarm, or where it can best be seen, on that side on which it is dangerous for vessels to pass.

For the public safety, all other vessels, whether steamers or sailing craft, must keep out of the way of vessels flying this signal, and should especially remember that it is dangerous to pass between the vessels of a pair.

DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE, BENGAL.

Final Forecast of the Sugarcane Crop of Bengal, 1914-15.

NOTE.—On an average of the five years ending 1912-13, the area under sugarcane in Bengal represents some 9·9 per cent. of the total area under sugarcane in British India.

Character of the season.—Since the issue of the preliminary forecast, weather conditions generally proved a little more favourable till the end of September, but the defective rainfall in October followed by continued drought in November and December adversely affected the growth of the crop. The conditions, therefore, have not been wholly favourable.

Acreage.—The area planted with sugarcane this year is estimated to be 233,400 acres against 218,300 acres last year, or an increase of about 7 per cent.

Outturn.—From the Appendix attached to the Report, it will be seen that nine districts report a crop between 90 and 100 per cent., fourteen districts between 80 and 88 per cent., and the rest between 58 and 75 per cent.

According to estimates of District Officers, the total outturn of the crop for the Province works out to 82 per cent. of the normal against 86 per cent. last year.

Taking 35½ maunds as the normal rate of cane-gur per acre, the gross outturn for the Province is estimated at 4,991,700 cwts. against 4,896,500 cwts. last year.

Other sources of gur.—The total quantity of gur likely to be obtained from date palm juice is estimated at 1,809,100 cwts. and from palmyra palm juice 1,400 cwts. The total quantity of gur in the Province from all sources this year is estimated at 6,802,200 cwts.

Director of Agriculture, Bengal.

24-Parganas ...	5,100	2,900	3,300	75	85	First week of December.	Since the submission of the preliminary forecast, the weather has not been favourable owing to insufficient rainfall. The outturn is normal in Barrackpur and Basirhat, while it is poor in Baruipur and Sadar.
Nadia	7,900	6,100	5,700	92	83	First week of December. Normal.	The character of the weather was not quite favourable. The outturn is below the normal owing to drought.
Murshidabad ...	3,600	3,300	3,300	75	85	January to February. Normal.	The condition of the crop was not very favourable owing to want of rain from July to December which has caused damage by about two annas.
Jessore ...	6,600	3,900	3,700	85	92	November. Normal.	The weather was unfavourable. Most of the plants remained under flood-water in August and September.
Khulna ...	1,300	1,300	1,300	100	100	End of September. Normal.	The weather was favourable. The outturn is normal.
Burdwan ...	25,800	23,700	23,300	85	75	Not yet commenced.	In July and August the rainfall was above the normal, but from September there was almost complete cessation of rain thus affecting the crop considerably. The injury caused by the drought may amount to three annas.
Birbhum ...	9,000	7,000	9,000	75	58	Not yet begun ...	The weather was not favourable. Excessive rainfall after the submission of the first forecast, and drought towards the end of the year caused damage by about five annas.
Bankura ...	15,000	10,500	10,500	92	100	Not yet commenced.	The weather and general condition of the crop are good.
Midnapore ...	3,000	3,000	3,000	80	90	Beginning of January. Normal.	From July to September the weather was favourable, but the want of rain from October to middle of December, has caused the outturn to fall below the normal by about 10 per cent.
Hooghly ...	7,200	6,300	5,900	66	97	November. Normal.	The weather was fair from July to August, but the cessation of rain in September caused some damage to the crop. Hence the outturn has slightly fallen below the normal.
Howrah ...	8,500	4,800	4,000	67	69	Beginning of January. Normal.	The weather was not favourable. Incessant rain in July and August and want of rain from September to November has caused the outturn to fall below the normal.
Rajshahi ...	16,000	13,200	13,100	80	80	Middle of November. Normal.	The weather was favourable from July to October but it was not good since then owing to want of timely rain. Hence the outturn is below the normal.
Dinajpur ...	25,000	29,800	30,300	84	87	Beginning of November. Normal.	The weather was not quite favourable. The want of rain retarded the growth of the crop. Hence the outturn has fallen below the normal.
Jalpaiguri ...	5,300	4,300	4,300	84	91	1st week of November. Normal.	The weather was generally favourable, but some injury caused by drought.
Darjeeling ...	1,200	100	100	65	62	December. Early.	The weather was not favourable. The fall in the outturn below the normal is due to injury caused by drought.
Rangpur ...	20,500	14,000	11,400	100	100	1st week of December. Normal.	The weather was favourable although the rainfall since the submission of the preliminary forecast was deficient.

DEPARTMENT OF STATISTICS, INDIA.

TRADE FLUCTUATIONS.

PRINCIPAL STAPLES IMPORTED INTO AND EXPORTED FROM CALCUTTA IN THE SEVEN MONTHS OF APRIL TO OCTOBER 1914.

THE following tables are intended to show the trade of Calcutta in selected articles during the months of April to October 1914 by all routes, i.e., by rail, road, river, canal and sea. The statistics have been compiled from returns furnished by the Collector of Customs, Calcutta, Railway Audit Offices, Steamer Companies, the Commissioners for the Port of Calcutta, the District Magistrates of the 24-Parganas and Howrah, and the Assistant Engineer, Calcutta Canals.

Table I summarises briefly the imports into and exports from Calcutta of staples during the month of October 1914 as against the corresponding period of 1913.

Tables II—VII give in detail the imports into and exports from Calcutta for the seven months ending October 1914.

The total imports into Calcutta in the seven months of April to October 1914 of rice, wheat, wheat-flour, gram and pulse and other food-grains were 18,000,000 maunds, as against 23,000,000 maunds and 29,000,000 maunds in the corresponding periods of 1913 and 1912. But although trade in food-grains declined generally, the imports of rice and wheat-flour showed an increase of about 1,000,000 and 50,000 maunds, respectively, in the seven months of 1914, as compared with the corresponding seven months of 1913. The total imports of wheat, however, declined from 5,200,000 maunds in the seven months of 1913 to 2,600,000 maunds in the same period of 1914. The imports of husked rice and paddy were 12,549,000 maunds, as against 11,142,000 maunds in the corresponding period of 1913. The district of 24-Parganas supplied Calcutta with a little less than half of the total imports of rice received from Bengal. It will also be observed that Burma exported 7,600,000 maunds of rice and paddy to Calcutta, as against 4,300,000 maunds received from the interior of Bengal.

There were also decreases in the imports of coal and coke, cotton raw, Indian cotton piece-goods, jute, rape and mustard, raw silk, sugar (refined and unrefined) and unmanufactured tobacco, while indigo, cotton twist and yarn, gunny-bags, lac, tea and manufactured tobacco were imported into Calcutta in somewhat larger quantities. Of the Rs. 98,00,000 of Indian cotton piece-goods imported into Calcutta, Rs. 63,00,000 came from Bombay, Rs. 13,00,000 from the district of Hooghly and Rs. 9,00,000 from the Central Provinces and Berar. More than Rs. 41,00,000 worth of piece-goods were imported viâ the Bengal-Nagpur Railway and about Rs. 34,00,000 viâ the Eastern Bengal State Railway.

Among the articles of import, jute, owing to war conditions, shows a very serious fall—only 1,732,000 bales were imported into Calcutta in the seven months, April to October 1914, as compared with 3,251,000 bales in the corresponding period of 1913. Jute was received chiefly from Faridpur (363,000 bales), followed by Dacca (291,000 bales), Mymensingh (211,000 bales), 24-Parganas (148,000 bales), and Rangpur 132,000 bales). Over 151,000,000 gunny-bags were imported almost entirely from the districts of Hooghly and the 24-Parganas. The exports of the number of gunny-bags were 484,000,000, of which 461,000,000 went to foreign countries, 21,000,000 to the United Kingdom, 13,000,000 to Burma, 4,000,000 to Bombay, and 3,000,000 to Sind.

There has likewise been a decline in the exports by sea of food-grains. In the seven months of April to October 1913, the exports of rice amounted to 5,179,000 maunds, wheat to 2,042,000 maunds, gram and pulse 2,438,000 maunds and other food-grains 1,411,000 maunds. In the corresponding period of 1914 the exports were : rice 3,108,000 maunds, wheat 97,000 maunds, gram and pulse 834,000 maunds and other food-grains 78,000 maunds. For the seven months of 1914, therefore, the total exports of food-grains were 4,388,000 maunds, as against 11,435,000 maunds in 1913.

FREE-STUDENTSHIPS AT THE KRISHNAGAR COLLEGE.

GENERAL DEPARTMENT.

EDUCATION.

CALCUTTA, THE 9TH FEBRUARY 1915.

RESOLUTION—No. 670.

IN 1846 His Honour the Deputy Governor of Bengal was pleased to grant to each donor to the Krishnagar College beyond the amount of Rs. 1,000 the privilege of sending one free student to that institution and an additional free student for every Rs. 500 beyond that amount. Thirteen free-studentships were accordingly placed at the disposal of six donors as follows :—

(1)	Maharaja Srish Chandra Ray Bahadur of Nadia	5 free-studentships.
(2)	Babu Bamun Das Mukerji, Zamindar of Ula	4 Ditto.
(3)	,, Sambhu Nath Mukerji, Zamindar of Ula	1 free-studentship.
(4)	,, Chandra Mohan Ray, Zamindar of Nakashipur	1 Ditto.
(5)	,, Srigopal Pal Chaudhuri, Zamindar of Ranaghat	1 Ditto.
(6)	,, Chandra Kumar Pal Chaudhuri, Zamindar of Ranaghat ...	1 Ditto.

The right to make nominations for free-studentships was exercised by the heirs of the original donors until 1909, when the Director of Public Instruction decided that the grant made to the original donors in 1846 did not confer a privilege in perpetuity and ordered that no further nominations should be accepted. This order was, however, subsequently rescinded in view of the fact that the right of the heirs to nominate free students had been exercised without interruption for so long a period and had been mentioned as a privilege in perpetuity in all University Calendars since 1860, without contradiction, and in an appendix to the General Report on Public Instruction in Bengal for 1871-72. The Director of Public Instruction accordingly informed the Principal of the Krishnagar College in September 1910 that, while the announcement in the University Calendar had no sanction, the heirs of the original donors would thenceforward be allowed to continue the exercise of the power to nominate free students in the terms of the original grant. The Principal was at the same time informed that no claims to exercise this privilege would be admitted until the claimants had adduced evidence of their title to represent an original donor. He was accordingly requested to submit a statement showing the names of the representatives of the original donors and the evidence of their title. The Principal then raised the question of the procedure to be followed in the case of any difference arising among the several legal representatives of a particular donor regarding their right of nomination. He suggested that the Governing Body of the College might be empowered to settle these differences. This suggestion was accepted by the Director of Public Instruction, who passed orders accordingly in January 1911. The Governing Body then proceeded to distribute the right to award free-studentships among the representatives of the original donors. The distribution then made was challenged by Babu Girindra Nath Mukerji, a grandson of Babu Baman Das Mukerji, in respect of the four nominations granted originally to his grandfather, but the Governing Body adhered to its decision. After appealing without success to the Director of Public Instruction, Babu Girindra Nath Mukerji addressed a memorial on the subject to His Excellency the Governor.

2. The Governor in Council has now decided to lay down a definite principle according to which the heirs of the original donors will be permitted to make nominations to free-studentships at the Krishnagar College. He accordingly declares that the privilege of nomination to free-studentships granted to the original donors to the Krishnagar College shall descend to their lineal heirs male according to the custom of primogeniture, the eldest male of the eldest branch being preferred. In making this declaration His Excellency in Council desires to emphasize the fact that the Government are under no legal obligation whatever to grant this privilege to the heirs of the original donors. Its concession must be considered purely as an act of grace and as in no way binding upon Government, who reserve to themselves full power to withdraw the privilege should they at any time consider such a step either necessary or desirable.

ORDER.—Ordered that a copy of the Resolution be published in the Calcutta Gazette and that a copy of it be forwarded to the Director of Public Instruction, Bengal, for information and necessary action.

Ordered also that a copy be forwarded to Babu Girindra Nath Mukerji, for information.

By order of the Governor in Council,

H. F. SAMMAN,
Secretary to the Govt. of Bengal.
